The further spread of the conflagration, with probable destruction of the whole town and loss of several hundred thousand dollars worth of property, and many lives, was prevented by the arrival of a Great American Fire Extinguisher, an Agent happening to come in town at the nick of time. For full particulars, see the Abbeville Medium and Newberry HERALD of the following week. Mr. P. P. Toale, of Charleston, S. C., is the General Southern Agent for the Great American Fire Extinguisher, and will answer all inquiries in regard to the same.

TO SMOKERS .- Messrs. Perry & Slawson, the popular segar dealers in Columbia, are always up with the times, and therefore to keep up with the popular idea they offer great bargains to smokers. It is astonishing how they can afford to offer segars as cheap as they do, but truth is stranger than fiction, and it is only necessary to try them to be convinced. Just think of getting a whole box of segars for $1.25; think of it, and if you have the money send at once for a supply. The lumber yard of Mr. J. A. Sligh is in an active state of preparation, and the wants of our people in that line can soon be supplied. ald is incorrect in its statement that Clark, recently sentenced to the Albany penitentiary, and who made his escape while being conveyed there, belonged to Newberry. We have rascals enough here without having this one saddled on us. Clark was brought here by U. S. officers, from some where, and lodged in Newberry Jail, and his offence was illicit traffic of whiskey brought from North Carolina, and we learn that he is a colored tar heel. Give Newberry credit, Mr. Herald, all the rascals are not from here.

JUDGE MOSES AND THE GRAND JURY .- The Grand Jury, at the late term of Court, evinced an independent vigor and determination which is entitled to credit. They have made many good and wise suggestions which it is to be hoped will be acted upon. In fact, we believe they will, and that His Honor Judge Moses, who sees the propriety of these suggestions being carried out, will exert all of his influence to that end. He can do much, and will do it we have no doubt. The Grand Jury were the right men in the right place, and knowing their duty they were not afraid to do it.

SOMETHING FOR DARWIN .- Much commisseration was felt and expressed here during a portion of last week at the sad fate of a couple of monkeys which were forced to go through their little programme of antics to the vilest music ever ground out of a worn-out hand organ. Sad was their fate, indeed. The instrument must have been the first ever used in that business, and was so worn that it took two turns of the handle to produce a note, and that so sad and plaintive as almost to draw tears from the eyes of the few darkeys who went "bobbin' around" with the show. Of course the time occupied in grinding out the note made the measure slow, and the monkeys had frequently to take a rest on their tails until the next was forced out. Poor monkeys, where was Darwin? There was a dilapidated, sadeved woman in the procession, but whether she had an interest in the business or was attracted by the dolorous strains, we could not learn.

The mildness of the winter is attributed to the absence of spots on the sun. The connexion of solar spots and terrestrial temperature seems to be now well established. The man in the moon, who has so long held the office of clerk of the weather, will be forced to resign in a short time, and the spotted man of the sun will be elected in his place. Since the above was written the weather has turned much colder. A big black pimple on the left side of the spotted man's nose has just come in view, and is presumed to intercept the solar rays for a considerable time. Look out for cold weather. Men who wish to sell their overcoats better wait a little while longer. We have heard of a citizen who being lulled into secarity by the mildness of the weather, and having no special acquaintance with the spotted man and his tricks, sold his cloak last week. We sincerely pity him. We turn him over to the tender mercies of R. F. Phifer, who under the peculiar circumstances may

WELL DONE .- The farmers of Newberry County have shown themselves wise in planting so largely of small grains. They have profited by past experience, and their determination to take a step in advance will be strengthened when they begin to realize the great advantages which will result from a bountiful supply of oats, wheat and barley. They deserve "well done," and will receive it and more, for they will realize largely in a pecuniary way. If they will only follow up these crops with a liberal planting of corn this spring, then their prosperity will be sure. They will become independent hy having the food at home which heretofore they have been forced to buy. We congratulate the farmers of Newberry on the prospect ahead of them. They have passed through a fiery furnace, which has consumed many past errors, and refined, purified and enlightened by hard experience they are Maj. Jas. But, alas, he is gone no appliances at hand to fight so terriagain for another short trip. It is grati- ble a foe, the building and contents From what we learn, it was the work of an incendiary. There had been no one sleeping in the store for two or three nights preceding the fire, which fact evidently was known and taken advantage of, and the night before windows and doors were carefully barred and locked as usual, but after the alarm was given and the citizens arrived on the spot, it was discovered that one of the doors which fastened from the inside with bars, on being pushed, was found open, evidently showing that some one had been inside. There was an insurance on house and stock amounting to $4,000. No clue as yet has been found abilities are of acknowledged superior- to implicate the guilty ones, but that ity, it is needless for us to more than they will be found out is certain, Following so soon the terrible crime at Pomaria, we wonder at the boldness and audacity of this act.
