Fraud Feared by Democrats.

WASHINGTON, October 2—"What we have to fear," said Representative Richardson here to-day, "in the coming election is the wholesale corruption of the ballot box, and I want to warn every Democrat to be on guard to prevent his. I am reliably informed that the enormous campaign fund which the Republicans shave raised will be hargely used in this way, and it will require the utmost vigilance on our part to prevent a repetition of the work done in '96.

"At the present time everything is favorable to the election of our national ticket, and, so far, it has not developed as to the method the other side will employ in putting out their money, but there is no doubt they will attempt corruption in some form."

Regarding the situation in New York R. Richardson said:
"Our chances in the State improve daily and I am hearing nothing but favorable reports from all sections. I arried in the state will be nable to fulfill that promise. Up the State the leaders are working hard in harmony with Croker, and I am satisfied that the Republican majorities above New York City will be materially reduced and that the State will be safely for Bryan."

On the general situation Mr. Richardson expressed himself as being well be added to the leaders are working hard in harmony with Croker, and I am satisfied that the Republican majorities above New York City will be materially reduced and that the State will be safely for Bryan."

The Anti-Lynching Law.

The anti-lynching law of this State, making the county responsible for damages to the family of the victim, has received another black, says the Charlesages to the family of the victim, has received another black, says the Charleston correspondent of the State. The correspondent adds: On January 4th, 1897, Isaac Brown, a negro, was found hanging to the railroad crossing at Stillton, Orangeburg county, his neck broken St. Paul, Minn., September 26.— President Hill of the Great Northern has case has been had and another verdict rendered for the county of Orangeburg The defense offered no testimony, rely ing upon the failure to prove a lynching, which they contended required the occurrence of a mob or a multitude of persons. Buchanan, the Presiding Judge, charged the jury that a lynching might be committed by a mob or by any person or persons, but the charge appears to have had no effect on the jury. A mo-tion for a new trial will be made, but this second verdict shows conclusively that the anti-lynching provision in the constitution of 1895 is a dead failure so far as it provides damages for the heirs of the victim, though it is admitted that in its primary object, the suppression of lynching in this State, it has been largely successful.
