MANURES. "There are," says Professor Sto rer in the Rural New Yorker "some particular instances in which the use of alkalies in compost making is decidedly preferable to the use of dung. The composting of garden rubbish is a case in point. From the raking of garden beds and walks great masses of rubbish are collected every year, consisting of sods, weeds, straw, leaves, lumps of loam, clods of manure and many other things which are commonly burned to the utter destruction of all nitrogen which the matter contain. No doubt it is better in many cases to burn this rubbish rather than to have it thrown into the hog pen or the barnyard, in view of all the weed seeds, insects and fungi which such matter harbor, and in general the burning of garden rubbish would be clearly justified if there were no other way of dealing with it; but in fact it might readily be treated with alkilies in such a way that all risk of injury from the seeds could be obviated, while the organic matter would be converted into excellent manure. If such rubbish were once thoroughly moistened with dilute potash lye and thrown into tolerably large heaps, in a not too dry place, it would change to the condition of garden mold, at the cost of little, if any, further manipulation. The same remark applies to weeds in general and to the sweepings of haylofts. A thorough soak ing in weak solution of pot ashes, or a generous admixture of fresh wood ashes and the subsequent moistening of the heap, would undoubtedly do the weed seeds such harm that they could never recover from it. When, as in this case, compost making is be regarded as a device for cleaning the land, as well as for fertilizing it, some part of the cost of making the compost must, of course, be credited to the destruction of weeds. Another striking instance where alkali composts are in order is seen in the case of celgrass (zostera marina) which grows abundantly upon muddy bottoms in salt and brackish waters. This eelgrass is a singularly indestructible kind of organic matter. It decays with extreme slowness in. the barnyard or the hogpen or when buried in the earth. But it may easily be decomposed by composting with quicklime or any other strong alkali, and it is well worthy of such treatment since it contains one and one-third per is the king of fruits. Its season is cent. of nitrogen, one per cent. of the whole year, late keepers being potash, and a quarter of a per cent. of phosphoric acid, besides lime and magnesia. It may well be true that alkali composts, such as have been described above, would be benefited if after some months of decay and putrefaction, they were moistened forms, or should form, a part of with barn yard liquor, sewage or night soil for the purpose of intro- keeping the bowels in proper conducing a supply of the peculiar fer- dition, acting on the liver and ment which causes nitrification and warding off bilious diseases. To this end it may perhaps be advisable to keep some old special heaps as reservoirs of the nitric ferment, for the CARE OF MILCH COWS .- During he intense hot weather of summer cows, unless in a very extra pasture, with plenty of shade and good water, fail very much in their proluctiveness. When once partially lried up it is hard to bring them into full flow again during the season. The greatest care should be taken to give them plenty of some kind of nutritions soil feed, corn, oats or whatever green feed a farmer may happen to have. Feed they must have or dry up-there is no such thing as milk and butter without feed. If cows are obliged to work hard all day in short pasture during hot weather to obtain barely enough to keep them alive they will become too much heated and fatigued to keep up a full flow of milk, and whoever expects any profit from cows in hot weather must feed them enough so that as the heat of the day advances they may retire to the shade for comfort and re pose. Excessive heat is more injurious to a milch cow than short feed. Cows require plenty to eat without great exercise to get it, and repose. It is more profitable to feed shorts, oil-meal or grain suffer cows to dry up. Cows should be driven very slowly, particularly in hot weather, that they may not be overheated; and if yarded nights should always have a full supply of clean water. DON'T CROWD THE FRUIT TREES .-In setting out fruit trees it is not ancommon to see insufficient allowance made for their future growth; hence when the years have passed and the little saplings have attained their full size, their spreading branches almost, if not quite, interlace, excluding neede I sunlight and air from the lower branches and bringing the roots into too near neighborhood. It has been observed that their lower branches of trees planted in this way produce inferior fruit, while the upper branches, receiving abundance of sun and air, give fruit of good qual ity; also that the outer rows of these trees have finer fruit than the inner rows. These facts teach a lesson likewise in pruning. Branches should not be allowed to grow so thickly as to exclude a fair share of light and air from any part of the tree. The distance apart the trees should be set must be determined by the climate and by the All Prices! kind of tree; the size of even the same variety of trees varies more or less with the climate. Less complaint would be heard about nonfruiting years if a generous belt of sunlight was allowed between the rows of the trees, and the sun annually supplied sufficient food for material to restore that used in the production of large crops of fruit.

PLANT APPLE TREES .- While we recommend farmers to plant apple trees, we do not wish to be understood as underrating all other kinds of hardy fruits, for all kinds of hardy fruits should be found on every farm. But, then, the apple on hand, if proper care has been taken of them, when the early varieties again ripen. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE. THE MOST SUCCESSFUL REMEDY ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

FROM REV. P. N. GRANGER, Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District. St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880. Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents: In reply with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four year ago I. procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not larne, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

PERSEVERANCE WILL TELL. Stoughton, Mass., March 16th, 1880. B. J. KENDALL & Co., GENTS: In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me its sale will Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER. be very great.

Acme, Michigan, December 28th, 187:.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., GENTS: I sent you one dollar for your "Kendall's Spavin Cure" last summer which cured a bone spavin with half a bottle. The best liniment I ever Yours respectfully, HOMER HOXIE.

STATEMENT MADE UNDER OATH. TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—In the year 1875 I treated with Kendall's Spayin Cure, a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's egg, and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he never has been lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated him with Kendall's Spavin Cure.

Patten's Mills, Washington Co., N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878. B. J. KENDALL, M. D.: Dear Sir-The particular case on which I used your "Spavin Cure" was a malignant ankle sprain of sixteen months' standing. I had tried many things, but in vain. Your "Spavin Cure" put the foot to the ground again, and, for the first time since hurt, in a natural position. For a family liniment it excels anything we ever used. REV. M. P.BELL, Yours truly, REV. M. P. BELL, Pastor M. E. Church, Patten's Mills, N. Y.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its etfeets, mild in its action as it does not blis-ter, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheu-matism in man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects. Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues.
