ROTATION OF CROPS.

The persistent habit that we have fallen into of cultivating large areas of poor land that often do not pay one-half the cost of cultivation is the main cause of our poverty. This habit should be stopped, and our poor lands improved, else inevitable bankruptcy awaits us. This is to be done in two ways: first, by manuring and second by a rotation of crops. Both of these should be put in operation, and perseveringly followed up. Every pound of manure shoul? be saved and applied to the soil, and a good rotation at once adopted. In the adoption of a rotation nothing,) or say thirty bushels of system, science comes to our aid corn and five dollars worth of and clearly lays down the proper | bran. The aggregate cost then data to govern us. Our main agri- | will be eighty bushels of corn at cultural plants are divided into seventy-five cents per bushel, (for three classes: lime, potash and that has been about the cost of silica plants. These different classes take from the soil different elements, and different quantities of the same elements. For instance, lars for corn and five dollars tobacco extracts from the soil large quantities of lime, while the feed; the manure will remunbeets and turnips take very little. Now the principle to be carried out in a rotation system is to have such a succession of these different

This should be followed by a silica plant, say wheat, oats, barley or rye, and this to be succeeded by a lime plant, viz: clover, peas, or lucerne, or tobacco. A soil may be so constituted as to produce a very good yield of one one of them. A soil deficient in lime, but abounding in potash and phosphoric acid, will produce a good crop of turnips or potatoes, but a poor one of tobacco. A heavy clay soil is well adapted to wheat, but unsuited for tobacco; whilst a light gray is best suited for tobacco, but unfit for wheat. The soil is Va., in American Farmer.

HOME-RAISED MEAT.

We know of at least one farmer in South Carolina who intends this winter to enjoy home-made sausages whether they be "stuffed up in --- or set down in dabs." In a letter of the 18th September

"In June last I planted fourteen acres of speckled peas, and turned my hogs in upon them last Friday. Thirteen of them are fine porkers, and four shy, wild bucks; these last I will sell on the hoof. the farmers of South Carolina might do as well as this one with hogs, and yet how few there are that do. Let us calculate the cost

Since those shoats were weaned last spring, say six months ago, they have cost the trouble of calling every afternoon from the range, and a half peck of corn; or say twenty-five bushels of corn during the time, and we know they did not cost that much. Then there was the pea crop from fourteen acres, worth as much as the twenty-five bushels of corn; for the vines and refuse left on the ground will repay for seed and cultivation. Then for forty days, we will say, these hogs will receive daily three pecks of corn and a half bushel of bran, (slops cost corn to merchants, the farmer who had to buy paying them ninety cents to one dollar cash, our friend raised his,) or sixty dol-

The four choicest of the twelve remaining hogs will sell for $17 each, or $68, and hence our friend nets up a clear gain of eight fatted hogs, weigh we will say 170 pounds net. He has but six in family; a hog to the head is sufficient. Hence he may sell two more and buy his groceries. Is this not good reasoning? BEER.

The Commissioner of Agriculture, in his report for the year 1875, speaks as follows: There can be no doubt of the general adulteration of all malt liquors. In England and other countries, where heavy penalties are imposed, and an increasing vigilance practiced to detect and punish such frauds, by a system of inspection of all mult liquors manufactured before exposed to sale, the practice is very common. How much more in this country, where there are no laws on the subject, and no officer to carefully analyze the products of the brewery? Some years ago, Professor Mapes, of New York, analyzed the beer from a dozen different breweries, and all were found adulterated with noxious substances. It is said that the sale of drugs to brewers is a profitable part of the trade. This is perfectly infamous Cocculus indicus, (fish-berry,) nux vomica, (dog-button, from which strychnine is obtained,) are some of the delectable substances found in beer! These are potent poisons, and the brewer found using them should be drowned at once in one of his own vats. The British Parliament passed a law to prevent this nefarious business. The following is an extract: 'No druggist, vender of or dealer in drugs, or chemist, or any other person, shall sell or deliver to any licensed brewer, dealer in or retailer of beer, knowing them to be such, or shall sell or deliver to any person on account of, or in trust for, any such brewer, dealer or retailer, any liquor called by the name of or sold for coloring, from whatever material the same may be made; or any material or preparation other than unground brown malt, for the darkening the color of worts beer, or any molasses, vitriol, honey, quassia, coccolus indicus, grains of paradise, Guinea pepper, or opium, or any extract or preparation of molasses, or any article or preparation to be used in worts eer for or as a substitute for malt or hops; and if any druggist shall offend in any of these particulars, such preparation, &c., shall be forfeited, and may be seized by any officer of excise, and the person so offending shall forfeit five hundred pounds.' "Under this law, very many druggists and brewers were brought to grief, and yet the practice continues. Unless the American public are ready to admit the immaculate purity and innocence of American brewers, they must be content, while drinking their beer, to cherish the belief that they are at the same time guzzling some narcotic poison or damaging medicine. In view of the unpreedented growth of the barley crop; of the beer that are drunk in every city and almost of sound wisdom that the attention of legislators should be called to the subject of the adulteration of our malt liquors, and severe penalties should be inflicted as a preventive.'
