The State Fair.

The State Fair has been a suc cess, and Secretary Holloway has cause to be gratified, and the public to be satisfied. It was our pleasure to see it in part on Thursday, on which occasion it was estimated teathat there were about three thouscook of persons present. A noticeable she Wure was the absence of the usual durabliplement of thimble-riggers, ed evergated hogs, fat women,&c, which begave satisfaction to the majority. and no doubt dissatisfaction to the few whose tastes ran in that direc-There was little there to attract attention from the exhibits were fine both inside and The feature which attracted the greatest attention on the part of the ladies was the baby show, and we feel proud that a young Newberry mother took the first prize, in showing the biggest and finest baby for its age. This lady is Mrs. Fannie Meredith, and the youngest daughter of Mr. Richard Chapman. The Poultry display was unusually good, as was that of sheep, hogs, cattle and horses. There was a splendid display too of all kinds of machinery. We have only space further to add that this meeting of the State Agricultural and Mechanical Society has shown that our citizens, farmers and manufacturers, are giving evi-

The Scientific American of this week contains two full page illustrations of Captain Eads' proposed railway for transporting ships with their cargo across continents.

Captain Eads claims by his plan to be able to take loaded ships of the largest tonnage from one ocean to the other across the Isthmus of Panama, as readily as can be done by a canal after the Lessep plan, and at a much less cost for engineering construction.

The project is certainly bold and ingenious, and the projector anticipates no serious difficulties in carrying forward his enterprise. The engravings referred to in the Scientific American show the proposed construction of not only the railroad, but the appliances for transferring the ships from the water to from experience that many half grown

FOR THE HERALD. From Smokey Town.

As we sit by ourselves, save the companionship of Him who has said I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee" we cannot realize the fearful ness in that word loneliness, of which so many complain. Tupper says "my mind to me a kingdom is," and if his be so to him why not ours to us? If only a weak one, it is more than we can manage well and much more than we deserve. None can appreciate that godlike gift so much as when alone with it and its Great Giver. They inherently discover the fact that it will not rest and that idleness if it means, negative state of that Heavon-born power is not use in a significant sense. Solitude's hours, like the mind are Divine blessings and will be employed in praising or injuring the Great First Cause. Then why not let our lone hours be well spent, that they may bear fruit and flowers for after years. These thoughts occur to us as we are alone in our new home.

Our home is situated in that part of the country known to you as Smokey Town. Why the appellation, we do not know unless the amount of pine knots to be burnt has caused the impression that smoke will be abundant. Sure we are that the moonbeams are as unsullied, the sunbeams as brilliant, and the atmosphere as pure as found in other localities with more prepossesing names. The cottage homes have no dingy appearance. On the contrary their inward neatness bespeaks such housewives as Solomon describes in Proverbs. The little cot in which we dwell recalls to mind Goldsmith's writings. Its walls have been nicely whitewashed, and it has glass windows with blinds like our grandfather's house, made of whole plank, which seemed really to shut out both darkness and cold. When our house is illuminated by a large lightwood fire, we think it perfectly enchanting. It reminds us of our ancestral days, when lamps were unknown and when "the big Ha' Bible once our father's pride" was read, by firelight, each morn and eve in praise to our father's God. How long worship seemed then to our sleepy little eyes, but what sweet incense did it berry County. leave us for after years. Yes,

"Memory still loves to hover o'er the plac-And all our pleasures and our pains recrace." Remember parents, oh! remember how your children will love to feed on such reflections.

Everything here is very quiet, compared with the bustling little hamlet which we left with its cars, mills, gins, stores and strips. So much so that true to say we are sometimes startled by the gentle tramp of the little wren on the porch, but its grateful twitter soon tells who is at the door asking only "crumbs." The great owl hoots at night, and one night a little owl dared to screech, but L. the hired girl soon hushed it with a handful of salt on the coals. Oh! how dreadful the fetters of superstition. Would that our children could never hear ominous signs. Ye mothers, better were it for your children to strengthen their lungs by a few fits of crying, than to have them pass through vouth's sensitive days distressed by portentous falsehoods, to which they cannot help giving some credence, in spite of the remonstraces of wiser heads. Well do we remember how the whippoorwill flying around the ash hopper in dusky twilight, the rabbit crossing our path or the old watch dog cooling his back on the grass, would fill us with fear.

We learned it from the negroes and it was so easy to believe. Hancock Declines a Contest.

He Would Not Be A Technical President if He Could.

NEW YORK, November 7 .- It is stated on excellent authority that Gen. Hancock yesterday addressed a letter to Chairman Barnum, in which be said that he had been consulted by s veral committees with reference to proposed revision of the vote cast on last Tuesday, with a view to contesting the election in New York State in his interest. He had also seen the same course commended in certain Democratic newspapers. He wished to say that the movement did not meet his approval, as it appeared to be based upon unprovable assertions and inadequate grounds, and, further, because the movement, so far as it concerned him personally, was open to the insuperable objection that under no circumtances would be consent to be technical President. Mr Barnum left town for Connecticut early this afternoon, and the letter could not be obtained, but a gentelman who has just returned from Governor's Island says no doubt the letter is in his possession and that the obove summary gives its purport correctly.
