Farmer for the fertilization of or. day. chards, which is two hundred to in combination with the fruit acids; Whether the ingredients required are applied in the formula given or in the unleached ashes suggested. it is recommended to sow broadcast and lightly harrow in, leaving it to the rain to more thoroughly incorporate with the earth. Such treat ment has proved successful in orchards showing signs of deeny both in this country and in Europe. Coal ashes and salt are employed with great benefit to some soils, especially in orchards bearing sour fruits. Orchards, the soil of which, from close pasturing or other causes, is nearly destitute of humus, will gradually deteriorate and finally die, unless restored to that state of fertility which is necessary for the thrifty growth of the tree and its existence in a healthy and vigorous state. Such orchards are greatly benefited by a top dressing of leaf-mold, rotten chip manure. muck from a creek, broken bones, animal hair of all kinds, and similar material generally at hand on farms, which can be applied without other expense than the time and labor expended. When manures are used they should be well decomposed. Fresh warm manure excites young trees into a very rapid growth, but the wood is watery and feeble. A dry soil of moderate richness is the one that produces and sustains hardy trees. Their wood is firm, and the buds are plump and close together and the parts well proportioned.

dered farm, well chosen stock, comfortable buildings, a neatly-kept eral support of all who follow it ingarden, road way or entrance way; telligently. gates well hung, fences well kept, shade trees, ornamental shrubbery, paint without and whitewash within-all these are worth more to a farmer in money value than a few hundred dollars carefully scraped together and jealously hearded and loaned to needy neighbors at interest. No investment pays so well as money judiciously spent in farm improvements. Draining wet land will pay 50 to 100 per cent on its cost every year: good stock will pay equally well; good roads will return their cost every year; a gate beaten (reserving 3 whites for will save its cost in a short time; meringue), 1 quart milk, 5 tablecost in one night; a well kept vanilla, pinch of salt; put in a pud amount to the value of a farm, with the 3 whites and 2 tablespoon gained through the outlay for these any flavoring. pearlash water turns it a dark thick. color, but washing will efface it. After marking the linen, put it near a fire or in the sun to day. Red ink for marking linen is made by mixing and reducing to a fine powder half an ounce of vermillion, a drachm of the salt of steel, and linseed oil to render it of the consistency of thick durable ink.

HOUSEHOLD CONVENIENCES .- "A place for everything and everything in its place," is rather a hackneyed saying, but, after all, it DR. C. McLANE'S perfectly describes the domain of a good housekeeper.

As much attention should be given to the kitchen as to any other part of the house, a busy house wife spends a large amount of time in that room, and she should strive to render it a pleasure and not a dread to enter it. A great convenience in the kitchen is a roomy wall pocket. It may be made very nicely of common, brown card board, bound with scarlet brad. having three pockets-a large one at the bottom, and two smaller ones above. In the larger one may be put dusters, towels, etc. : in the other string, rag for cuts, and other small articles. Another convenience is a bag for dirty towels A ton of dry unleached ashes per and dusters, which may hang in a acre will furnish nearly the same in closet in the kitchen. It saves gredients advised by the Scientific much time and labor on washing Always have a match safe and two hundred and fifty pounds of scraper in the kitchen. It saves bone dust and three hundred to much disfigurement of walls. Get four hundred pounds of sulphate of your tinman to make you tin boxes potash per acre. This gives some with tight-fitting lids to hold yeast seventy or eighty pounds of potash, cakes, tea, coffee and spices. They fifty or sixty pounds of lime (from preserve the flavor. WHAT FARMERS SUCCEED -That farmer will succeed who makes up his mind that the whole secret of success is in himself; that it is the man and not the business that tells. He will succeed if he brings to bear the same amount of skill, forethought, energy, economy, and indement that any other branch of business requires. He will suc ceed if he sticks close to his farm, as the mechanic does to his shop. and not expect to work three or four months and then take his ease the rest of the year. That farmer will succeed who takes the papers, and digests what he reads, and is not afraid of new ideas and new methods of industry. He will succeed if it is his intention that whatever he sends to market shall be the very best, and so made and put up that when seen it will be emptivating for its freshness, cleanliness and purity, and will be unhesitatingly taken on account of his well known character for honesty of weight, measure and count. Those who have farms may think themselves fortunate, for although they will not thereby find sudden roads to wealth, they will certainly prove that persistent farm labor will bring a sure reward. It is worthy of notice, that the adventurer and speculator, with blasted hopes and shattered health and fortune, have in the end to come back to the farm for health and safety.
