OCTOBER.

Calendar table for October with days of the week and dates.

THE IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATING HORSES.

Notwithstanding much has been said and written on the subject of breaking colts and handling vicious horses, and such men as Rarey, Williams, Magner, and others have been all over the country and demonstrated to all the superiority of science and skill in handling horses over the old method of pounding and whipping them—still there are a great many who yet stick to the old custom of forcing them into submission by kicks and blows, and who think that all that is necessary to enable a man to break a colt well is to have plenty of courage, strength, and a loud voice; and when they commence to break a colt hitch him up and try to drive him before he is accustomed to the feeling of the harness or knows anything about the use of the bit or rein; and if he does not move right off before he has been taught to go he is whipped; if he does not mind the rein the lash is laid on; if he stumbles on rough ground he is "whaled," if he whas too soon when told to whoa he is kicked, and if he resents this cruel treatment the above is repeated. The consequence of such improper management is frequently some kind of a scrape, in which the colt is taught his first lesson in kicking or bawling, or perhaps he runs away and receives a scare which will take years to get over. On the other hand, should the colt, as is sometimes the case, prove to be very tractable and not make any resistance, his owner, after driving him a few times and getting him up he can drive him and not get upset, will call him "broke," when he is, in reality, not half drivable, and so, not being taught, he never learns anything more, only what he learns from ordinary driving. This manner of handling colts accounts for the many badly kicking and restive horses we have, and also for the vast number of awkward, unhandy, and stupid brutes which we see driven every day. Now, although almost any man can break a colt after a fashion, there are but few competent to educate a colt as he should be. A man to successfully handle and educate horses and colts, should in the first place be a natural horse-man, and be possessed of that peculiar knack without which no one can be a first-class trainer. In the second place, he should have an unlimited stock of patience, and be able to control himself on all occasions; for a man that cannot control himself cannot control a horse. Besides, a man should be posted in his business, and be familiar with all the different systems of horse training, as taught by the most successful horse trainers. He should also be a man possessed of a kind heart, capable of inspiring confidence in the animal he is handling. Now if there was in every town a man with these requisites, and he should break all of the colts raised in his town, the useful qualities of the horses of the country would be greatly increased, and there would not be so many accounts in the papers of broken ribs and bruised heads, caused by horses running or kicking. I hope the day will soon come when every one shall realize the importance of a more thorough system of educating horses, and when schools shall be established all over the land for instructing competent men to educate and handle horses; when such horses as now require a strong man to drive and control them, shall be rendered kind and docile, and be driven with safety and pleasure, and even without bit or rein; when competent veterinary surgeons shall take the place of our country "hoss doctors," and the many diseases to which horse flesh is heir shall receive the attention which they deserve; when the law for the prevention of cruelty to animals shall be enforced in every instance of its violation and the offenders punished as they deserve. When these things are realized, and not before, will man's best friend and most faithful servant, the horse, receive that treatment to which his services entitle him, and instead of being overworked, starved, and beaten by some, and used as a means of gambling and cheating by others, he shall, by proper care and attention, together with judicious breeding, and especially by a thorough education, be made one of the greatest blessings ever given by the Creator for the benefit of man.—A. T. Mapin, in Maine Farmer.

AGRICULTURE AND ART.—Agriculture is both science and an art. The laws that govern the growth of plants embrace the science of agriculture. The putting in practice the truths discovered by science involves the art. It is an error to suppose that the science and art of culture can be at variance; for scientific part is the result of practical observation. THEORY AND PRACTICE. Theory is the result of philosophical investigation founded upon correct observation. It can not, therefore, in its true sense, be at variance with practice. The general acceptance of the meaning, namely, that it is in direct opposition to practical experience, is not now, nor was it ever, so viewed by men of science. All true theory is in accordance with nature's laws, and these are unchangeable. When therefore, an experiment is made, the result of which is not what was desired, it goes to show that the true conditions for carrying it out have not been furnished else no dissimilarity of result could have taken place; for natural law is equally at work, whether it be a failure or a success. From this it is fair to infer, that farmers who have been misdirected by possessing a pretended knowledge only of the subject under consideration, that they should not view the failure as contrary to the true science of agriculture, as laid down by master minds, but rather as the dreamings of men not familiar with the facts required to be known.—Pen and Plover.

GROUND READY FOR OATS.—All upland crops should be laid by with the surface of the ground as flat and free from ridges as practicable. Now that manuring and enriching our lands is the order of the day, it is worse than folly to let them wash away. If corn was planted in water furrow, enough dirt will have been thrown to it in previous working, and no necessity for hilling will exist. Cotton beds, if the crop has been cultivated, after the first or second plowing, with sweeps, will pretty well disappear by August, and though the surface be clean and loose—conditions favorable to washing—very little will take place. Moreover, this clean, flat surface will be admirably adapted to receive a seeding down of oats in September. To this latter point we beg to call the reader's attention now, that he may think about and prepare for it. We have just harvested as fine a crop of oats as we ever grew, made by sowing the grain in a cotton field in September, and running one furrow of a three-foot harrow in each middle. Just think of the small amount of labor such a crop involves—a hand can sow down and cover some five acres in a day! We will recur to this again, however, next month.

Here are five short rules that if well worked up will make farming of the horses of the country would be greatly increased, and there would not be so many accounts in the papers of broken ribs and bruised heads, caused by horses running or kicking. I hope the day will soon come when every one shall realize the importance of a more thorough system of educating horses, and when schools shall be established all over the land for instructing competent men to educate and handle horses; when such horses as now require a strong man to drive and control them, shall be rendered kind and docile, and be driven with safety and pleasure, and even without bit or rein; when competent veterinary surgeons shall take the place

MANHOOD: HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED! Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHEA or Seminal Weakness, Voluntary Sexual Losses, IMPOTENCY, also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, and radically.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man of mature years, in a plain envelope, with any address, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two post stamps. Address the Publishers, F. BRUGMAN & SON, 11 Ann St., New York. July 12, 18-41.
