

The Newberry Herald.

A Family Companion, Devoted to Literature, Miscellany, News, Agriculture, Markets, &c.

Vol. X.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAY 20, 1874.

No. 20.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Advertisements inserted at the rate of $1.00 per square...

Notices of meetings, obituaries and notices of respect, same rates per square as ordinary advertisements.

Special notices in local column 20 cents per line.

Advertisements not marked with the number of insertions will be kept in full force and charged accordingly.

Special contracts made with large advertisers, with liberal discounts on all rates.

JOB PRINTING

Done with Neatness and Dispatch.

Terms Cash.

[From the Columbia Phoenix.]

Planters, Help Yourselves.

Mr. Error: The class of immigrants required in this country at the present time are those with a little capital, and who are inclined to settle down and make good citizens.

Planters, help yourselves by helping others. Why impoverish yourselves by remaining in possession of a quantity of land upon which you can barely pay taxes, and cannot cultivate.

Another very noticeable characteristic of German humor is a certain wonderful species of simplicity that nearly always accompanies it. This suggests, somehow, the deep, hearty, and thoroughly enjoyable enjoyment a child exhibits over some piece of fun in which older persons would find it very hard to discover any point at all.

It is but a few months since I had the pleasure of coming amongst you during my sojourn. I have received the greatest courtesy in your welfare in consequence.

Encourage Your Children.—Encourage your workers with almost anybody, no matter what his occupation in life may be.

Some parents often make a mistake in not giving their children credit when they do a thing well, and some unintentionally lead a lesson that has been studied hard or a piece of work that has been well done by a boy or girl, to pass without the least notice.

An "affair of honor" may be looked for soon in Brooklyn. An affectionate wife recently found pieces of an ostrich plume in her husband's beard—and the plume was not her own.

Heroism is limited, after all. A girl, who the other day, jumped into Merrimac River and rescued a drowning child, fainted away when she saw her false curls floating down stream.

The Shah of Persia wants Mrs. Colt, widow of the great fire-arm manufacturer, to come over to his delightful country and make horse pistols for the Mohammedans.

A boy at Danville, Ill., had his skull fractured while playing baseball. It is said to think of the death of one so full of promise so early in the baseball season.

Poetry.

THE MARCH OF THE WORLDS.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

As I sit by my fretted easement, And look on the waiting night, The worlds in their diamond splendor Pass quietly out of my sight.

They are steadily wending onward In the endless path of time, By worlds that are yet unuttered In the science of human mind.

On other worlds than these, And are fanned by other zephyrs, And washed by other seas.

"don't you see what a confusion you are creating among these insects which I have so carefully classified? I beg you will interrupt my studies no longer. Go and finish reading that Report of the English Convention for the Amelioration of Workmen."

"What are you crying for? A well-regulated woman never cries."

"I wish I wasn't a woman!" sobbed poor Lizzy. "I wish I wasn't something that had to be elevated, and improved and cultivated. Oh! mamma, darling, you weren't in earnest when you said you wouldn't consent to my marrying Charles."

"We shall be so happy together; and he says he will be miserable without me; and—"

"Elizabeth, I am astonished at you! Of course I was in earnest! I have neither gold nor jewels to lay on the shrine of the cause; but I have a daughter, and I intend to show the world what a woman, unshackled and unfettered, can be capable of! You, Elizabeth, should glory in thus becoming an offering!"

"But Lizzy, apparently unappreciative of the great lot in store for her, cried more piteously than ever: 'Tears will not melt me,' said Mrs. Dewford, calmly resuming the Encyclopedia. 'I only regret to be the mother of so degenerate a daughter!'"

"Mamma," ventured poor Lizzy after a few minutes of silent grieving, "I—I promised Charles to ride out with him this afternoon."

"You must give him up, Elizabeth. Upon such a subject I can accept no compromise!"

"But I promised, mamma!"

Mrs. Dewford gravely rubbed the end of her nose.

"A promise is a promise, Elizabeth; nor shall I require of you to break it. Here Lizzy visibly brightened. But I shall accompany you! The pretty face became clouded and overcast once more. 'Where are you going?'"

"To the woods beyond the glen, mamma. Charles is going to get some wood sorrel for my herbarium."

"Nor will the expedition be unprofitable to me," said Mrs. Dewford, gravely. "There are many choice varieties of Adiantum and Asplenium to be found in these woods, and my collection of native ferns is as yet incomplete."

And Lizzy went away in great consternation—not to read reports, nor to study paleontology, but to slip out in the garden, where a great rose tree carpeted the velvet grass with showers of soft pink petals at every passing breath of air, and where Charles Everett was busy cutting out sticks for carnations.

"Oh, Charles—Charles! I am so miserable."

"Lizzy, what is the matter?"

He dropped his knife, and all in dismay at her woful countenance; and Lizzy told him, to the best of her ability, what the matter was.

"Is that all?" he asked, quietly, when the recital was concluded.

"Isn't that enough!" she rejoined, piteously. "When we were going to have such a nice drive all by ourselves, and then come home by moonlight, and—"

"Don't fret, cara mia; it will be all right! So she won't consent to our marriage, eh?"

"She says most positively that she will not."

"What shall we do, Lizzy? Shall we elope quietly?"

"Oh, Charles, you know I would never marry without her consent."

"And are two lives to be made miserable just because she thinks matrimony is a mistake?" he asked gravely.

"I suppose so, Charles."

Lizzy Dewford's pretty head dropped like a rose in the rain—Charles watched her quivering lip and tear-wet eye-lashes, and said no more.

Mrs. Dewford was ready with a preposterous green umbrella to keep off the sun, a tin case to put the ferns in, an extra pair of boots, in the event of swampy walking, when Mr. Everett's light platoon drove up to the door. The springs creaked ominously as she stepped in; and Lizzy, meekly following, was nearly overwhelmed by her mother's voluminous draperies.

"I had better sit in the middle—it preserves the equilibrium of the vehicle better," said Mrs. Dewford, wedging herself in between Lizzy and Mr. Everett with a smile of great complacency.

of the green umbrella, which veered to and fro like a ship in a storm, as Mrs. Dewford's tale waxed in interest.

Suddenly she checked herself, as her eye caught a cluster of green waving vegetation on the crestlike point of a rock which overhung the road.

"Charles! Charles!" she cried, 'stop a minute. Can't you reach that Asplenium Eburnum?'"

"Isn't this it, ma'am?" said Mr. Everett, making a dive at a tall stalk of something.

"No, no; not that—the little green thing with the black stem!"

"This, ma'am," hazarded Charles, clenching at a fat-leaved cluster of weedy growth."

"Oh, dear, dear, Charles, how stupid you are!" sighed Mrs. Dewford. "I'll jump out and get it myself!"

"Mamma!" remonstrated Lizzy. "Oh, I'll help her!" nodded Charles, and pulling Mrs. Dewford by main force up the rock. "Here you are, ma'am!"

"Yes," panted Mrs. Dewford; 'but—but it was very steep. I really think women should devote more attention to gymnastics. Oh, here's the Asplenium—very choice specimens, too. Charles, where are you going?'"

For Mr. Everett had sprang back into the pheton.

"Only for a little turn, ma'am, while you are collecting your botanical treasures."

"Yes, but Charles—"

Mrs. Dewford's words of remonstrance were drowned in the rattle of the wheels, as Mr. Everett drove briskly away, with Lizzy nestling up to his side. One long, lingering glance she gave after the departing pair, and then turned to her tin case and umbrella.

"They'll be back presently," she said.

But the afternoon sunlight faded off from the cliff, and the red orb of day sank majestically down behind the evergreen glens that bounded the western horizon, and Mrs. Dewford grieved, and crossed, and rheumatic, and still, like the character of romance, 'they came not."

"Something has happened!" cried the prophetic soul of Mrs. Dewford. "It can't be possible that I shall have to stay here all night!"

She looked nervously round. It was a tall, steep cliff whereon she stood, cut off from the wood; beyond by the rush and roar of a wide and by no means shallow stream on one side; while on the other three it was almost perpendicular, rising some twenty feet up from the road. Mrs. Dewford began to feel, as she surveyed it, very much like St. Simeon Stylites on his column in the wilderness.

"If they shouldn't come," she thought.

But at the same instant a welcome ruffling of wheels broke the hushed stillness of the seldom traveled mountain road, and Mrs. Dewford's strained eyes caught sight of Mr. Everett's spirited gray, dashing round the curve of the hill.

"Well," she cried, "I never was more thankful for anything in my life! I'm tired to death, waiting."

"Are you?" said Charles Everett, as he checked the horse in the middle of the road.

"Yes. Why don't you drive closer?" sharply demanded Mrs. Dewford.

"Oh, did you want to drive home with us?"

"Why, of course I did! I'd have been home long ago if I could have got off this place."

"Well, ma'am," said Charles, in accents of the coolest deliberation, while Lizzy clung, frightened and yet smiling, to his side. "I shall be very happy to help you off the cliff on one condition."

"Condition? Charles Everett! indignantly exclaimed the astonished and indignant matron: 'what do you mean?'"

"Simply this, Mrs. Dewford. I want to marry your daughter. But Lizzy, like a too dutiful child, will not become my wife without your consent."

"Which she shall never have!" said Mrs. Dewford emphatically. "Very well, ma'am! Gee up, Whitey; and he shook the reins. 'You're not going to leave me here!' shrieked Mrs. Dewford, in a panic of terror. 'Unless you comply with my condition, ma'am, I most certainly shall.' 'And that condition is—' 'Your consent to my marriage with your daughter!' 'Elizabeth!' cried Mrs. Dewford, 'will you be a witness to this—this atrocious conduct, and not interfere?'"

Mrs. Dewford gave a hollow groan. Mr. Everett touched his horse slightly with the whip.

"Stop!" cried Mrs. Dewford. "I consent—but it is under protest!"

"You can protest all you like," said Mr. Everett, driving closer to the rock, and standing up to assist his mother-in-law elect into the phaeton.

Silently Mrs. Dewford entered the vehicle—silently she rode home—silently she crossed the threshold of her house, as became a conquered party!

"To think," she said, in a hollow voice, as she sat down to dinner, 'that after all my precepts and example, Elizabeth should end her career by getting married!'"

"Mamma," said Lizzy, timidly, "I don't think it's so very terrible, after all!"

"To think," sighed Mrs. Dewford, paying no attention to her daughter's reply, 'that you should meet the fate of an ordinary woman!'"

"But, mamma, I never had any ambition to be an extraordinary woman!"

And so was brought to a termination the plots and plans for a 'model existence' which had formed for Mrs. Dewford's daughter!

Miscellaneous.

ACTS PASSED AT THE GENERAL SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR GRANTING CERTAIN CHARTERS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of South Carolina, now met and sitting in General Assembly, and by the authority of the same:

SECTION 1. That from and after the passage of this act, charters for churches, cemeteries, fire, hook and ladder, and military companies, Free Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias Lodges, charitable and religious institutions, or societies, labor, agricultural, manufacturing, industrial, or other like societies, and companies, shall be granted by the clerk of the county wherein they reside, or propose to carry on business, or hold property. Any person desiring to obtain a charter, as provided in this act, shall make application for the same to the clerk of the court; and if, within ten days, fifty persons of the county, who may be affected or interested by the granting of the same, shall in writing, object to the granting of such charters, the clerk of the court shall refuse to grant the same, provided he considers the objections sufficient grounds for refusal, until the matter shall have been submitted to the judge of the circuit, whose duty it shall be to decide, either for or against granting the charter as shall, in his judgment, be deemed best; and to render such decision within ten days after the case shall have been submitted to him. If the judge refuses to grant the charter, then the person desiring such charter, may apply to the General Assembly for the same. If no objection, in writing, be made, the clerk of the court shall grant such charter in the following manner: Provided, That thirty days' public notice be given by the parties applying for a charter under the provisions of this act, by publishing notice of the same, in one of the papers of the county where the same may be granted. And hereafter all associations or societies named in this act, shall, before applying to the General Assembly, give ninety days' public notice, in like manner, before their application can be introduced or considered.

SECTION 2. All labor, agricultural, manufacturing, industrial, mining, or companies, or associations of like nature, shall be incorporated as follows: When a majority of the members of any such company or association shall petition to the clerk of the court of the county, wherein such association or company may be located, asking for a charter, the clerk of the court shall grant and issue to such persons the charter asked for, if no objection be made, as provided for in section 1 of this act. The charter shall read as follows: 'Know all men that, in accordance with an act entitled 'An act to provide for granting certain charters,' approved February 20, A. D. 1874, that, on the _____ day of _____, A. D. 187____, a majority of the members (or stockholders, as the case may be), of the _____, having, by petition, applied for a charter for carrying on the business of the same, subject to such rules and by-laws of the society (or association); may, also, adopt such by-laws and regulations as may be deemed proper, the same not repugnant to the laws of the land, and shall have power to receive any gift, grant, contract, device or other donation, either by will, subscription or otherwise, of real or personal property, and may sell the same, provided the amount received from such sale be reinvested in securities for the benefit of the society.'

SECTION 3. Military organizations, they are hereby, made and created a body politic and corporate, under the name and style of the _____; and, by said name, they are hereby made capable in law to carry on and conduct the business of _____, and to exercise all the powers suitable and proper for that purpose, and to hold, purchase, receive, work, sell, mortgage, lease, enjoy and retain to them, their successors and assigns, lands, tenements, goods and chattels, of whatsoever kind, as may be deemed by them conducive to the objects and interests of said corporation. The said corporation, by its corporate name, may sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, in any court of this State, and use a common seal, and alter the same at will and pleasure, make, alter and amend such by-laws and regulations as shall be deemed proper by them, not repugnant to the laws of the land. The capital stock of said _____ shall not at any time exceed the sum of _____ dollars, nor less than _____ dollars. The stock to be paid for either in money, real estate, leases, or machinery; and said stock shall be divided into as many shares as said corporation may determine, and may be made assignable and negotiable under such rules as may be prescribed by the by-laws of the said corporation. The meetings of the stockholders of the said corporation, with the power to elect such officers as may be deemed necessary for the purpose of conducting the business of the same."

SECTION 4. Charitable and religious institutions and societies of a like nature, including Freemasons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias lodges, and Temperance societies and debating clubs shall be incorporated, when a majority of the officers and members of the same shall petition the clerk of the court asking for such charter in the following form: 'This is to certify that on petition of a majority of the officers and members of _____ association (or lodge or society, as the case may be) praying for a charter in pursuance of an act entitled 'An act to provide for granting certain charters,' approved February 20, A. D. 1874, therefore, 'Know all men by these presents, _____ and their associates and successors in office be, and they are hereby declared to be, a body politic and corporate, under the name and style of the _____ of _____ county, _____ State of South Carolina, and by their corporate name may sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, in any of the courts of this State, to have, use and keep a common seal, and the same at will to alter. The said trustees may appoint such officers as they may think necessary and proper for the organization and government of their own body. And should any vacancy occur in the board of trustees, by death, resignation or otherwise, the said board shall have power to fill said vacancy. The said board of trustees and their successors shall have and hold all the estate, property and funds now belonging to said _____ and all property, funds, moneys, donations, legacies and devises which may hereafter be granted, conveyed, bequeathed, devised or given to said _____ in trust, nevertheless, _____ the President shall have power and authority to confer and award such distinction, honors, licenses and degrees as are usually conferred by similar _____ of the United States.'

SECTION 5. Jockey, yacht, sporting, shooting, game or other clubs of similar nature may be incorporated as is provided for military organization by this act, the amount of property not to exceed the sum of fifty thousand dollars. The corporation shall be made jointly and separately liable for all debts incurred by such incorporation or agencies of the same.

SECTION 6. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 7. When any person shall apply for a charter as provided for by the provisions of this act, the clerk of the court shall cause the same to be filled out, signed by him and sealed with the seal of the fire, hook and ladder companies, shall be incorporated when a majority of the members shall petition the clerk of the court for such charter. A charter shall be issued by the said clerk in the following form: 'Know all men. That, in accordance with an act entitled 'an act to provide for the granting of certain charters,' approved the 20th day of February, A. D. 1874, that on petition of _____ that _____ and the several persons who are, or may hereafter become members of the _____ and their associates and successors in office, be, and they are hereby, declared to be a body politic and corporate under the name and style of the _____ of _____ county, and that the said corporation may, by its corporate name, sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, in any of the courts of the State, and shall be able and empowered to purchase, have, hold, enjoy and possess, any goods, chattels, lands, tenements or real estate of whatsoever kind or nature which shall be purchased, bequeathed, or in any manner acquired by them, and the same or any part thereof, may alien, sell or convey at their will and pleasure: Provided, however, That the property as held shall not at any one time exceed the sum of twenty thousand dollars, and the said corporation shall have power to make, keep and use a common seal, and the same at will to alter, and shall have all the rights and privileges that now are or may hereafter be given by law to corporations of like nature in this State.'

SECTION 8. Universities, academies, and other institutions of learning may be incorporated by petition to the clerk of the court of the county wherein the same may be situated, signed by a majority of the trustees or board of control of the same, and the said clerk shall issue and grant the following charter: 'Know all men by these presents, That on petition of _____ in accordance with an act entitled 'an act to provide for the granting of certain charters,' approved February 20th, A. D. 1874, That _____ and the several persons who now are or may hereafter become trustees of the _____ and their associates and successors in office, be, and they are hereby, declared to be a body politic and corporate under the name and style of the _____ of _____ county, _____ for the purpose of organizing, governing and conducting a _____ in the county of _____ in the State of South Carolina. Said corporation may, by their corporate name, sue and be sued, plead and be impleaded, use and keep a common seal, and make such rules and by-laws as they may deem necessary and proper for the regulation, government and conduct of said _____; Provided, such by-laws and rules are not repugnant to the laws of the land. The said trustees may appoint such officers as they may think necessary and proper for the organization and government of their own body. And should any vacancy occur in the board of trustees, by death, resignation or otherwise, the said board shall have power to fill said vacancy. The said board of trustees and their successors shall have and hold all the estate, property and funds now belonging to said _____ and all property, funds, moneys, donations, legacies and devises which may hereafter be granted, conveyed, bequeathed, devised or given to said _____ in trust, nevertheless, _____ the President shall have power and authority to confer and award such distinction, honors, licenses and degrees as are usually conferred by similar _____ of the United States.'

SECTION 9. When any person shall apply for a charter as provided for by the provisions of this act, the clerk of the court shall cause the same to be filled out, signed by him and sealed with the seal of the SECTION 10. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 11. When any person shall apply for a charter as provided for by the provisions of this act, the clerk of the court shall cause the same to be filled out, signed by him and sealed with the seal of the SECTION 12. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 13. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 14. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 15. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 16. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 17. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names, places, capital stock and name of corporation. Said blanks shall be of good paper, and not less than eighteen inches long by fourteen inches wide.

SECTION 18. That for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, the secretary of state shall furnish blanks to the clerks of court in the various counties. The blanks to be printed in accordance with the provisions of this act, and setting forth the privileges granted such corporations, leaving sufficient space to insert names,