The Piedmont and Arlington Life Insurance of Virginia, continues to prosper despite the serious financial embarrassments that have oppressed the people of the Southern States during the past few years. Our people are becoming educated to the idea that by life insurance a head of a family can most certainly provide for the probable necessities of his family; oy the liberal terms of policy in the Piedmont and Arlington, if one should fail—after paying premiums for several years —he would be entitled to a paid up policy without extra pay, generally equal in amount to the payments made.

In the competition for business many liberal improvements have been adopted by the several companies canvassing for business, bat not one offers superior advantages to those guaranteed under a poli, of this staunch Virginia Corporation. 48-e.o.w. THOMPSON, Dentist, over Phifer's Store, 35-tf.
