Improved Farming Imple-

One of the most encouraging signs of the times is an increased interest in improved implements for farm work. Farming machinery has been very commonly used in the Northern States, and in a few States South, for several years. But the South generally has been slow to adopt these improvements. The Atlanta Exposition has had the effect of interesting the South in this subject as she never was be fore. Now, at every country town are found agents for the sale of all sorts of farming machinery; the most intelligent and prosperous farmers are becoming thoroughly interested in such things, and are convinced of the propriety and wisdom of instituting a new system in farming. These machines are being bought, and they are being used with the most satisfactory results. The chief objection made to them here is, that our lands are not suffi ciently level to admit of their general use; that stumps and rocks. ditches, gullies and hillsides are in the way. These difficulties can, however, be removed in most cases. A farmer in this County, who bought a reaper a year or two ago, told the writer of this that in one year he took up as many as one thousand stumps in his fields; he then sowed his grain; rolled the land with a heavy roller, and had a smooth, level field over which the reaper could travel and do its work. Every farmer can do the same. There is scarcely a field anywhere that cannot be made fit for the use of a reaper, mower, cultivator, or any other improved implement. All that is needed is a little more care.

One good effect of a general use of labor-saving machinery will be to make the white people more independent. There is constant com plaint that so many white men are averse to working in the fields; and this aversion is nearly always ascribed to false pride. But there is tition as a laborer with a colored laborer: and he is not altogether to blame for it. For when he com petes in manual labor-in muscleworth no more, and commands no more, than that of the black; and Eureka Springs. he cannot receive the same compendesirable, but are almost necessary to respectability. The plain truth is-and accusations of false pride and laziness cannot remedy itthat white muscle cannot compete successfully with negro muscle. And herein arises the necessity for labor saving machinery, that the skilled labor of the white man can take hold of: so that he can use not only his muscle, but his intelligence, his energy and his skill also.

The killing of the Lord Secretary of Ireland at any time would have been a most atrocious crime; but his murder at this time is not only a great crime, but is a very great misfortune to Ireland. Premier Gladstone had just inaugurated a new policy of conciliation toward the Irish, which promised peace and prosperity, and gave satisfaction to the Land League leaders.

May 4, 1882. There has never been a more unanmons raid, so to speak, in the direc tion of appropriations for public buildings than is, being made this session.
