

RAISING BEEF CATTLE.

An Avenue of Profit Open to the Farmers of South Carolina.

When one looks over the waste places of this State and considers that thousands of cattle and sheep might be raised where now there is not a sheep on a thousand hills, nor a dozen herds of beef cattle in the State, he sees the necessity for a revival. The beef trust is fastened on the people. The price of cut meat is fixed by the trust, which is encouraged by our national legislation. There is no sign of a reduction in the price. Our people should be exhorted to raise beef cattle on a large scale. On the rivers and abandoned lands of the State there is ample room for thousands of cattle.

Raising beef or fat cattle is a specialty. The dairy business, thoroughbred hogs, sheep and horses cannot go along with it. The fact is the farmer, who is trying a half dozen or more specialties at the same time will generally fail. He should have a big bank account, and then he may get some fun out of the business. Let him take that one thing for which he and his land are best suited and stick to it through thick and thin. If cotton is his crop, let him plant cotton with only enough small grain, corn and truck to supply the farm. If in the dairy business, let him raise dairy cattle and subordinate all his efforts toward getting the best dairy possible. If he goes into the fat cattle business, let every crop planted and every house built be to the interest of beef cattle. That is the only way to succeed in South Carolina. Two years ago a carload of young short-horns and grades were sold in Spartanburg. They were bought by farmers. Up to this date no special improvement has been reported in size or quality of cattle.

W. R. Walker, of Union, S. C., is going into the beef cattle business in the right way. His farm is in the lower part of Cherokee county, extending from Paeolet to Broad river, a mile or two above their junction. He has large bodies of bottom lands. Some of the hills are rugged and rough. The Japan clover grows where it has a chance. The Means or Johnson grass is found on the river lands. Much of the upland is nearly level or rolling and well adapted to hold crops. He is about twenty miles from a railway station and the roads are not very good. He concluded to go into the cattle business about two years ago. He bought some short horns. While they are fine cattle they were too large and unwieldy for his hills and rough ground. He thinks they are best to cross with our common scrub stock, for the grades will have the activity of the scrub and the beef quality of the Shorthorn. He began to investigate the other breeds. He was not after an all-purpose cow, but one that would make only beef and make it quick. Last winter he bought sixty or seventy Angus polled cattle, all of them being nearly pure, and three bulls and some cows thoroughbred. He will soon work all his cattle up to the Angus type. He now has about 100 and they are generally in fine condition. Not one has died during the summer. These cattle are pure black and without horns, the latter having a great advantage in shipping. He is at no trouble about milking, for the cows scarcely afford enough milk to raise their calves.

For summer pasture he depended the present year on Japan clover, Johnson grass and native grasses. He has found out that all bushes and sprouts have to be taken from a pasture, for no grass will flourish in the shade. He has set twenty-five or thirty acres in Bermuda grass and proposes to increase the acreage largely.

The Johnson grass has always been considered a terror to farmers, but Mr. Walker likes it. Where he has a good stand he cleans the land off and sows a bushel or two of sorghum seed to the acre with a cutaway harrow as soon as it will germinate. He gets two cuttings from the mixture and the hay is fine. He thinks he made six tons of dried sorghum hay from one acre of swamp land that heretofore produced only common grass. He plants fields of sorghum near his pasture fence so that when grass gets short or cold weather approaches he can cut that and throw it over in the pasture. He considers peas and sorghum the best and cheapest feed possible for cattle. In all his corn land he plants or sows peas, or will hereafter, and this will give his cattle several weeks fine feed after the corn is gathered. The roots and vines will improve the land. Winter pasture is receiving his attention, for it is necessary to have good pasturage for calves, cows with young calves, or cattle in bad condition. He will try a mixture of wheat, oats and rye with some crimson clover. He will shelter his cattle in the winter and herd them in lots during the summer. He expects to cut down his fertilizer bills and soon do away with purchasing any. Cotton will be an incidental crop and as the manure increases the land will improve rapidly. Thus Mr. Walker has but one idea and that is to raise the finest beef cattle, if he has to buy his milk and butter from his neighbors. The next consideration is the gradual improvement of his land. He proposes to attempt nothing that will be in the way of his one object. It may be two or three years before he has many for market, for he is now working to increase his herd up to the maximum number for a poor season. There is no reason why he should not succeed. He has the land and the cattle to start with. He can use the ordinary labor of the country. There is a constant demand for beef. Should his herd increase so that he would have to expand somewhat, there are thousands of acres of cheap land near him. We shall watch the results of his work with much interest, for cattle, pea vine hay and sorghum with small grain will greatly enrich our State.—Capt. Charles Petty, in Spartanburg Journal.

The Secret of Success.

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing! Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unflinching success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the two greatest enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders—that it has proved itself the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over thirty-five years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints—a success that is becoming wider in its scope every day, at home and abroad, as the fame of August Flower spreads. A Dispensary Affray.

Lancaster, November 30.—A fatal shooting occurred here yesterday, just south of the depot. Two negroes, John Sadler, a young man, and J. Melwain, an old man, were coming into town on a wagon when Beauregard Connor, constable for Magistrate Caskey, approached the wagon and addressing Sadler, told him he had a warrant for his arrest for selling whiskey. With an oath Sadler drew his pistol and began firing rapidly at the officer, the latter returning the fire. One of the flying bullets struck old man Melwain in the head, killing him instantly. Constable Connor received three bullet wounds in the chin, arm and side. Sadler was struck in the right arm, breaking it. The bullet that struck the officer in the face knocked him down and it was while lying on the ground that he shot the negro in the arm as the latter advanced on him. Reaching the prostrate officer he got on him, but the officer seized his assailant's broken arm and held him until assistance arrived. Connor's wounds, though painful, are not serious. The coroner held an inquest yesterday afternoon over the body of Melwain. The negro is held for murder.

To Cure a Cough.

The coughs so prevalent these days usually develop before one realizes what has happened. Now the best thing to do is to take the most reliable cough cure you can get. None better than Murray's Horehound Mullein and Tar. It is made of the purest ingredients and can be given to infants as well as grown people. Above all else IT CURES. You will find it at all druggists. 25c, a bottle extra large bottle.

Republicans of Denver, Col., last week secured the arrest of eighteen more Democratic officials on the charge of violating election laws at the recent elections. The prisoners were taken before the United States Commissioner and placed under $2,000 bonds.

Paul Kruger, the late President of the Transvaal republic, left a fortune estimated by the Amsterdam correspondent of the World at $3,750,000. He bequeathed $125,000 to various societies in Holland, and sums to all the funds organized after the South African war for the support of the Boer widows and orphans. Requests also were made for the maintenance of the Dutch language.

A Colored Teacher Dead.

Editors Courier: Ella McCurry Brown, colored, died at Summerville, S. C., November 2. She had been one of the foremost colored teachers in Oconee county, having taught in the school at Seneca for several years and in various parts of the county. She attended Claflin University, in this State, and Atlanta University. She joined the Methodist Episcopal Church while quite young. She led a virtuous life and was often engaged in doing little deeds of kindness for the unfortunate and always willing and ready to aid in benevolence. She was a remarkable woman in helping her church and fallen humanity. After her marriage to Rev. A. S. J. Brown, a Methodist minister, she resided at Wellhamston, Aiken, Walterboro and Summerville. Her remains were laid to rest in Oak Grove cemetery, at Seneca. A Teacher.

Great Men Who are Not Rich.

Boys listen to a good many stories about great men who began poor and ended rich. It is worth while to hear about some great men who began poor and did not end rich. Everybody's Magazine has been doing a great service to American boyhood by reminding us of some such, past and present. There was Agassiz, who refused to lecture at five hundred dollars a night because he was too busy to make money. Charles Sumner declined to lecture at any price, because, he said, as Senator all his time belonged to Massachusetts. Spurgeon refused to come to America to deliver fifty lectures at one thousand dollars a night, saying he could do better; he could stay in London and try to save fifty souls. Emerson steadfastly declined to increase his income beyond twelve hundred dollars, because he wanted his time to think. Others were Webster, Clay, Lincoln, George William Curtis, Thoreau, Beecher and Dr. Holmes.—Sunday School Visitor.

The Good Old Way.

A severe cold or attack of la grippe is like a fire, the sooner you combat it the better your chances are to overpower it. But few mothers in this age are willing to do the necessary work required to give a good old-fashioned reliable treatment such as would be administered by their grandmothers, backed by Boschee's German Syrup, which was always liberally used in connection with the home treatment of colds and is still in greater household favor than any known remedy. But even without the application of the old-fashioned aids German Syrup will cure a severe cold in quick time. It will cure colds in children or grown people. It relieves the congested organs, allays the irritation and effectively stops the cough. Any child will take it. It is invaluable in a household of children. Wounded in Dispensary Raid.

Charleston, November 21.—King street witnessed a scene of excitement again to-night, almost in the very spot where the trouble occurred last night between the police and the cadets, as a result of the dispensary constables searching Schiaderess's establishment. The constables seized a small quantity of liquor there this afternoon and they returned to the place to-night when the two Schiaderess opened fire, which was returned, about 15 or 20 shots being discharged, but the only casualty was a slight wound in the hand of one of the Schiaderess. He was arrested, but later was bailed at the station house. Constables Bateman, Williams, Patterson and Wright participated in the raid and returned the fire of the owners of the place. The raid netted 70 quarts of whiskey, brandy and wine.

Danger in Cold Weather.

There is danger in cold weather because it produces conditions favorable to the development of those germ diseases known as la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, consumption, etc. These diseases are contracted while the mucous membrane of the throat and lungs is weakened by inflammation resulting from a cold. It is dangerous to neglect even a slight cold. Help nature to ward off disease by using Rydale's Elixir. This modern scientific remedy can always be relied on in all diseased conditions of the throat and lungs. Walhalla Drug Co.

Statistics show that the number of women engaged in work formerly done by men is 40 per cent greater this year than in 1900. Frankly, the time is at hand for mere man to rise in his might and demand protection from the female peril.

Lost His Grip.

When a man has lost his grip on the affairs of life, feels incapable of performing the ordinary duties that business requires, body languid, brain dull, his liver is out of order, Rydale's Liver Tablets are what he needs. One dose usually will, two always will restore normal condition of body and mind, and fit a man for the duties and pleasures of life again. Rydale's Liver Tablets are easy to take, pleasant in effect, satisfactory in results, economical. Fifty chocolate coated tablets in a convenient box, 25cts, at Walhalla Drug Co.

Estate Left to Fiancee.

Philadelphia, December 2.—An ancillary letters of administration were granted this week by the registrar of wills in the estate of Edward L. Wentz, the wealthy young Philadelphian, whose mysterious death in the mountains of West Virginia has never been cleared up. The estate is variously estimated at from $200,000 to $500,000, and the bulk of the property is left in trust for the benefit of his fiancée, Cornelia Brookmire, who lives in St. Louis. The will provides that after the death of Miss Brookshire, the principal of the trust fund is to be paid to the late Mr. Wentz's two brothers in equal shares, but if dead, then to their descendants. If both die, leaving no descendants, the principal is to revert to Phillips Andover Academy, at Andover, Mass.

Tragedy Near Cheraw.

A lamentable tragedy occurred about a mile from Cheraw last week. Dr. B. H. Thurman, of that place, was shot and killed by George W. Carms, one of his tenants. The only eye-witnesses to the homicide were Mr. and Mrs. Carms and a negro man and woman who were in their employ. According to these, Dr. Thurman drove up into the yard of the house which Carms lives in and got out of his buggy and went over to the wash pot, where Mrs. Carms was working. While talking to her he drew out his pistol. At this time G. W. Carms and the negro man drove up and Carms jumped out of the wagon and ran up behind Thurman and caught him and snatched his pistol out of his hands and began beating him over the head with it. The witnesses say that while doing this the pistol went off and Dr. Thurman fell, dying immediately. The post-mortem examination showed that the skull had two holes in the back part. Carms has surrendered to the sheriff.

Big School for Rabun Gap.

The Augusta correspondent of the Atlanta Journal says: "At the session of the Woman's Federation of Clubs, recently held in this city, it was agreed to raise $10,000 for an industrial school at Rabun Gap, Ga. It was announced that this was merely the preliminary funds, which, it was hoped, would be finally increased to $20,000. It is the belief that the school, once established, will quickly become self-supporting. The plan for the establishment of the school was discussed at length."

Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound air-tight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.
