An Ugly Threat.

MESSRS. EDITORS :- You will please publish the following communication received by me on the 15th inst, and mailed at Greenville C. H., on the 14th, evidently written in disguise:

"MR. SHELL:-You will have to do something by which you can save your own life; and what you will have to do is to go and relieve Me-Ninch-you have got to get him out of jail, or your life will pay the pen alty. You have acted a part in that which calls for justice; you have acted a traitor to honor, to justice, and to humanity. You have decoved that poor boy iuto jail when you knew that he would be hanged. You came to this place and entered the jail and endeavored to bribe a prisoner to swear false against an innocent man. You owe your life to this Order, for you have led us into trouble and then betrayed us. You must either save McNinch or die yourself. You need not think to escape us, for our name is Legion-for we are many. We are all round you. We see you every day. It is either save McNinch, or die before the twenty-sixth of June. You can get no place that we are not. You will be personally interviewed, so decide whether you will live or die. You have acted contrary to your word and pledge in cases of years ago. (Signed,)

YOUR ENEMIES."

The reference made to the NcNinch. Kilgore difficulty, and my connection therewith, is simple preposterous. With it I have had nothing to do of which I am ashamed or afraid. For poor Kilgore I had a high regard, and respect his memory, whilst humanity required some sympathy for McNinch. masmuch as he was in my employ and a poor, unfortunate, deluded creature. I neither deceived nor decoyed Mc-Ninch or anybody else, as will be seen by reference to his certificate appended. The remaining innuendoes carry their threat into execution, I "Cities of our Dead." can but submit to their cruel decree Respectfully.

I have always regarded Mr. Shell as one of my best friends, and I yet so regard him. During my misfortune he has kindly cared for my poor old mother, for my wife and for my little ones, and this, I doubt not, the public will agree with me, is to act the part

While I write, I am sitting among the tombs. No fence encloses the spot. Grazing stock are trampling lown the mounds; and the finely polished monuments are but so many targets for the well-aimed stones of the mischievous little negro school boy. The neglected spot is, indeed, a dis-

Beneath my feet I feel something hard, I remove the leaves, and, to my surprise, discover a prostrate tomb.

Again my attention is directed to the falling palings, which enclose the spot where sleep the bodies of men once loved and honored by the State and church.

I am at a loss to realize why it has happened, that a cemetery situated in the very heart of a populous and wealthy country, became destitute of a fence. But the no fence law has taken effect in some counties; perhaps this is one of those counties, but if such were the case the stock would not be allowed to run ad libitum; such, indeed, is not the case. But, alas city authorities. I mean the mayor and the officers of the "City of the Dead," have long since met in solenin assembly, and have decreed independent of the executive, judicial and legislative departments of the govern. ment of the State of South Carolina,

WHEREAS, the fence around this cemetery has decayed and fallen down, and, whereas, timber, money and labor are growing scarce, and whereas, most of all things else energy is lacking among our people, therefore be it resolved and furthermore decreed that now and forever hereafter, no fence, neither of rails, boards, plank, brick, stone, iron nor of any other material be allowed to enclose said cemetery.

The legislation of this independent body was certainly unwise, to say the least of it; but, nevertheless, there are hundreds of just such independent therein contained, are mythical, and little governments throughout our like the brute who seeks to defile me, State, and the decrees are going forth, buried in iniquity. Our Public Schools.

We have always liked our free school system. Of course, we did not approve the way it was managed a few years ago, when political power was in the hands of the Radicals, and the money appropriated by law for education was appropriated by public officers to their own use. Now, since the administration has got into honest hands the benefits of the system are being developed. We have witnessed within the past week some results. in our midst, of free schools. The two exhibitions of the colored schools, that of the school at Newberry and that at Helena, have proved unmistakably that the system is working well and that the funds are being used properly. The colored children, who are the most benefitted by the free schools, are learning rapidly. We are not of the number who believe that a little learning is a dangerous thing, and that the colored people will be any less valuable as laborers by being able to read and write. On the decision of the highest judicial tricontrary they will become more valuable to the community as their less overruled by both houses. If minds are improved. Ex-United States District Attorney Corbin, who is in Charleston as counsel in the railroad cases before Chief Justice Waite, was held to bail the 23d instant, at the instance of the Attorney-General of the State, in a civil suit pending against him for recovery of $24,000. FOR THE HERALD. Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21, 1879. Yesterday the Legislative bill passed the Senate. It goes to the House for action on unimportant amendments, and then to Mr. Hayes for a veto. It is well understood that he will veto it, though there is not : word in it of which he has not expressed approval. He, who fraudu leatly holds office through an unexampled stretch of the doctrine of "State rights," will discover in this patriotic and constitutional measure an assertion of "State supremacy over the After this veto, and a discussion of it in Congress, it is probable that the two appropriation bills will be passed, or current appropriations extended by resolution, and that Congress will then adjourn. Addresses will be issued by the Congressional Committees of both parties, for general circulation, explaining the positions taken. Thus will end, for the time, a memorable contest, to be renewed whenever Congress shall meet again. The questions are whether or not the people of the different States shall hold elections free from unnecessary and extra Constitutional interference, through troops or civil officers, by the Federal Government, and whether or not intelli. gent people in the South shall be deprived of the right to sit on juries. The "sober second thought" will bring all reasonable people to the Democratic side on both these questions.

The free coinage silver bill of Mr. Warner received a black eye in the House yesterday. It will be up again to-day, however, and its friends still have hopes. Most of them, however, are inexperienced legislators, and, I believe, are entirely mistaken as to their prospects of success. I think the bill will be killed, and that with-

The Latest Invention in Useful Household Articles.

Within the last few years there has been expended a great deal of inventive thought and genius upon what may properly be classed as household articles, the most noted results of which are the production of the sewing machine, the wringer, the washing machine, the carpet sweeper, &c. Almost every week we chronicle the advent of some new invention by which the cares and labors of housekeeping are lessened, and woman's

The newest thing to challenge our attention and gladden the heart of the housekeeper, is, what is called the Novelty Brush Holder, Carpet Stretcher and Sweeper, a very simple contrivance designed to firmly hold in position any kind of a brush or dust-er; having an extension handle that enables one to wash or dust windows, walls or ceilings without the aid of a step ladder. That is one of its conveniences, and it is also one of the best carpet sweepers in the market, holding the brush firmly at an angle. It cleans the carpet thoroughly, raises no dust, and does not wear the carpet like the ordinary broom or brush, and will outwear a half dozen brooms. As a handle for the scrubbing brush it is the best device ever made no more kneeling on the floor, no more back aches or sore fingers.

As a carpet stretcher alone it is worth its cost, as a carpet of any size can be laid evenly without any of the labor and vexation usually attending such work. It is strong, simple, thoroughly made, cannot get out of order, has no screws, lever or binges, is compact, cheap and durable. It is manufactured by Brown & Co., Cincinnati, the well known manufacturers of useful household articles, and is sold only by of them are poisonous, and all stop up their agents to housekeepers.
