BARNARD B. EVANS BEHIND THE BARS.

The dispatches sent out from Columbia late Saturday afternoon announcing the killing of Capt. J. J. Griffin in the room of Major B. B. Evans gave a surprise and shock to all. It was more surprise at the occurrence of an event that might be expected at any time than at its possibility. Those who have known Mr. Evans personally, or have watched even casually his career for the past few years, will have no reason for surprise beyond that commonly experienced when the expected happens. There were no eye-witnesses to this lamentable tragedy, and whether Evans tried the fatal shot, or, as he claims, Griffin put an end to his own life, may never be known. The testimony brought out at the coroner's inquest looked decidedly in favor of the theory that Griffin met death at the hands of Evans. Had Evans been sober—in other words, had he been sober—we do not believe the tragedy would have taken place. His greatest weakness was his love for whiskey, and when under its influence he is not himself. Evans sober is a gentleman, Evans drunk is anything else. What he was before he entered politics we do not profess to know. For several years he has dabbled freely in politics and more freely in whiskey. Naturally talented, he has thrown away many opportunities that another would have eagerly grasped. His family connection and influence are such that, had he seen fit to make a proper use of them, his future would have been bright. He has been constantly "dropping the substance and grasping at shadows." The use and abuse of whiskey has put him behind the bars. He has placed himself in the position of a "horrible example" for the young men of the State. Let us hope that many who are traveling the same road Evans has traveled will draw a lesson from his experience and change their course. There are those holding positions of honor and trust in the State government who may profit by Evans' downfall. The final outcome of this tragedy will be awaited with interest by the whole State. The two most damning influences at work in the country—whiskey and the over-ready pistol—have as usual figured prominently in the affair. It would be well for every man to give careful thought to the danger he runs in tampering with whiskey; it would be well for him to consider the fact that he who, as a private citizen, habitually carries a pistol is a coward—if not physically, then morally.

Death of Mr. Thomas J. Dalrymple.

Townville, April 10.—Mr. Thomas J. Dalrymple died suddenly at his home near here at sunset yesterday. He was about 60 years of age and had been in poor health for many years, but it is probable that his sudden death was due to a terrible wound received in the war for Southern independence. He was a native of Laurens county, but had resided here since about the year 1872. He was good man and citizen, and an influential member of the Methodist church. He was one of the principal promoters of the church to be erected here in memory of the late J. Walter Dickson, and his death will be felt in that enterprise. Mr. Dalrymple volunteered at the beginning of the war and became a member of the 3d South Carolina Regiment. He was badly wounded at Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862, near the Mayre mansion, and to behind which he dragged himself and lay all the surgeons came. He went back to his command with his wound, which was to trouble him to the end of his days, was but partially healed, and fought with his comrades to the end.—Correspondence News and Courier.

Last winter I was confined to my bed with a very bad cold, coughs, and lung trouble, and finally my wife brought me a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure that effected a speedy cure. I cannot speak too highly of this remedy.

Dr. Landrum Dead.

Spartanburg, April 13.—Dr. J. B. O. Landrum died today from a carbuncle on the neck. He represented the county in the Legislature, and was Land Commissioner in Oklahoma under Cleveland. His greatest and most useful work was the writing of the Colonial History of upper South Carolina and the history of this country. His work is a fine legacy he leaves for the people.

Assault Required by Instant Death.

Montgomery, Ala., April 13.—A Tuscaloosa (Ala.) special says: "Emmet Crittenden, a well-known and prosperous farmer, residing in Spring Valley, avenged the brutal assault upon his nineteen-year-old daughter Thursday by emptying a load of buckshot into the negro, Ernest West, killing him instantly. After the killing, Crittenden surrendered to the sheriff of Macon county."

The girl encountered a negro while passing through a skirt of woods near her home on the way to the house of a neighbor, and was overpowered by him, and threatened with death if she told her father. Later she told her father, and he, quietly mounting his horse, came to Tusculum, secured two rounds of buckshot, returned to his home, loaded his gun, took him out to the roadside, and, as the negro came out to do his day's work, emptied the contents of the gun into him. Crittenden has a large family and his daughter was one of the most popular young ladies in the neighborhood.

If troubled by a weak digestion, loss of appetite, or constipation, try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Every box warranted. For sale by Dr. J. W. Bell, Walhalla.

JOHN HUNTER, RAPIST, CAPTURED.

How the Georgia Fiend was Landed in Anderson County Jail.

Lavonia, Ga., April 13.—In Thursday's Constitution was a special from Greenville, S. C., about the capture of "John Johnson" and who was said to be lodged in Hartwell jail. The facts are these: He is John Hunter, colored, who assaulted the four-year-old daughter of Mr. J. E. Conwell, three miles south of here, and for whom the Governor has offered a reward of $100. He was caught near Pickens Court House, S. C., at a single mill. A man at Toconia has an interest in the mill and as John's father lived in Toconia and John often visited him, the shingle mill man knew him and caused his capture. He was caught and kept for some days and concealed, while every question about reward was made plain, and then Sheriff Kidd, of Hart county, was notified and he went and insisted on carrying him to Hartwell, where a lynching he would have been. He was carried to Anderson, S. C., and he is in jail there now. In his troubles before, which were many, Hunter says he learned to dodge around home and change his name. He did that successfully for a while under an alias every day. He never got over forty miles from home. He was at a country post office when one of the postal clerks describing him and his crime were read and he says he was afraid to leave and sat around and asked the man to hire him. He then went to Pickens Court House, where court was in session, and sat for three days in the Court House hearing criminals tried when the country was being scoured for him. Mr. Conwell, the father, has written a card in The Hartwell Sun saying that since his friends have helped him to capture Hunter, he is willing for the law to take its course.

"I have been troubled with indigestion for ten years, have tried many things and spent much money to no purpose until I tried Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have two bottles and gotten much relief from them than all other medicines taken. I feel more like a boy than I have felt in twenty years." Anderson Riggs, Sunny Lane, Texas. Thousands have testified as did Mr. Riggs.

The executive committee is authorized to appoint a Junior committee, as many in number as they may require, to assist them. J. C. Strubling, Commander. R. E. Sloan, Adjutant. Camp Tally Simpson.

A Testimonial from Old England.

"I consider Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the best in the world for bronchitis," says Mr. Wm. Savory, of Warrington, England. "It has saved my wife's life, she having been a martyr to bronchitis for over six years, being most of the time confined to her bed. She is now quite well." Sold by J. W. Bell, Walhalla.

A Murderous Pittsburg Gang.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 12.—There has scarcely been a more eventful day in the annals of the Pittsburg police than today. Thomas D. Kahne, a Mount Washington grocer, was shot and killed in his home by three burglars while defending his wife, who was being chloroformed. A few hours later the rendezvous of the alleged felons was discovered at 32 Fulton street and a force of detectives put to work on the case. In a desperate fight which followed, City Detective Patrick E. Fitzgerald was instantly killed and one of the robbers, who gave his name as Edward Wright, who fired the shots that killed Fitzgerald, was badly wounded. Two male and two female members of the alleged robber gang were arrested, and diamonds and other booty worth from $3,000 to $4,000 recovered. The whole of the gang is believed to be in custody and the detectives have evidence that the men are responsible for the numerous burglaries of the past month or two in and about this city. The wounded prisoner was removed to Mercy Hospital, where it is said he may recover, although he was shot three times. The others arrested gave their names as Robert Wilcox and his wife, Jennie; J. B. Wright, a brother of the alleged murderer, and a woman said to be his wife. They were taken to central station, where it was learned that all were from Chicago. Wilcox is said to be known in that city as "Kid" Nichols. Mrs. Wilcox admitted that they had all come from Chicago, and that they had been working here since then.

Defeated the Dispensary.

By a vote of 150 to 56 the town of Rock Hill refused to permit the establishment of a dispensary there. This is the culmination of a warm local fight. Little shops Rock Hill between sixty and seventy thousand dollars' worth of liquor a year. The dispensary would have taken ten thousand a year profits to having the dispensary.

B. B. EVANS CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Capt. J. J. Griffin Dies in Evans' Room from the Effects of a Pistol Shot. Evans Says He Committed Suicide, but the Evidence Does not Appear to Bear Out the Theory—Looks Bad for Evans.

Columbia, April 13.—Capt. John J. Griffin, Commercial Agent of the Norfolk & Western Railroad, with headquarters in this city, was killed this afternoon in the room of Major B. B. Evans. Evans was arrested and placed in jail to await the verdict of the coroner's jury.

BULLET FIRED FROM DISTANCE.

Dr. Robert Earle, who had held the post-mortem, testified that the ball must have been fired from a distance of five feet or more from Griffin. There were powder marks on the back of Griffin's right forearm and there were bruises on each side of his face, on his nose, on his forehead and under his chin. The evidence of Dr. Gibbs confirmed the report of the dramatic scene between himself and Evans, when the latter was informed that Griffin was dying.

Other evidence corroborated the main story, that there were no eye-witnesses and that in the room were indications of drinking. The police described Evans' hysteria and declared that he asserted that Griffin had shot himself.

No powder marks. The physician who made the post-mortem testified to an absence of burns from Capt. Griffin's shirt and hand, which were powder pitted, and that the muzzle of the weapon was at least five feet distant. This was a staggering blow to Major Evans' declaration that it was suicide.

In his testimony Police Officer James Dunning related how Dr. Gibbs had come to the station, told him of the trouble and warned that Evans was a crazy drunk and had a large Colt's pistol lying on the table. He, Dr. Gibbs, and Officer Williamson went to the room. "I went up to the room, keeping perfectly quiet. I asked Dr. Gibbs to knock at the door, thinking he would lead Dr. Gibbs in before us as he had been in before. Meantime Judge Gary came up and said he believed he would call him. He called him several times by his name, 'Barney.' He came to the door. Judge Gary told him that the officers of the law were up there and he had to come out of the room. I was standing by Judge Gary and walked up to the door, and he said: 'You all can't come in here.'"

"Evans said this to Judge Gary and myself. Laying his hand on my shoulder, he said to me: 'You all can't come in here.' "I told him it was our business to come in and we were going in. He attempted to close the door. We went on in and he offered no further resistance. Myself, Dr. Gibbs, Judge Gary and Officer Williamson entered the room. He ordered Judge Gary out and told him to 'get out.' Dr. Gibbs walked on to where the man was lying on the bed. He ordered Dr. Gibbs out and said he was trying to kill the man and he had given him an injection and thrown the syringe away, and he wanted Dr. Gibbs to get out. Dr. Gibbs told him if he did not want him to attend the man he would not do it.

"Evans wanted Gibbs to leave. "He said he wanted a doctor, but did not want Dr. Gibbs. We told him we would get any doctor he wanted. I asked him how Dr. Knowlton would do, and he said he did not want him. Then I called Dr. Philpot's name, and he said that he would do. I stepped to the room door to send Dr. Philpot. I saw Dr. Fishburne in the hall and asked Evans if he would do. He said 'no,' he knew nothing about him. I saw Officer Scott and sent him after Dr. Philpot. In a very few minutes Dr. Philpot came. We opened the door and Dr. Gibbs came in with him.

"Major Evans ordered Dr. Gibbs out again and told him to 'get out of the room.' Dr. Philpot said he wanted Dr. Gibbs. Dr. Gibbs said he was there and was going to remain, and called on us to protect him. We told him to remain and we, as officers, would protect him. He told Major Evans he had taken enough of him and he was going ahead with his work, and it had to stop. They came very near getting into a fight.

"Dr. Philpot walked around and felt the wounded man's pulse and pronounced him dying, and Evans ordered him out of the room. Meantime we took Mr. Evans out. We had to humor him a good deal and coax him, like you would with a drunken man. We put him in a hack at the side gate and took him to jail."

GENERAL ACCEPTANCE AS PROPER. The verdict of the coroner's jury has been generally accepted as proper. Nothing except the homicide has been talked of in Columbia today. There is no interest in and in some quarters deep feeling. Capt. Griffin had but recently moved his family to this city. His death leaves them in very unfortunate circumstances.

EVIDENCE WAS SUFFICIENT. Coroner Green offered the jury more testimony, but they stated that none was needed and found the verdict as stated. Only a part of the available testimony was brought out by the coroner, but the jury was unanimous on the first vote. There are many theories for the killing, but none have much to support them. It is known that Major Evans was in financial straits.

No New Developments. There are no new developments in the Evans-Griffin affair. No statement has been made by Evans, but it is said that his attorneys will claim that the shooting was done in self-defense. Some days will elapse before application for bail is made.

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury. Columbia, April 14.—The coroner's jury this afternoon rendered a verdict that "to the best of his belief the death of Capt. J. J. Griffin was caused by a gunshot wound inflicted at the hands of Major B. B. Evans."

There was startling evidence produced. Mr. W. R. Muller declared that he had heard the shot and that it was fully fifteen minutes before Evans came into the store to telephone for a physician. He did not connect Evans' visit with the noise of the report of the revolver, but noticed that Evans was under excitement.

Evans' Evans what was the matter. The latter never disclosed the serious nature of the affair, but insisted that Muller go with him upstairs, but Muller declined, not suspecting the gravity of the situation. A few minutes later

Friends Fight to the Death. Birmingham, Ala., April 15.—Saturday night Clarence McClain and Edward Merriek, two rolling mill men, became involved in personal difficulty while under the influence of liquor, and McClain was cut so badly that he died in a short time. Merriek escaped.

You will waste time if you try to cure indigestion or dyspepsia by starving yourself. That only makes it worse when you do eat. You always need plenty of good food properly digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the result of years of scientific research for something that would digest not only some elements of food, but everything. And this is the remedy that will do it.

Cudahy Kidnaped Caught. Dallas, Texas, April 14.—George W. Shields, county attorney of Dallas county, Nebraska, of which Omaha is the county seat, arrived in Dallas from Omaha yesterday morning and in the afternoon called on H. C. Henderson at the county jail in company with Sheriff Johnson. Henderson is the man who says he is guilty of the kidnapping of young Edw. A. Cudahy in Omaha on the night of December 18, 1900. It is said that Henderson told Shields enough to convince the latter that he is the party wanted for this crime, but declined to go more into details until he had held a consultation with his attorneys.

Officer Kills Bad Negro. Columbus, Ga., April 15.—Yesterday morning Officer Herman Reynolds killed Geo. Moses, a desperate negro, after a hot chase by himself and a party of men. Moses was whipping the woman he lived with and when the officers were called he gave resistance, threatening to kill any one who attempted to arrest him.

The Best Remedy for Rheumatism. QUICK RELIEF FROM PAIN. All who use Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism are delighted with the quick relief from their aching joints. When speaking of this Mr. D. N. Smith, of Troy, Ohio, says: "Some time ago I suffered a severe attack of rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. I tried many remedies, but got no relief until I was recommended by Messrs. Geo. F. Parsons & Co., druggists, of this place, to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. They recommended it so highly that I bought a bottle. I was soon relieved of all pain. I have since recommended this to all my friends, who agree with me that it is the best remedy for muscular rheumatism in the market. For sale by J. W. Bell.

A Bloody Field. Whitesburg, Ky., April 14.—Further particulars of the big battle between Sheriff John W. Wright and his posse and the outlaws, headed by Creed Foster and John Reynolds, at Boone's Fork last Thursday afternoon, were received today and more trouble is anticipated.

In the encounter Thursday Willis Wright and Isaac Millward, members of the posse, were killed outright and four others, two on each side, were wounded. County Judge Blair and other officials, who went to the scene for the purpose of fixing up a truce between the factions, have returned unsuccessful. John W. Wright, the sheriff, declared he would never submit to a truce. He refused to accept the escort of fifty men promised by Judge Blair to assist in capturing the outlaws. "They are bound to come, or I will die with my boots on. We will dynamite their houses and now them atoms," he said. The clash is not expected for a few days, as the Wright posse have not buried their dead and the wounded must be cared for.

Greenwood, first vice president; J. L. Langston, second vice president; H. C. Blalock, third vice president, and Z. B. Dillard assistant secretary.

Geo. L. Proutie, president of the Tallulah Falls Railway Company, addressed the citizens as to the plan proposed for building the road. Col. Samuel C. Dunlap then addressed the citizens on the subject of building the road.

A resolution was introduced by J. I. Langston asking the citizens to give the railroad free right of way over their lands, which was adopted. The resolutions follow:

"Georgia, Rabun County.—Resolved, That we, the citizens of the county of Rabun, in public meeting assembled, pledge our undivided support to the Tallulah Falls Railway Company in its efforts to extend its railroad from its present terminus at Tallulah Falls, through Rabun county to the North Carolina line.

"Resolved further, That we guarantee to give to said company, its successors or assigns, free of cost, the unobstructed right of way for its said road through said county.

"Resolved further, That to encourage and promote the extension of said railroad we will guarantee to subscribe to the capital stock of said company means sufficient to pay for the construction necessary to lay the track, and for the lumber necessary to build the trestles on said road and as much money as we feel able to subscribe to.

Col. R. E. A. Hamby, Col. W. S. Paris, Col. J. R. Grant and Mr. Brobston then addressed the meeting.

On motion, a committee of three was appointed from each militia district to look after the interest of the road in their respective districts.—Clayton Tribune.

One of my milliners was taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a severe cold at that time, which seemed to relieve her very quickly that I bought some for myself. It acted like magic and I began to improve at once. I can now entirely well and feel very pleased to acknowledge its merits." For sale by J. W. Bell.
