FOR THE HERALD. For Congress.

Mr. EDITOR: It is right and proper that the names of persons, who are expected to be run for office, should be brought to the notice of the people some time before the Nominating Convention meets, so that their merits and qualifications for office may be canvassed and thereby the proper men put before the people for election.

With this view attention is called to the name of Col. D. Wyatt Aiken, as a suitable person to be re-elected to Congress from the Third Congressional District. He, like our gallant standard-bearer, Hampton, came to the fro t and took position in line (not in a bomb-proof) when our beloved South was being invaded, and pledged his life, his fortune, and his sacred honor to sustain her cause; and well did he keep that pledge, he never left the tented field except when carried away by his brother soldiers, wounded and bleeding for the sacred cause of right and principle. When the South was overpowered by numbers, and the fearful struggle ceased, he retired to private life and devoted his indomitable energies to developing the agricultural interests of the South. He, too, like our beloved Hampton, was among on the side of reform and spend his energy Congress he has been devoting his whole time and attention to his duties as a member of Congress, and in furthering the interests of his own State, not losing sight TORY AND ADVERTISER'S HANDBOOK of the great and all important question of FOR 1878.—If any doubt existed in the immigration to the South, and especially to journalistic or business mind anywhere, South Carolina. Obituary.

DIED, at his residence in Newberry County, May 21st, 1878, Mr. A. L. LARK, aged 84 years. He had been quite feeble for several only nine days, when death the monster came and claimed his prey. He had not made any profession of religion up to the time of his death, but for some time he had been talking to his neighbors about the Holy Scriptures; and one day when suffering more than usual, he remarked, that "Whom the Lord loveth, He chasteneth." He seemed hopeful of recovering until the day before he died, when he gave up, and seemed to be sleeping for about fourteen hours, when he died without a struggle. His remains were interred at Cross Roads Church, where his much loved wife had been laid away about seven years ago. He leaves two children and a circle of friends to mourn his loss; but let us hope that our loss is li-aven's gain. "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away; blessed be the name of the Lord."
