—Last Friday Superintendent of Education Craig shipped out 2740 pounds of second-class books to several publishing houses. These books represented the exchange work of his office for four weeks. It is a good thing, and Mr. Craig thinks is a high average, the number of books exchanged during the month was 5,426. Some idea of the work of the office can be had if you consider that each of these old books had to be examined, priced and exchanged for new ones. And all this in addition to the regular work of the office. Mr. Craig feels greatly relieved now that the exchange business has ended.

Death of Oscar Couch.
On Thursday, November 21st, 1901, at his home, near Wallhalla, Oscar Couch died after a brief illness, from congestion of the lungs. He was 37 years of age. He was a native of Pickens county, but had been living in Oconee for several years. He leaves three children surviving: a son, John, and two daughters, Mary and Elizabeth. His body was carried to the family burying ground three miles from Wallhalla, where his remains were interred at the residence of his father, after funeral services conducted by Rev. Johnson Sheriff.

Death of Mr. W. T. Reid.
We regret to learn of the untimely death of Mr. W. T. Reid, who died of paralysis on Sunday, November 17th, at his home in Wallhalla. He was in his fiftieth year. He was largely self-made. He was interested in iron and coal mining in that State. Mr. Reid was a native of Virginia, where he was born in 1850, and was once a merchant in Wallhalla, before removing to Alabama. He leaves a wife and four children in addition to his father, who we believe was a native of North Carolina.

A New Public Road.
Westminister Times: "An editor went out to see the new road now being built by the Seneca and Columbia Railway Company with Supervisor Pool went over the road. It turns off from the old road just beyond Ramsey creek and crosses Chauga about a quarter of a mile above the old Hudson bridge. The grade is much lighter and the distance shorter, and the place for the bridge is an ideal one with natural foundations to rest on. The work is being done by convicts in charge of Superintendent B. E. Pool, and he is showing himself to be the right man in the right place by the work he is doing. This will be a big road improvement and one that ought to be appreciated by our people."

Railroad Employees Fight.
Columbia, November 22.—Last evening J. H. Gregory, who works in the Seneca yards, beat another employee, named Holland, until the man was the most dead. A friend of Gregory prevented him from killing his victim on the spot. Only legs and feet were used, but Gregory is a powerful man. He was arrested and Holland sent to the hospital, where he may die. The attending physician says there may be internal injuries. One of Holland's friends was broken down, who alleged that Holland wrote an insulting letter to his daughter.

Death of Mrs. C. S. Shelton.
Mrs. Lizette Shelton, wife of Mr. C. M. Shelton, died at her home in Wallhalla, after a long illness, on Saturday, November 17th, at 6 o'clock, after a lingering illness of 6 weeks. She was 62 years of age. She was a devoted wife and mother, and was a member of the Baptist church. Her death was a great loss to her family. Her funeral services were held on Sunday, November 18th, at 10 o'clock, at the residence of her husband, Mr. C. M. Shelton, at Wallhalla. The services were conducted by Rev. Frank Murphy, of Seneca. The sympathy of many friends was expressed to the bereaved family in their affliction.

Smith's Death.
Married at the residence of the bride's brother, at Bethers, S. C., on November 20th, 1901, by Rev. J. E. Edwards, Mr. Fletcher G. Smith to Miss Kate E. Shelton. Immediately after the marriage ceremony the happy couple departed for Georgetown, S. C., their future home. Mr. Smith is a native of Oconee, and is the oldest son of the late Rev. Fletcher G. Smith, a Methodist preacher, well known to many of the older people of Wallhalla and the surrounding community. His gratulations are extended to Fletcher and his charming bride by his many Wallhalla friends and admirers. Mr. Smith spent his youthful days in our midst, where he made a good impression on all who knew him. His aged mother lives among us and is glad to know of the happy marriage of her son.

MR. D. P. ROBINS DIED SUDDENLY.
At His Home, Near Wallhalla, Last Wednesday Evening at 7 O'Clock.

The sad news of the death of Mr. D. P. Robins was a shock to the citizens of Wallhalla last Wednesday evening. Mr. Robins was in perfect health, so far as his friends know, and was in Wallhalla only a short time prior to his sudden death. He was struck by the fire recently in his paper when the summer came. He passed away so peacefully and quietly that his body remained in an erect position until the arrival of the undertaker. He was lying in state at his home, where he was attended by his family. He was a native of Oconee, having been born at the Robins home near White Horse. He was in his 72d year. He leaves no children, his only son, Jas. T. Robins, having died in 1891. He was twice married. Two brothers, Messrs. James H. Robins, of Mountain Rest, and L. N. Robins, of Clayton, Ga., and three sisters, Mrs. F. W. Robins, of Wallhalla, Mrs. W. H. Robins, of Mountain Rest, and his wife, survive him. He served through the Civil War in the 1st South Carolina Infantry, and in the 1st Regiment of Rifles. During his service he was promoted from the ranks to sergeant, and later to captain. Since the war he had lived the greater part of his life in Oconee county, but for several years he engaged in the mercantile and banking business in Wallhalla, where he accumulated a considerable fortune. Of late years, however, he has been contented with business enterprises in Wallhalla. He was a member of the Wallhalla Cotton Mills was due, in great measure, to his energy and zeal. For several years he was in charge of the company and treated in which capacity he made an excellent officer. He was until recently a large stock holder in the mill. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the County Pension Board, and made an efficient and capable executive officer. Having shared the hardships of war during the time that his friends were in the army, he was in full touch with the veterans and ever ready to promote their welfare. He was a true and loyal citizen, and his death is a great loss to the community, and there are many throughout this and other States who will learn of his death with great sorrow.

Burglars Torture an Old Lady.
Buffalo, N. Y., November 23.—Mrs. Christiana Haeger, sixty years of age, living at Hamburg-on-the-Lake, was discovered by neighbors this morning. Last night burglars forced open a door of her house, and being unable to find money, which it was generally believed Mrs. Haeger kept, they tortured the old lady by applying lighted matches to her bare feet and hands and brutally beating her. The burglars secured only a dollar. Mrs. Haeger is in a critical condition.

He Kept His Leg.
Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., contracted his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I had one bottle of Electric Bitters, and my leg was sound and well as ever." It cured his rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, and all blood disorders. Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. It is the best remedy for all various ailments. It is the best remedy for all various ailments. It is the best remedy for all various ailments.

THE NEWS OF THE DEATH OF MR. MATTHEW WILLIAMS.
The news of the sudden death of Mr. Matthew Willi Coleman, of Seneca, in Charleston, S. C., last Saturday, November 22d, 1901, was received with profound sorrow by his many friends in this and other States. Mr. Coleman had recently engaged in business in Charleston as President of the Coleman-Wagner Hardware Company, a large wholesale house. He had been in Charleston for several months in the fall, but still retained his home at Seneca and business interests there.

His health had been gradually failing for several months, but still he was able to give personal attention and oversight to his various business affairs. He literally died in the harness, for on the day before his death he was at the store in Charleston apparently well and spent several hours at his desk. It was his habit to leave the store at 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, but on Saturday he was expected to remain a few days and return to the city. He did not reach Wall Friday night and overtook the hour for leaving Saturday morning. He remained in his room and bed after his son (George) had gone to the store. He was not very well, but still he was not considered ill, and no physician was called. About two o'clock Saturday afternoon he went to his room and found him breathing heavily. An alarm was given and just then his son came. Physicians were hastily summoned, but he died before their arrival. It was the medical opinion that death was caused by heart failure.

His body was brought to Seneca Sunday. Many sorrowing friends were at the depot on the arrival of the train over the Blue Ridge Railway at 2 p. m., to meet the bereaved family. Mr. Coleman and accompany his remains to that home from which only a few weeks before he had gone forth with buoyant hope and high purpose. It was a sad home-coming to the grief-stricken and devoted companion who for more than twenty-nine years had stood by his side in sunshine and shadow, sharing equally with him the joys and sorrows of life. From an early hour Monday morning until two o'clock on Tuesday morning, hundreds of friends looked upon the familiar face and features so soon to be hid from his friends and loved ones.

His funeral services were conducted in the Baptist church at 2:30 p. m. by Rev. D. W. Hight, assisted by Rev. G. F. Clark, of Seneca. The services were largely attended. Friends came long distances from different parts of this and other counties. The services consisted of a reading of the scriptures, a prayer, and a hymn. The services in the church were simple, but deeply impressive. The funeral home was crowded by feelings of profound sorrow, and few were the dry eyes while the preacher spoke of his sterling virtues.

Mr. Coleman was born in Edgefield county, South Carolina, near Saluda River. He had the advantage of attending good schools in his native State. His academic education was received mainly at Williston Academy, under Prof. J. L. Jones, a noted scholar in anti-bellum days. He then took course in the Medical College of Charleston, graduating in 1861. Soon after his graduation he went to the army and began in earnest. He enlisted at once and saw four years of service on the staff of Gen. Sherman's army. He was a member of Company G, 1st South Carolina Cavalry, Capt. R. C. Strother, now of West Union, as the Captain of his company. He was a member of the 1st South Carolina Cavalry, and participated in many hard fought battles.

Returning home after the war he remained on his farm on the Saluda River in Edgefield county. He was a successful settler there, and Mr. Coleman built the first house of any size in the town. Mr. Coleman may truly be written down as one of the best citizens of his town. For twenty-eight years his name has been a household word throughout the county as the head of the large mercantile firm of Coleman & Co. His enterprise founded upon intelligent business principles found in him a ready and successful partner. He was a man of high character and integrity, and he loved his town and county, and ever did his all in his power for the betterment of both. In business matters his judgment was sound, and his integrity was beyond question. His personal and charitable enterprises were of a high order, and he was most liberal in contributing to ministerial support. For thirty-four years he was a member of the Wallhalla Baptist church, and his wife, who was devoted a member of the Methodist church. This was that he gave generously to the church, and he was cheerfully and liberally. In a quiet way he gave much to charitable objects, and one who will ever know the many needy ones who have received his aid.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY NEAR SALEM.
Raahael Thomas Instantly Killed by a Pistol Shot Last Sunday Night.

Raahael Thomas, a white woman living in the town of Salem, in this county, was shot and instantly killed last Sunday night about 9 o'clock. It seems that a number of men, all drinking and very intoxicated, were gathered in the town, and some of them began bawling at the doors and windows. The woman, frightened, seized her child and attempted to escape out of the door, but was shot by some one in the right breast and ranging across the chest, severing an artery and causing instant death. Her reputation was not good, and at the July term of Court she was presented by the grand jury as a woman of bad character, for living in adultery. Owing to the unconstitutionality of the laws of the State, her case was referred to the grand jury of the Court, and both she and Powell were under bond to appear at the next term to answer the indictment of the grand jury. John Hudson, Money Hudson, Geo. Hudson, Tom Hudson and Rowland Robinson were arrested and lodged in the jail. John Money and Geo. Hudson live on Tugaloo river, near the Georgia line, and were arrested by Sheriff B. Ross while on their way home Monday morning. The grand jury returned a verdict that they were arrested Monday night near Salem by Deputy Sheriff W. J. Schroder. Robinson has lived in North Carolina since he was a child, and has been in this county about three months ago. One of the Hudsons bears the mark of a heavy blow on the left side of the face, inflicted by Wesley Powell during the disturbance at Raahael Thomas's house. According to the testimony given at the coroner's inquest, the Hudsons were in the house at the time that Raahael Thomas came to her death by a shot fired from a pistol held by some member of the party. The bullet was extracted from the breast of the woman by Dr. J. W. Bell of Wallhalla, and the property of the woman was taken to the coroner's office. The woman was buried in the cemetery near the town of Salem.

Food Changed to Folsom.
Putrefying food in the intestines produces effects like those of arsenic, but Dr. J. C. Excutor's Sale of Personalty.
By virtue of the power conferred on me as Excutor of the last will and testament of J. M. Calhoun, deceased, I will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, at his late residence, near Oconee, State of South Carolina, containing two hundred (200) acres, more or less, adjoining lands of H. B. J. W. Schroder, J. T. Jones, O. H. White, A. C. Brucke and others. A high state of cultivation. The property is located about two miles from West Union, on the main public road leading from Wallhalla to High Falls. Convenient to churches, schools, mills, grist and other articles.
