SICK HEADACHE.

The true cause of sick headache lies deep in the patient's idiosyncrasy, and is developed by a hundred different causes. The advice, then, to sufferers is to give as much tone as they can to their nerves by adopting all those methods which experience has shown to be good, and then avoid, so far as practicable, all those causes which are known to excite an attack. A writer in the British Medical Journal says: "I need scarcely describe a sick headache-how one rises in the morning more dead than alive; perfectly unable to swallow the smallest particle of food, and often perhaps actually sick; how the head throbs, and the pain is increased by the slightest movements; how one prays to be left alone in the utmost quie, so that he may, if possible, sleep. incurable Lung disease. BROWN'S BRON-To other persons the sufferer looks extremely ill, very pale, dark around the eyes, and with contracted pupil. To himself his head feels hot, and the application of cold most refreshing. The clamminess in the mouth, the nausea, and general gastric disturbances are secondary, and have no connection with an improper meal, and thus are in no way relieved by the too frequent and ignorantly administered purgative. This is not needed, and has no good result. The only remedies which are of any avail are those which act on the nervous system, such as hot tea and coffee; or, after the stomach is quieter, and the more urgent symptoms have passed off, a little wine or ammonia. If the headache take more the form of hemicrania, then remedies are occasionally useful, as the local application of the bisulphide of carbon, or galvanism, and internally the bromide of potassium. This is the only drug that I have seen to be really serviceable. While the nausea exists and the worst symp-

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT HOUSE PLANTS .- The calla lily blooms at three years. Take an ordinary bottom, put the lily in, and fill the jar three-quarters full of rich earth; fill with warm water in of ammonia; keep in a warm room; give as much light and sun as possible, and plenty of water.

FRIED OYSTERS .- Select the largest, dip them in beaten egg, and then in bread or cracker crumbs; fry them in equal parts of butter and lard until they are brown. They are very good when dipped in cornmeal instead of 300 YEARS' crumbs.

CURE FOR CHILLS .- Take, the first day, ten whole black peppercorns, second day nine, and so on until you get down to one.

is the most genial balsam ever used by sufferers from pulmonary diseases. It is composed of herbal products, which have a specific effect on the throat and lungs; detaches from the air cells all irritating matter; causes it to be expectorated, and at once checks the inflammation which produces the cough. A single dose relieves the most distressing paroxysm, soothes nervousness, and enables the sufferer to enjoy quiet rest at night. Being a pleasant cordial, it tones the weak stomach, and is specially recommended for children.

purity and innocence of American brewers, they must be content, while drinking their beer, to cherish the belief that they are at the same time guzzling some narcotic poison or damaging medicine. In view of the unpre-cedented growth of the barley crop; of the great increase of the number of malsters and brewers; of the vast unknown quantities of beer that are drunk in every city and almost every town on the continent, it is the dictate of sound wisdom that the attention of legislators should be called to the subject of the

"There can be no doubt of the general adulteration of all malt liquors. In England and other countries, where heavy penalties are imposed, and an increasing vigilance practiced to detect and punish such frauds, by a system of inspection of all malt liquors manufactured before exposed to sale, the years ago, Professor Mapes, of New York, analyzed the beer from a dozen different breweries, and all were found adulterated with noxious substances. It is said that the sale of drugs to brewers is a profitable part of the trade. This is perfectly infamous. Cocculus indicus, (fish-berry,) nux vomica, dog-button, from which strychnine is obtained.) are some of the delectabe substances found in beer! These are potent poisons, and the brewer found using them should be drowned at once in one of his own vats. The British Parliament passed a law to prevent this nefarious business. The following is an extract: 'No druggist, vender of or person, shall sell or deliver to any licensed brewer, dealer in or retailer of beer, knowing than unground brown malt, for the darkening the color of worts beer, or any molasses,

"Under this law, very many druggists and brewers were brought to grief, and yet the practice continues. Unless the American public are ready to admit the immaculate adulteration of our malt liquors, and severe penalties should be inflicted as a preventive." JOHN C. SEEGERS' BEER is pure and
