STILL BURNING .- The smoke is still issuing from the debris of the burnt brick store on the corner of Pratt and Adams Streets. It comes from burning corn, three or four hundred bushels having been stored away in the building a day or two before the fire. The fire occurred six weeks ago, lacking two days.

CORN STOLEN .- Saturday night gang of negroes went to Mr. Langford's Mill on Bush River, three miles from town, and stole about twenty-five bushto say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER els of corn. Mr. Paine, the miller, says has never, to our knowledge, failed to that two of the party stood at the gate armed (to intimidate him) while the in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, others went to the mill. We are informed by Dr. R. C. Carlisle that Whooping Cough prevails to now that the odiferous exhalations of a great extent in and around his section of country, among adults as well as children. He states also that the late heavy rains have proved very disastrous in the washing of lands and destruction of fencing. Indian Creek, he was informed by the oldest inhabitant, was higher than it had been in two years.

HARDWARE.-The card of Mr. John C. Dial in this issue speaks for itself, clearly showing that in his large and superior stock of Hardware there are articles which are indispensable to the farmer, builder, amateur worker, or anybody else, we don't care who it may be. We invite especial attention to the card, and take pleasure in recommending this live business man to all who need anything in his line.

GATE-LIFTING .-- We had occasion some weeks ago to speak of this thing. It is a very poor way to enjoy oneself. It is not legitimate fun thus to trespass on the property of other people. And if the offense be kept up somebody will be likely to get badly hurt. There were several gates taken off last week; one gentleman had his carried a long distance from his house Saturday and thrown into the creek.

RIOT AND ROBBERY .- Three negroes, Jerry Renwick, Dock Bobo, alias Tribble, Aleck Bobo, alias Tribble, were arrested the 12th inst. on the affidavit of Lydia Wadsworth that they went to her house several nights ago, fired into the house, ran her and her mother out, then went in and carried off trunks and other articles. After a preliminary examination, Trial Justice Packer lodged them in jail for trial in the Court of Sessions.

NEWBERRY COLLEGE BUILDING COM-MITTEE.—At a meeting of the contributors in the Court House Friday the following gentlemen were elected as the committee of three to act with a similar committee previously appointed on the part of the Synod: J. C. Wilson, Geo. S. Mower and D. B. Wheeler.

The Band also proposes to give a series of Concerts in the Hall, beginning in about two weeks, for the purpose of raising a fund for purchasing

Prof. Evans' class in Vocal Music met last night. There was a large attendance of pupils.

ATTENTION .- The citizens of Newberry, town and county, as well as those adjacent, are respectfully informed that at the store of Mr. Joseph Brown can be found a stock of General Merchandise, in Dry Goods, Notions, Family Groceries, &c., equal to any in the town of Newberry, not only in cheapness of price, but in quality and variety. As a convincing proof, an examination is requested. In addition to above mentioned stock he has on hand a variety of fine and plain Baby Carriages, which will be sold low for cash. In short there are few things which he cannot show.

A CHANGE.-No longer cribbed, cabned and confined under the Columbia Hotel, Messrs. Kingsland & Heath have fortunately secured a larger and better store room immediately opposite their old position. Having the advantage of more room they now make a greater display, befitting the large and splendid stock they have on hand. The beautiful arrangement of their stock in all its great variety is worth an examination, and the visitor to Columbia will fail in doing him or herself justice if a visit is not made to this extensive Crockery and House-furnishing establishment. The printers and editors have been feeling melancholy ever since Pope & Wardlaw have moved from the HERALD office building. True, while here we did object occasionally to the smell of some of their drugs, and the noise of the mortar and pestle, but it is realized essences and other things largely outsmelled the drugs. We had organized mutual admiration society, and just in the degree that we appreciated the agreeable things in their stock so did they acknowledge the value of printers' ink. We cordially commend them to the public and promise to keep them in

Too Much Theology.-The following is too good to be lost and we regret not giving it last week while fresh. On the occasion of the meeting of Synod it became necessary in several well-regulated families to double-team their guests. In one case at the house of Rev. W., an enthusiastic and zealous Lutheran divine was placed away in his little bed in company with a good Methodist preacher whose zeal was equally as warm as the other. After their private devotions, each thought that he might enlighten the other and an argument ensued which waxed warm under the blankets. They wrestled-not literally-and stretched blankets as well as their points, but neither would give way. The bed, however, sympathizing in the argument, concluded that something had to give way, and the result was that the gentlemen soon found themselves heads down and feet up-the slats leaning first to one side of the argument and then to the other had slipped out of their natural grooves. There was too much theology in that little bed.

Too Good to BE Lost .- While in Columbia at the Hampton ovation, the Gen. M. C. Butler. The General was in conversation with a number of gentlemen on one of the streets of Washington, and did not notice the approach of a seedy looking individual half-seas over, until he heard him say: "There is not a word of truth in it." Not supposing, however, that the remark was personal the conversation went on. Soon the seedy individual, with greater emphasis, ejaculated, "I don't believe it-it's a lie." Butler and the others still paid no attention, till the other, elevating his fist and looking directly at the former, said, "It's a d- lie." No longer deeming patience a virtue, Butler demanded an explanation. "Well," said the seedy fellow, "since I have been looking at you and hearing you talk I have come to the unanimous conclusion that you never killed thirty niggers in the Hamburg riot, and any body who says so tells a lie." There mourning. A couple of her natives. but now aliens and drummers, the one for a shoe and the other for a crockery house of Charleston, while making tracks across the country, came to South Fork on the Enoree, in the Ray neighborhood. They each had a horse, and were taking the ups and downs together in a double buggy. They had several ups as well as downs before coming to South Fork, where the first serious down was experienced. In crossing, the crockery drummer's horse slipped his bridle while drinking, and horselike, he thought the water might be sweeter and more limpid further down stream; despite all efforts of driver and the shoe horse who each tried to pull the other way, he persisted in having his way and continued till he got into a quicksand up to his flanks, and then stuck. It was an awful moment-it seemed there would soon be two drummers less-that the places which knew them would know them no more forever. They prayed, then plunged into the flood, unhitched the horses, and succeeded in relieving the sinking animal. The next consideration was the buggy. This was no small job, but they rejoiced at length on seeing it safe on terra firma. Of course they were a little damp after getting out of the water, but have felt happy ever since, particularly as they afterwards learned that in that same place a four mule team with wagon and a load of corn, as also a buggy and horse, all sank to rise no more. This consoling information they obtained from Mr. John Duncan.
