WALHALLA, S. C.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 3, 1902.

D. H. RUSSELL RETIRES.

Mr. D. H. Russell, who has been editor of the Daily Mail and the Peoples' Advocate, has retired and has been succeeded by Mr. A. M. C. Russell, who has been city editor for the past year and a half. Anderson Mail, December 2.

Mr. Russell has long been regarded by his brethren of the "Fourth Estate" as an able and versatile writer. The Daily Mail is fast growing in popularity and influence. Mr. Carpenter is well equipped for his new position. The Courier extends greetings and best wishes.

Rev. G. R. BRACKETT, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church in Charleston since 1879, died November 30. He was buried Monday afternoon. Prof. R. N. Brackett, of Clemson College, is his son.

MR. RICHARD W. HUTTON has been appointed by Judge Brawley Clerk of the United States District Court to fill the office made vacant by the death of his father, Col. C. J. C. Hutton. Mr. Hutton has been deputy clerk since January 1, 1898. He is eminently qualified to conduct the affairs of the office.

Georgian Visits Oconee.

[J. T. McGill, in Hartwell Sun.]

Last week the writer spent most happily in the County of Oconee, South Carolina. We were the guest during our stay of the families of Hon. M. B. Dendy, Richard, Mr. D. A. Peritt, Seneca, and Mr. J. W. SHELOR, who has been deputy clerk since January 1, 1898. He is eminently qualified to conduct the affairs of the office.

Through the kindness of Mr. Doyle we visited Walhalla where kind and hospitable friends had been 27 years since we were in Walhalla, and of course we were prepared to see many changes. Walhalla is a beautiful town with every comfort and convenience. Of course we visited the old Keowee Courier office. The Courier is not only one of the oldest newspapers in South Carolina but ranks among the very best. It has a "big four" in the persons of Messrs. Smith, Jaynes, Shelor and Steck. The Courier office is a large two-story brick building, the most convenient and admirably arranged of any in our knowledge and the best equipped. No paper anywhere is more neatly printed nor more tastefully made up. They do a large amount of job work. Mr. Smith, the Senior member of the firm, worked on the first newspaper ever published in Hartwell. He was a singer—and listened very patiently and attentively to us as we descended upon the growth and beauty of Hartwell under the genial rays of latter-day "Sun" shine.

Fort Hill was a revelation to us. Here it is that Clemson College is located, and here the old home of South Carolina's greatest statesman now stands, just as it was when John C. Calhoun daily crossed its threshold. It was a grand home in its day, but it is now a ruin. The appearance beside the splendid brick college, four-story dormitory, numerous halls, and modern residences. Our stay was very pleasant. We were kindly shown the dining room and kitchen by the chief cook, Mr. Schallert, at the dormitory, and the savory odor of the huge kitchen was very appetizing. Just as a pointer we will state that the coffee pot has a capacity of 75 gallons! Visited the peach launch, where they wash and "do up" the clothing of over 500 students. They have a huge dairy, a cheese factory, all kinds of manufacturing, a laboratory, electric pen, and many other industries that we did not have time to inspect. A fine farm, orchards, vegetables and flower gardens and greenhouse which we found to be very attractive and well worth visiting. But when you go you should stay a couple of days if you wish to take in everything. Mr. Burns Gillison, who is well known in Hartwell, has charge of the horticultural department, and to him we are indebted for courtesies.

On the return to Seneca we took in the "Old Stone Church," a truly historical sanctuary, which was erected by Presbyterians in the year 1797. It appears to have lapsed into disuse, but it is in a fairly good state of preservation, and would answer the purposes for which it was built, with some necessary repairs. The cemetery at this place is a notable one, having been recently built a substantial granite wall, is perhaps the largest we have seen in the country. It is three miles from Old Pendleton, a place at which we caught across the valleys en route. It was there we spent our last school days and there that Cousin Jim was born—two of the many notable events for which historic Old Pendleton is remarkable.

Many prominent people in the history of South Carolina are buried at Old Stone Church, among them General Andrew Pickens, whose grave is marked by a plain marble slab. For him Pickens county was named. Saw the tombstone of E. B. Benson, who was the grandfather of our esteemed citizen, E. B. Benson. There are some beautiful monuments in this home of the dead, many very old and dilapidated. It was here that Bynum was buried, who was killed in a duel by the late Hon. Ben. F. Perry more than sixty years ago on the island at Hutton's Ford on the Tugaloo river, ten miles from Hartwell. The legend goes that the two got a pine pole used in carrying the coffin, were thrown in the ground at the head and foot of the grave, and that they took root and grew up to be large trees. The place between two pine stumps was pointed out to us as the resting place of the ill-fated duelist. Mr. John B. Pickett, an exceedingly entertaining and courteous gentleman, with whom we were at the Old Stone Church to Seneca, gave it to us as the opinion of some one that there were two small pine bushes growing in that vicinity when Bynum was consigned to his grave.

Seneca is quite a business town and is growing right along. Among its prominent business men are Mr. H. Adams, whom all of our people know. He has recently moved into a lovely home, "Hickory Crest," located upon a conspicuous eminence that commands a fine view in every direction, including the busy little city and the towering Blue Ridge mountains. To him and our old school-fellow, John Anderson, we are indebted for many courtesies.

Everybody appreciates the abrupt ending of a dry sermon and a dull newspaper article. So!

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of dannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected part is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by J. W. Bell, druggist.

THE NEWS FROM SENECA.

Local and Personal Mention—Death of Mrs. Ashmore—A Shocking Accident.

Seneca, December 2.—Mr. Will Webb and wife, of Washington, D. C., spent a day last week in Seneca on their way home from a two months' visit to Hartwell. Mr. Webb has many friends here who remember him pleasantly as being the editor of the Seneca Free Press for a number of years.

Mr. Will Reed, of Chappell's, came to Seneca on Sunday last and attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Ashmore. Miss Emma Stribling's friends are pained to know that she is suffering the result of a badly sprained ankle, from which she will probably be confined to her room some weeks.

T. S. Stribling complemented a correspondent with a splendid "moss" of beautiful lima beans last week. He says picking butter beans in the snow is very much like the old countryman when he first saw ice in the summer time, when he curled up and said, "It is a gentleman and we always expect seasonable vegetables from his garden, but these were indeed as rare as they were palatable."

Mr. and Mrs. Earle Harper spent last Sabbath with relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Smith's friends were pleased to see him in Seneca last week. Mr. James Webb, of Washington, D. C., is in Seneca a few days where he has called on account of the death of his sister, Mrs. Ashmore.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are arranging a novel and most attractive entertainment for the holidays, the nature of which will not be announced at present.

Your correspondent is informed that wedding bells will continue to ring in Seneca ere the coming of many moons, but she don't believe it.

Services were held last Sunday morning at the Episcopal church in Seneca. Kirkland Findlay, of Clemson College, on account of the inclement weather the congregation was not as full as usual. A special program of music had been prepared, which would have added greatly to the service, and which will be postponed for a future occasion.

Amber, Daisies, and a good number of citizens attended and the program was a most creditable one, both to pupils and teachers. A very thorough training, and the ease with which they carried out the program would have done credit to grown-up musicians, making in all a most attractive program. The exercises were held in the main room, but the entire building was thrown open to the public, and teacher and grade seemed to vie with the others in making their room most attractive. Pictures, flowers and many garlands were everywhere. The school was a real home-like living room, and everybody felt happier for having been there and breathed the atmosphere of the very day home of the children.

Hon. E. E. Verner and family spent last Sabbath with the family of Luke W. Verner.

Mr. W. S. Hunter and little daughter, Sue Ellen, spent Thanksgiving in Greenville. Hon. H. C. Beattie and a company of friends spent Thanksgiving in Oconee hunting.

Thanksgiving services, held in the Presbyterian church, were unusually well attended, in fact the church was well filled notwithstanding the very sudden change in weather. Rev. Mr. Hamiter officiated at the service, which consisted of talks by Mr. Cecil Todd, Mr. Clark, and Rev. Mr. Moore, of the Baptist church, and the usual song service with a notable innovation, viz: the bass solo by Mr. Cecil Todd. Mr. Clark's talk was most interesting, bearing upon the origin of the day, commemorating many reasons for a real day of Thanksgiving in our South land. Mr. Moore's talk was short, but full of thought. The collection was, as usual, for the orphanage.

On Thursday afternoon last Mrs. Rusk Anderson's home was filled with a bright assemblage of her friends in response to cards issued a few days previously. Upon entering the room, which had the guests were at once impressed by the brightness and warmth and good cheer of this pretty home. The hall and parlor were darkened and soft lights, both being beautiful in decorations of yellow and white, the Once-a-Week Club colors, with the addition of many foliage plants. The center of the room was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, while the same stately bloom, in tall vases, graced the table and mantels.

Upon entering the hall the guests were first invited to partake of delicious fruit punch, the punch bowl being presided over by Miss Mary Thompson. After a few moments spent in social chat, the guests were seated around many small tables, and upon being presented with white pamphlets, with pencil and cord of yellow ribbon, the guests were invited to "progressive book party" was in order. Each table held a large cardboard of questions bearing upon some phase of the book, and the guests were invited to answer at each table. A lively contest ensued, and the close the committee announced that as Mrs. D. A. Peritt had answered the greatest number of questions correctly that the prize, a beautiful copy of "Little Minister," in two volumes, bound in white and gold, would go to this, the latest acquisition to the membership of the Once-a-Week Club. Delicious refreshments of tutti frutti, black and white cake were then served, followed by black coffee, which brought to a close one of the most perfect affairs in the annals of Seneca social life.

A SHOCKING ACCIDENT.

Mr. A. G. Waite, who has been engaged in business here for about a year, met with a fearful death last Sunday at Westminster. He had spent the afternoon there and upon going to the depot to take the train home, attempted to cross the track in front of a train, was struck by the engine and killed instantly. The train was the vestibule train No. 38, which does not stop at Westminster, but was late and reached the place about the time the local train No. 40 is due there, and was believed by Mr. Waite to be his train. He was wired to his family here at once and they went immediately to Westminster. The sympathies of the entire community are extended the grief-stricken family.

SAD END OF A BEAUTIFUL LIFE.

On last Friday, the 28th of November, the spirit of Mrs. Mamie Reed Ashmore took its flight, leaving a darling baby of twenty months, a broken-hearted husband, father, mother, sister and brothers, with many relatives and friends to mourn their irreparable loss. Mrs. Reed had been in ill health for months and it was with a hope of being able to get her to the hospital at Atlanta for treatment. She had been but a week when a serious train came and before the fact could be realized she had died. The remains were brought here on Saturday and Sunday afternoon in Mountain View cemetery, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Hamiter from the residence of the deceased. Her brother, Mr. George Reed, Mrs. Ashmore was a daughter of Mr. James Reed, and had been married only a few years to Dr. W. F. Ashmore, a practicing physician at Nowry. Many friends and relatives gathered in spite of the fearful weather to pay the last sad tribute, and while they mourn the sad and untimely end of a useful young life, they realize that what is the loss is indeed her gain and while they grieve through the darkness of this life, she lives in the sunlight of his own presence, where there is fullness of joy forever, and where there is no sorrow, nor suffering, nor death.

A Liberal Offer.

The undersigned will give a free sample of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to any one wanting a reliable remedy for disorders of the stomach, biliousness or constipation. This is a new remedy and a good one. J. W. Bell, druggist.

W. P. Cantrell, a farmer from the upper part of Greenville county, pleaded guilty to the charge of selling diseased meat and was sentenced to pay a fine of $25. It was the first case for that offense ever tried in that county.

NEWS IN AND AROUND WESTMINSTER.

Mr. A. G. Waite Killed by Train on Southern Railway—Other News of Interest.

Westminster, December 2.—Mistaking vestibule train No. 38, northbound, for New York Express No. 40, and attempting to cross over the tracks directly in front of the approaching train with the hope of boarding it for his home, Mr. A. G. Waite, a citizen of Seneca, met a horrible death here Sunday afternoon. The engine struck him against the baggage house and the suction of the train carried him several feet and left his mangled body on an embankment. His skull was crushed and one leg was broken in two places. Death was instantaneous. According to the testimony of the eye witnesses the pilot of the engine was no more than ten feet away when Mr. Waite made the attempt to cross. The accident occurred at 5.20 p. m. The vestibule was more than one hour late and was running very nearly on the schedule of 40 and thus helped to betray the unfortunate man when he heard it coming. Mr. Waite was connected with a mercantile establishment at Seneca and had been here to spend the Sabbath with his father-in-law, Mr. Alfred Tannery. His brother-in-law, L. A. Tannery, proprietor of Westminster's racket store, accompanied him to the depot. The two brothers had made each other goodbye wishes and were standing near the vestibule in front of the depot and Mr. Tannery took his departure for home and did not see his brother-in-law meet his untimely death, although he was nearby at the time. The body was taken to the residence of Mr. Tannery, where Coroner Harbin held an inquest over it on Monday. The verdict of the jury was in accordance with the facts as to where and how Mr. Waite met his death.

Mr. Waite was a son of the late S. Waite and a brother of Rev. Bedford Waite. He leaves a wife and one child. Mrs. Waite and little daughter arrived Sunday night on No. 11, about one hour later the accident occurred. The shock has almost prostrated the wife of the dead man and much sympathy is expressed for her. Mr. Waite was perhaps 35 years of age and was a very friendly man who will learn of his tragic death with deep regret. He was reared in the South Union section and on Tuesday his remains were taken to their last resting place in the cemetery of South Union Baptist Church.

Mr. J. T. King, one of the pioneer citizens of Westminster, is in feeble health and is confined to his room. His many friends hope that he will be spared for many more years to come.

Rev. Mr. Dufosse is at Nowberry attending the meeting of the annual conference of South Carolina. We hope when the appointments are read out it will continue to be Westminster, Rev. R. M. Dufosse.

Mrs. M. F. Freeman and daughter, Miss Bonnie Freeman, have returned from their recent visit to Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Freeman, of Atlanta.

Mrs. R. M. Dufosse and children left yesterday for Camden to visit the parents of Mrs. Dufosse.

Mr. Thomas Simpson, who bought the Mulkey property some months ago, has arrived with his family. Mr. Simpson's many friends are glad to know that he has become a citizen of Westminster again.

Mr. Thomas D. Poore has been spending several days in Anderson county, near his former home.

Cadet James Duffie, of Clemson College, was at home a few days last week. There was a regular "hog killing time" in Westminster during the cold days last week.

Rev. the dead body of Isaac McDow, the colored porter who was killed at Flower Branch on November 24, was brought here on the evening of November 25 and was buried at Pleasant Ridge cemetery, two miles below town. McDow was the porter of the ill-fated No. 35, which was wrecked at Spartanburg on the morning of November 24. He was not hurt in that wreck. The engine which killed him was No. 331, the same engine that was demolished in the Harbin's wreck on August 25. McDow was a son of Emory McDow, who has been a citizen of this place for twenty years or more.

Thanksgiving Day passed off very quietly. Practically all business was suspended and the day was almost as quiet as Sunday. There were services in the Baptist church at 11 a. m. conducted by Rev. Mr. G. Kendrick of Piedmont. There was a service at the Presbyterian church at 2 p. m. The day was bitterly cold and in the afternoon nearly everybody remained indoors, except the hunters.

Mr. Peden Anderson, of Davidson College, came home to spend Thanksgiving Day and remained until last Monday. Many friends were pleased to see him.

There were no services at any of the churches on Sunday, owing to the unfavorable weather.

On November 30th Mr. D. Q. McGill completed three years of faithful service as night watchman at the Southern Railway. He has been employed there for that time he was not absent from duty a single moment.

Miss Mattie Norris is expected to arrive from Philadelphia this week and will spend the winter at home.

The sermon of Rev. R. G. Kendrick, of Piedmont, at the Baptist church on last Wednesday night was listened to with rapt attention by a good audience. His theme was the "Christmas Good Hope" and his earnest, practical discourse was much enjoyed by all hearers.

Mr. J. W. Williams, of Hartwell, Ga., was visiting his daughter, Mrs. T. N. Crier, last week.

Miss Myrtle McConnell, after spending a couple of weeks in Westminster with relatives, has returned to Atlanta.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom gave anything but opium, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headache and other ailments. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Notice the following remedy at Stribling Drug Co., Seneca, and J. H. Darby, Walhalla.

Matters Around Corinth.

Corinth, November 28.—As our portion of Oconee seems to be unrepresented in your paper, I take the liberty, as well as pleasure, of writing a short letter.

We have just completed our new school building—Corinth. It is roomy, comfortable and situated in a beautiful grove. Our teacher, Prof. J. T. Bowles, of Greenville, has been teaching in Corinth church for the past month, but will open school Monday morning in the handsome new building.

Miss Lillie Brown, daughter of Mr. Bob Brown, of Anderson, who formerly lived in Seneca, is with us, taking a course of book-keeping under Mr. Bowles. The leading members of Corinth church are speaking seriously of repairing, painting and beautifying their church. Let the good work be hastened. The deeper interest we take in our school and church, the deeper interest we take in our boys and girls, and the sooner we strike for the front in all that makes life worth living.

Though you hear from us so seldom, we are not dead people. We are living on the fat of the land. Our crops have been good and we are in good spirits.

A few days ago I paid a visit to that noble farmer, Mr. Matthew Davis. He has made 600 bushels of corn and 6,000 bundles of fodder. He has a hog that will weigh 500 pounds and five or six others that are very fine. On his place everything is in shape and working like clock work. Near him lives a brother, Mr. Warren Davis, who is also a noble and successful farmer. He is a man who attends strictly to business and with whom the world wage well.

We are all doing well and on to-morrow (Thanksgiving) our hearts will be full of praise and thanksgiving. We are well blessed and should ever remember the "Giver of all Good."

How to Prevent Croup.

It will be good news to the mothers of small children to learn that croup can be prevented. The first sign of croup is hoarseness. A day or two before the attack the child becomes hoarse. This is soon followed by a peculiar rough cough. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the rough cough appears, and it will dispel all symptoms of croup. In this way all danger and anxiety may be avoided. This remedy is used by many thousands of mothers and has never been known to fail. It is, in fact, the only remedy that can always be depended upon and that is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by J. W. Bell, druggist.

Great Victory for Clemson.

Knoxville, Tenn., November 27.—Clemson defeated the University of Tennessee in a stubborn contest by a score of 11 to 0. The game was won through the magnificent playing of Hanvey, Clemson's great full back. The result of this game, together with Sewanee's defeat of Vanderbilt this afternoon, entitles Clemson to the championship of the Southern Athletic Association.
