The necessity for life insurance was never so great as at present. The poverty of our people is a strong argument to induce them to husband their resources to make provision for the necessities of their wives and children, and by no means can one so effectually make the provision as by a policy of life insurance in a strong and reliable and well tested company. Such a company we have in the Piedmont and Arlington. It has con. ducted its business in this State for nine years, and secured a larger business than any other company in the South. It meets its claims promptly; it invests its assets in sound securities; and altogether conducts its business upon plans ascertained by long experience to be sound and equitable.

ARRIVED .- Coming events cast their shadows before, and the arrival of the diminutive Phæton, Shetland ponies of the smallest kind and the pigmy driver, who like the ponies is as black as Ethiop, give earnest that the General and followers are on the way. The invoice mentioned above have just rolled in as we prepare for press. The entire turnout is a perfect curiosity—and can be seen at Pool's Stable.

The Rev. H. W. Kuhns, we are informed, will return home this week, and will therefore preach in the Lutheran Church on next Sabbath.

STEALING .- On Friday night last, the store house of Mr. S. C. Merchant, living about one mile above Helena, was broken into and robbed of a quantity of meat and other provisions. In view of the hard times and scarcity, it is particularly aggravating to be raided on by worthless rascals who only live by what they can steal. Messrs. McCreery, Love & Co., continue their cheering announcement of cheap dry goods, and it may be that some of the readers of the HERALD have not yet seen their card, but this is not very probable, for it is the fashion now to read the advertisements if there is no time to read anything else in the papers, a fashion rendered absolutely necessary by the tight times and the public anxiety to find out who has the cheapest goods and the greatest variety. > CLOTHING AT COST AND UNDER .-Bargains to be had right at your own doors without any trouble. All you have to do is to go to Messrs. Wright & Coppock's with a small amount of cash. These gentlemen offer goods carried over from last Summer at cost and under. Their stock, too, of freshly arrived goods is complete and attractive not only in style and quality but in prices. The long established reputation of this house is sufficient guarantee that what these gentlemen say may be relied on. At Cost and under for cash is without a doubt just what it reads and nothing less. The reader is advised to SUIT himself now without delay.

TO THE GENTLEMEN.-The popular clothing and outfitting establishment of Messrs. R. & W. C. Swaffield, of Columbia, is once more brought before the public and especially of Newberry, in an attractive and interesting card in than all the doctors and pills in the world this issue. The Spring and Summer stock of clothing for gents' and youth is large and well selected, and offered in accordance with the prevailing cus tom at extraordinary low prices. Messrs. Swaffield, father and son, are so well known to our readers that it is unnecessary for us to say more in their behalf. than to call attention to the advertisement. We take pleasure in adding that Maj. Beck, who holds a large place in the public esteem, still presides in this establishment

> IN THE WRONG PEW .- Formerly there was but one open door between Chick's corner and O'Neill's, and that was the Post office, and all that people in quest of mail matter had to do was to follow their nose and go in at that opening. Lately, however, there has been improvement-another door stands invitingly open and this leads to the new barber shop, so it won't do now to follow the leading of one's nose, you must use the eye as well. Tobe, the proprietor of the latter establishment, is sore on the subject, and hopes that no one in future will rush into his place for the Post office and attempt to insert their box keys into the openings on his face. There is no look of patent brass lock box about him. See the striped pole outside and enter at the next door.

PROF. DENCK'S SOIREE .- Owing to the fact that several societies had their meeting on the night of the performance, but few enjoyed this delightful entertainment; the appreciation of the audience, however, was in the inverse ratio of their numbers; not a whisper was heard when the Professor presented to us in turn with masterly skill the Coryphees of modern piano music; his own improvisations, with which the compositions of others were interspersed. were not the least charming pieces of the programme. We hope that the Professor may be induced to give us in the near future another of those classical soirees, when the selection of the time may be more fortunate. If the friends of good music would combine for that purpose, we might revive that cultivated artistic taste for which Newberry ing corn. was famous in days of vore.

The late hour at which the Convention adjourned, and the voluminous character of the minutes, prevented the Secretary from preparing a copy in time for publication in this issue of the HERALD. They shall appear in full in next week's paper.

This meeting was one of the largest and most satisfactory which has yet been held, and this fact gives proof that the citizens of Newberry are fully alive to the duty which the times demand, and that they are prepared and determined to do what can be done in the formation of a better government .-Every township was not only represented, but fully represented, and the deliberations of this respectable and influential body were marked by earnest unanimity of feeling.

The people in that part of the country should supply their rabbits with the HERALD-so as to keep them posted.

There are no buckshots in the whole town of Newberry. One was needed the other day to weight a minnow line and it could not be found. Just suppose now a wild bear or wolf or some other kind of animal should invade the town what would become of it.

The Progressive Age call's for a loafer's bench-if the Council is agreeable let them make it long, and erect it somewhere in the suburbs.

The Age corrects our assertion that no lady has yet taken advantage of the leap year privilege, by saying that a clerk on Mollohon Row has been called on by a single lady. The question is did she propose-and what came of it?

If cotton raising benefitted the planter we should not utter a word against it-cotton brokers and speculators are the men who make the money-not the planters. Of course we don't mean to say plant no cotton at all, but let that be the extra crop after enough of other things are made to support the farm. If but one bale is then made, the price of it can be kept in pocket.

The nervous, weakly invalid does not enjoy life, but merely "drags out existence," as the phrase is. Unfitted for the active pursuits of life, and incapable of partaking of its pleasures, to which health alone can give a zest; disinclined to social intercourse, and a prey to melancholy, the valetudinarian is indeed an object of pity. Yet there is nothing in all this that cannot be remedied by that genial alterative tonic and nervine, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which supplies deficient stamina, braces the nervous system, and overcomes those bodily irregularities to which nervous weakness is most frequently attributable. Diseases of the kidney and bladder, imperfect digestion and uterine troubles are fertile sources of debility. Their eradication, however, becomes a matter of certainty when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are systematically used for that purpose. The Bitters likewise annihilate and prevent fever and ague and other debilitating febrile
