"The Star of Bethlehem."

We have seen in a score or more country papers recently the same mistake in regard to the "Star of correspondent "P." There is no such star now visible. That which "P." and others mistake for it is the planet Jupiter.

A very brilliant star suddenly appeared in the constellation Casiopea in 1572; it was brighter than Venus, and could be distinctly seen at midday. It disappeared in less than two years, and has not been visible since. As a similar star had appeared in the same constellation twice previously at intervals of about 300 years they are supposed to be identical; and it is called the "Star of Bethlehem." If it is a periodical star it is about time for its appearance again; but it has not come yet.

The Charleston Herald says: "A fire occurred yesterday evening at tives of Department officials, favorites Bristol in a large printing and stationary store." Are we to infer gressmen, that the soldier gets pretty from this that they have movable. or locomotive, stores in Bristol? The mistake was no doubt only a typographical one on the part of ter a careful and thorough canvass of the Herald; but we mention this every Department and feel constrained instance for the benefit of the many who spell stationery (meaning pens, ink, papers, &c.,) with an a.

Washington Letter.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

Oct. 20, 1881. There is an organization here in Washington, composed of veterans of the late war, which is making preparations to stir up some of the nests in the Government Departments with a very sharp stick. A committee of this organization has been at work for some months gathering the data upon which to base their action, and when the developments come there will be Bethlehem" that is made by our a scattering all along the line. During the Presidency of Grant we heard great deal on the subject of nepo tism. The provision which the Administration made for its own and its wife's relations was the subject of much discussion in the newspapers and undoubtedly had its effect. If that was the origin in this country of what Webster calls 'an undue fondness for nephews and other relations' among those in authority, certainly the disease has spread with exceeding rapidity. There is so much of it in every Department of the Government at this time that it has come to be a crying evil. And that is what these eterans are going for. It has been understood that exsoldiers, qualifications and other things being equal, were to have the preference in appointment to minor positions under the Government, but they do not get it. Such a large proportion of places are filled by the relaof Senators and mistresses of Conunanimously left. This is not mere idle talk ; it is a solid fact, based upor actual investigation. I have seen the lists now in course of completion afto say that there will be some music when Congress assembles this winter. There are over seven hundred cases where from two to fourteen members of favorite families are on the Government pay-rolls, drawing salaries ranging from $900 to $2,500 per year. Assistant Secretary French of the Treasury has ten members of his famly snugly stowed away, seven of them, consisting of sons, nephews and nieces, are attached to the Treasury and its various bureaus. Chief Brooks, of the Secret Service division of the Treasury Department, is happily provided with salaries agregating some-They go for the old flag and an thing over $11,000 in his immediate family. These are merely samples. To go on through the list would re- bible. quire too much space, though it might be what Horace Greeley used to term 'mighty interestin' reading.' Sometimes a Secretary or bureau chief after providing fer a goodly number of his relations in his own department to save appearances, uses his influence to get the rest of them in somewhere clse. Secretary Hunt of the Navy Department is the latest spring and the ties of consauguinity. He has snugly located all his four sons where they can do the most good -for themselves-the Navy positions as in the Army being for life, or during good behavior. Other relations have also been provided for. Appros of Hunt there is a strong effort being made to keep him in the Cabinet but I am certain it is wholly without effect. Had General Garfield continued in his administration both Hunt and Kirkwood would most probably be in retirement. Both have proven failures. I am not now speaking my private opinion but giving the facts which must go to make up history. Mr. Hunt was given a position in the Cabinet as a Southern man, but with the distinct understanding that it was an experiment so far as he was concerned and that if at any time a change was desired his place was at the disposal of the President. It was also understood that as he gave up a life judgeship to enter the Cabinet he would The Code Commission has the be properly cared for in case he left it. This arrangement President Arthur will no doubt bear in mind. I saw Judge Davis this morning and could but notice that the smiles which wreathed his countenance the day he was elected President of the Capt. Bogardus, the world re- Senate had all disappeared. In fact the old gentlemsn is a little worried. That this is true is evidenced in his tion of his wonderful skill with the people thought of his election. Besides he knows that the Republicans will likely elect some one else to the position one of these days. The Judge now perhaps, realizes that he made a mistake in accepting the position. But it was the first and only chance he has ever had to make one step toward the Presidency. He has had the Presidential bee in his bonnet for years. Your correspondent dent of the live stock department attended the Cincinnati convention in 1872 and saw car loads of delegates come in from Illinois whose expenses purse. But for the obstinate and expensive fight made for him in that convention his State would have voted and sympathetic, she laughed with the hap for Trumbull, instead of dividing its tion for others was a marked feature in her character. Her presence, her mind, her vote, and the result not only of the convention but of the campaign that followed would, probably, have been different. Previous to this the Judge has just accepted a nomination from some harum scarum couvention in New Jersey. But ambition is too much for many a public man. Perhaps the two most notable instances in our recent history are Horace Greely and Salmon P. Chase, 'I charge thee,

Horstio, fling away ambition.'

FOR THE HERALD. A Call on Newberry County.

Pomaria, S. C., Oct. 24, 1881. EDITORS HERALD: I desire, through your columns, to beg that our good friends of Newberry County contribute liberally in the way of exhibits at the approaching State Fair. The County Fair in your town was a grand success; not only in the number of exhibits, but more particularly in the quality-in the display of horses especially.

I trust, therefore, that our people will send their entries to me at this place until the 30th inst.; after that ime my Post Office will be Columbia.

Respectfully, THOS. W. HOLLOWAY, Secretary.

There are certain groups of this description which strike the attention of every observer; of these the group called the Pleiades, or seven stars, is the most obvious to observers. You may see these seven stars every clear night. To the South of the seven stars you can see a beautiful star that makes its appearance three times in a thousand years This star is called the Star of Bethlehem. This new and uncommon star appeared in the heavens over the city of David, which served as a signal that the Star of Jacob had arisen upon the world, and as a guide to certain persons called Wise Men who came from the East to Drumolds, Mrs. Caro-Park, H. S. Jerusalem to inquire after him who Glenu, Eliza was born King of the Jews.

This star is the guide of all good men and women to heaven. It stood over the Louse where the holy family resided at Bethlehem. Read your Early Nominations.

The following nominations for State officers and Judges, which we find in the correspondence of the Aiken Journal & Review, are very good but extremely early:

Editors Journal and Review: It has heretofore been the custom of the people of this State to delay making any nomination for State officers till just prior to the election. I don't think that a good plan; men and measures should be thoroughly discussed before the time comes for nom.

Feeling as I do, I propose the following gentlemen to fill the various offices of the State :

For Governor-Gen. John D. Kennedy, of Kershaw. For Lieutenant Governor-Hon. John C. Sheppard, of Edgefield.

For Attorney General-Hon. James

DIED, in the city of Columbia, on the 20th Oct., 1881, LILLA, grand-daughter of Col. J. P. Pool, of Newberry. No gentler, sweeter child ever passed from earth to heaven. Possessed of great personal beauty—petted and caressed by all, yet was she without vanity. Tender heart all united to make her an unusual, winsome child. At home, at school, at church—by her teachers, by her school-mates, by her Pastor—everywhere by everybody who ever knew her, she was beloved. When comes there such another? It is hard to give her up thus early ere the sun had climbed half way towards a noon of such promised splendor. Yet so it is. Death has put in his envious sickle and cut down before it had fully blown, the fairest sweetest flower of all the field. The divine odor— with interest from the day of sale, with and the put in his envious sickle and cut down before it had fully blown, the fairest sweetest flower of all the field. The divine odor— with interest from the day of sale, with and extended nucler any circumstances. the recollection and influence of her almost perfect child life—is all that is left us, except the consolation that this rarest flower -transplanted to a happier clime-shall bloom always with an ever increasing brightness and beauty.

An exchange, before us, thus describes the affair: "Forepaugh's show parade should be seen to be appreciated; nothing in the way of street pageants, show parades, or public procession has ever been made, that in extent, novelty and lavish display, could be compared to this monster and marvelous display made by Foreprugh's great show. The pageant of Lalla Rookh, wherein is seen

TWENTY RICHLY-ROBED ELEPHANTS, and the beautiful maid of India, personated by Forepaugh's famous ten-thousand dollar beauty, whose loveliness is said to exceed that of Mrs. Langtry, the famous English beauty, is one of the many novelties seen in this parade. This lady personates Lalla Rookh, and appears in the pageant, seated in an oriental howdah, upon the back of a kingly elephant; all the attendants of the Court of Delhi are represented in this pageant, and the spectacle is really the most beautifully realistic Eastern pageant ever
