Our Great Postoffice.

One of the most striking evidences of the rapid growth of the country is to be found in the annual report of the Postmaster General. It shows that the receipts of the lepartment for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, were nearly $102,500,-000. For the preceding fiscal year the receipts were $95,000,000 in round numbers. The fiscal year ended June 30, 1900, was the first one in which our postal receipts passed the $100,000,000 mark. The revenue of the department has practically doubled in 12 years. postal receipts of no other nation have increased anything like so fast and no other nation makes anything like so large a use of the mails as do we. The increased efficiency of the postal service is one of the reasons for the great growth of its receipts. The people rely more and more upon the mails for business and social

Several attempts have been made to exclude this sort of stuff from second class rating and it is hoped that something like the Loud bill will be passed by the next Congress.

A Gruesome Prophecy.

The most famous of newspaper correspondents, Henri de Blowitz, takes a very gloomy view of the future. De Blowitz is generally considered the best informed man on politics in Europe, and his views usually carry great weight. For thirty years he has been the Paris correspondent of he London Times and has frequently known more State secrets han any statesman in Europe. This wise correspondent is usually very calm and conservative, but of late he seems to have taken the role of an alarmist. He predicts that in the near future there will be a war between all the civilized nations, a war which in the magnitude of its proportions and its results will surpass all of the great conflicts of the past. The nations, as viewed by de Blowitz, are full of fight. They have ambitions and schemes which are so conflicting that a clash between them very soon is inevitable and when the trouble starts it will almost cerainly involve all the powers. When the Czar called the great Peace Conference de Blowitz predicted that it would accomplish nothing. He now sees more signs of war than have been visible for a long time and his high character as an observer has caused his prediction to receive very general attention .-Atlanta Journal.
