POST OFFICE CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.
Down Train arrives 11:11 P. M.

Mr. L. S. Bowers, post master at Prosperity is our authorized agent at that place.

For Kansas. A white family consisting of seven or eight persons, with one or two colored, reached here Sunday, on their way to Kansas.

Good News. Messrs. Foot & Son refute the talk about everything going up out of reach of poor folks, and use printers ink to tell the tale.

Admitted. Among the admissions to the Bar by the Supreme Court the 16th were S. B. Fowles, R. C. Maybin and J. K. P. Goggans, of Newberry, and Geo. D. Haltiwanger, formerly Professor in Newberry College.

Personal. J. B. Steedman and Wm. Munro, Esqs., of Union, were in town last week on professional business.

Rev. A. Coke Smith and family stopped over in Newberry last week a day or two on their way to Greenville. Mr. Smith being his fourth year as pastor of the Methodist Church in that city.

Painful Accident. We regret to learn that Capt. J. Maffet sustained a serious injury in the breaking of his thigh bone on Wednesday last. He was mounting his horse for the purpose of riding over his plantation when the saddle turned and threw him. Capt. Maffet is between seventy and eighty years of age, a period when such an accident is most serious.

Bound Over. The parties charged with stealing Mr. Jno. F. Banks' money on Saturday last had a preliminary examination before Trial Justice Carlisle the 14th instant. Their names are Spencer Wallace, alias Black Pete, Ben Harrington, Jr., Joseph Hines, Brantly Rutherford and Ailsay Lewis—all colored. They were committed to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury, in default of $— bail each.

The Municipal Election. The following is the result of the election the 15th instant:
For Intendant—J. P. Pool, 289; Dr. James McInosh, 201.

For Wardens.—1st Ward—Geo. A. Langford, 280; D. B. Wheeler, 205. 2nd Ward—D. M. Ward, 275; J. N. Martin, 209. 3rd Ward—J. Y. McFall, 283; R. H. Wright, 196. 4th Ward—D. W. T. Kibler, 287; B. F. Griffin, Jr., 208.

The Battle of Life. We respectfully suggest to the Thespians Club the rendering of this play the second time and at an early day.

Runaway. A pair of fine bays, one belonging to Mr. L. P. W. Kiser and the other to Mr. Jno. Duckett, ran away in town Saturday with a buggy driven by a colored man, who was trying to break them. They started in front of Mollon Row, ran down the street to the Herald corner, and then darted down Friend street at a furious speed.

The Forerunners.

A new organization is being formed in town under the name of the Ancient Order of Forerunners. Several names have been obtained, and Mr. H. N. Emlyn, of Columbia, will come up soon to organize a lodge. The principles of the order seem to be similar to those of the Knights of Honor. The order numbers many members throughout the United States.

In a New Place.

It's a bad sign when a man hides his light under a bushel. I am not that kind of a man, and I respectfully inform my friends and the public generally that I have removed to the store in rear of B. J. Ramage & Son, in Crowell's new building, where I am prepared to serve with the best wines, liquors, segars and tobacco.

The Annual Issue

Of Prof. Tice's "Weather Forecasts and Almanac for 1880," is out, and we learn that the first edition of over 20,000 copies was called for within eight days of its publication, and a second larger one put to press. It is fuller and more specific in its weather prognostications for 1880 than formerly, and a variety of subjects of interest, such as plagues and the astronomical relations thereto, heat and sunstrokes, cyclones, facts for foretelling the weather, etc., are discussed. Copy can be obtained by enclosing 20 cents to Thompson, Tice & Lillingston, St. Louis, Mo.

MISSISSIPPI. In a late issue of the Newberry Herald, the following notice appeared:

"Mr. Crowell had a mule to die Sunday of the blind staggers, that was twenty-two years old. If he had lived till next November, he might have voted for Grant and Bayard."

He has now an honest mule. If he borrowed a bundle of fodder from his neighbor in the stable, he always pushed one back to him when the demand was made. If that mule had been a man, he certainly never would have allowed a note in bank of his to go to protest. He was a peaceable mule and plowed his furrow in silence; but he was an independent mule at the same time; any cur snapping at his heels would have been obliged to send for a dog doctor. He might have voted for Grant and Bayard in the mule convention, if in good health, and if he thought proper. But if the blind staggers had taken him at the time of the election, he no doubt would have gone it blind for the Democratic ticket, who ever might have been the nominees, in company with his daddy—you know who his daddy was—with all of daddy's brothers, cousins and uncles. I like that mule for his honesty and independence, and I shall take care of his memory.

JAMES A. CROWWELL.

The paragraph in the Herald had no earthly reference to Mr. Crowell or his political opinions.

ED. HERALD.

Thinking that the paragraph was aimed at me, and several of my friends taking the same view, I made the reply; but in my remarks about borrowing and not repaying, and allowing votes to go to protest, there was no allusion to the Editors of the Herald, or to any other individual. It was only a mistake all round.

JAMES A. CROWWELL.

Newberry Dots.

It was the writer's good fortune to be in the progressive and prosperous town of Newberry last week. Everything there indicates growth and prosperity.

The Crowell building is a splendid one, and will be a large, roomy hotel, with several excellent stores-houses. But Pool's hotel is more elegant in design, and would be an ornament to any town.

Under the new fence law lands have greatly enhanced in value, and no better indication of prosperity could be stated than the fact that the deposits in the National Bank amount to the round sum of two hundred and forty thousand dollars.

But, pleasing as were these indications to contemplate, it was especially of the Newberry Thespians Corps of which we desired to say a word. This excellent amateur troupe has an excellently and neatly arranged hall, with a well arranged stage, provided with good scenery and a beautiful drop curtain. At the entertainment which we attended, the Battle of Life was admirably presented. The cast of the play was excellent, and the acting was easy and graceful. Clem was exquisitely done, and Mr. Brittain could not have been exceeded. The voice of Grace was soft and musical, but very clear and distinct, and the acting of Marion was very fine. Her retreat from her father's house to surrender her lover to her sister was replete with pathos and grace.

Craggs was fitly and admirably done by a prominent member of the bar, but for whose success at the law, we should certainly say had missed his calling, whilst Snitchey will be fortunate if as successful in the forum as upon the stage. But really we must not particularize. The troupe is most creditable to Newberry, and we wish it would pay us a visit and try our boards.

The Battle of Life, one of the best of Dickens' stories, has been dramatized by Silas Johnstone, Esq., who finds recreation from the labors of the profession in the aesthetics of literature. The admirable manner in which he has done his work is best shown by the successful presentation of the play. (Greenville News.

THOS. W. HOLLOWAY, Secretary.

A Smart Boy.

John Donahoe, a bright active lad about fourteen years of age, stepped into our office on Saturday and reported that he had captured in his gums since the 1st of December seventy-one rabbits, being over an average of two a day, leaving out Sundays—for of course John being a good boy did not go out on that day. This is a good report, and we predict that our young friend will be a mighty hunter when he grows up. The last season he captured eighty-five.

Jurors.

The Jury Commission met Wednesday, the 11th, and drew the Grand Jury for this year and the Petit Jury for the next term of the Circuit Court, which meets the first Monday in February. M. Wyse, E. W. Resse, S. A. Whitmore, R. T. Reagin, Jno. M. Glymph, P. M. Denison.
