Sheep Raising.

Col. J. Wash Watts, of Laurens, writes to the Charleston News and Courier "that it is really surprising to see how little encouragement sheep husbandry gets from the Press of the State. No branch of the farming interests pays as well, and it ought to be encouraged in every possible way."

Col. Watts is prepared to speak knowingly on this subject, as he has for many years paid much attention to sheep raising. We know a few farmers here and there that raise sheep, and they all say that it pays handsomely. Our farmers should pay more attention

A Boy with a Tail,

There is a white boy near Vaughnsville, in this County, five years old, that is a natural curiosity. He has a tail about a foot long, and about an inch in diameter. Dr. Mayer, Jr., who saw the child, thinks the formation is an undeveloped fœtus, and that it came near being another case of "Siamese Twins". The formation has bones in it, but there is no bone at the junction with the body, which is exactly at the termination of the spinal column. It could be cut off with little trouble and with perfect safety. In this connection, we would add that Dr. Mayer says the statement made one the best medicines I have taken by a correspondent of the Laurensville lege of amputating it is incorrect; that he did nothing of the kind; but, as the parents are poor, he did offer to amputate it for nothing.

Idle Saturdays.

The Abbeville Press & Banner says: "Although nearly every farmer is behind with the big crops which he has undertaken, crowds of their mules, wagons and field hands fill our streets every Saturday. They come early, and loaf about during the whole of the day."

The same is true, in every particular, ed every Saturday by the colored population that it is almost impossible to get along. They stand in large groups on every corner; they sit around in gangs on the curb stones; they hang around "from early morn till dewy ere" with perfect idleness. If time thus lost could be calculated and summed up it would surprise the farmers. It makes

Our Sunday Schools. We would speak a word for our Sun day Schools of which there are in this town no less than six. Are they prospering? Do all the children attend? Alas, no. Two reasons, if no more, may be assigned as the cause. First, the negligence of teachers, who make it a point to attend as irregularly as possible, and who when they do attend seldom make any effort to interest the children. There is no surer way of getting near to a child's heart than by showing an interest in it, and when that is secured, the good seed can be sown-the great object of the Sunday School. A punctual attendance, too, on the teachers' part secures punctuality on the part of the pupil. When the teacher absents him or herself the child is sure to follow the example. A faith-Ten ful, punctual teacher will always have subscribers at $51 each will be suffi- a full class. Second, much of the blame attaches to parents, who for the most part have no objection to their children attending this means of improvement, but who do not make it a point to see that they are ready to go and insist on their going, and who do not whenever convenient encourage them by attending also. There are scores of children in this town who do not attend Sabbath School, who we feel satisfied could be induced to go if the proper efforts were made. We wish our people would

Peterson's Magazine

For July is on our table, ahead of all others, as usual. We have so often spoken of this lady's book, as the cheapest and best, that all we can do now is to reiterate that opinion. The present number is peculiarly rich in embellishments. The steel Plate, 'The First Train,' is one of those charming illustrations, never seen except in 'Peterson.' The colored steel fashion plate is gem, as 'beautiful as a dream,' as a lady at our elbow says. There is a profusely illustrated article on 'Ancient and Modern Gardens,' and a prettily illustrated love-story, by Agnus James, 'Paste and Diamond.' In this number, we have the first chapters of a lastorical novelet. 'The News From Yorktown,' which is also illustrated, and which is particularly appropriate, as this is the Yorktown 'Centennial Year. In addition to this, there are some two score cuts of fashions, work-table designs, etc. ; besides a beautiful colored pattern for a Photograph Frame, in daises on black velvet, alone worth the price of the number. Every lady ought to be a subscriber for this magazine. The terms are but two dollars a year, with great reductions to clubs, and handsome premiums to the person getting up the club. Picnic at Helena.

The Annual Picnic of the Marion Street Church Sunday School of Columbia, was celebrated last Thursday at Helena; the coaches bearing their precious freight of two hundred and fifty pupils, teachers and friends, with a wilderness of baskets, boxes, barrels and bundles rolling into the Newberry Depot at 9.30. Here as also at Helena It was hope to have the frolic on the green sward, but the weather clerk getting sulky, by permission of the reigning powers at the Work Shops the party was kindly taken out of the rain into the large car shop and there made comfortable. It was decidedly a pleasant affair, the dinner being a grand success, not only as to variety, quality and quantity, but as to the admirable management of the committee of ladies who superintended it. Ehrichs' Fashion Quarterly is one of those publications of which the ladies (Heaven bless them!) never tire. Season after season it comes to tell its readers in which direction the weather vane of Fashion points-what stuffs and pattern are likely to be most in vogue-what styles are ikely to be worn-and what prices are ruling in the great Metropolitan retain mers. Its practical utility is unquestionable. Most Fashion periodicals are simply promoters of extravagance; but the POEMS AND SKETCHES Fashion Quarterly suggests economy on of the designs of Parisian costumes, it gives its readers illustrations of solid, serviceable articles of wear for every day use, drawn from actual garments of American make, with a description of the materials of each, and a statement of the prices at
