STOCK HEALTH.

Most of the remedies for curing ailments of animals are a queer mixture of good and bad. They date back to the time when hit-or-miss methods of treatment prevailed. Most condition powders aim at everything and hit nothing. BLUE GRASS CONDITION POWDER is a remedy you can rely upon to improve the condition of all kinds of stock. It is a prompt tonic. It purifies the blood; it stimulates the kidneys and liver to healthy activity. Far better in every way than ordinary condition powders. PRICE 25c. AT

Bounty Land Locals.

Bounty Land, April 16.—The Sunday school at this place is in an encouraging condition.

Last week there was a very destructive forest fire here, which originated from sparks from the Blue Ridge freight engine. Much timber was damaged on lands belonging to L. O. Davis and G. W. Gignilliat. But for timely efforts of neighbors W. J. McDonald's residence would have been burned.

THE NEWS FROM SENECA.

Death of Major Lewis R. Redmond.—A Pathetic Incident that Spoke Volumous.

Seneca, S. C., March 17.—Next Sabbath being the fourth Sabbath there will be the usual services in the Baptist church.

Rev. R. M. Kirkpatrick and J. W. Todd left this morning for Newberry, where they will attend the spring meeting of the South Carolina Presbytery, which convenes there this evening.

Dr. R. C. Davis, of New York, but formerly of this place, died in New York city last Friday of pneumonia, and his remains were interred here yesterday. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. R. M. Kirkpatrick, assisted by Revs. Sloan and Hunt, pastors of the First and Third Presbyterian churches of Greenville. The remains were accompanied by several friends from New York and Greenville, among the latter being Rev. E. P. Davis, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Greenville. Dr. Davis was well and popularly known here and there are still, notwithstanding the lapse of many years, many friends who regret his untimely death.

Lord Mayor Austin is having some splendid work done on our streets now, in which the road scraper has been used to great advantage, giving a neat and attractive finish to the principle streets and opening up several side streets. It is understood that among other features which will characterize the administration of the new council will be strict sanitary and Sunday laws. It is needless to say that this is wonderfully gratifying to our best citizens, but we have not heard of any ordinance regarding the disgusting and dangerous habit of spitting upon our sidewalks. The council has however passed an ordinance requiring the merchants to sweep in front of their stores on Saturday night, which step is most appreciably noted by our church-going people on Sabbath morning.

A change has been made in the depot here which will be of interest to the public in that William Neill has been appointed freight agent, while H. J. Gignilliat will remain passenger and express agent. The heavy increase in business here has created a demand for the place in which Mr. Neill is placed and which, on account of his efficiency, will prove most satisfactory to the business people here. It goes without saying that the veteran railroad man, Mr. Gignilliat, will continue to conduct the affairs of the passenger depot in the same acceptable business-like manner which has always characterized his management of the heavy duties arising from many years of faithful service at the Seneca depot.

Easter services were held in the Episcopal church here last Sabbath evening. Beautiful and effective out and pot plants were used in decorations and a full congregation was in attendance.

The quiet, obscure death of Lewis R. Redmond, which occurred near Seneca last week, was a striking case of a life that had for many years been given over to reckless outlawry, for at one time the name of "Redmond the Outlaw," was a familiar one in South Carolina. After his pardon, however, probably twenty-five years ago, having been sentenced to life imprisonment at Albany Penitentiary, he settled into a sober, quiet life and has since been a changed man. We remember an incident connected with the man and his home life, which was one of the most pathetic we ever witnessed, convincing us that there was a big, warm, tender heart beneath the rough exterior of Redmond's character. Some years ago we were at the Southern depot here and Redmond was also there with his family, among them the little unfortunate deaf mute, a daughter. She was there to be taken by the mother to Cedar Springs, our institute for the deaf, dumb and blind. Although a child of probably ten years or older perhaps, the father held her closely embraced in his arms and during the long wait for the train the tears never ceased in their flow down his rugged cheeks, gently fondling her, constantly smoothing her hair or patting her cheek or arranging her hat, totally oblivious to the crowd of curious faces about him. At last when the deep tones of the engine announced the late train's arrival, the distress and grief of the broken-hearted erstwhile outlaw was indescribable and we turned aside, leaving him with his grief, but with a sense of appreciation of the rough diamond that no other circumstance could have induced. We knew thenceforth that Lewis Redmond was not as "black as he had been painted."

A beautiful home wedding occurred near Seneca last Wednesday, the 11th instant, when Miss Nannie Nimmons was married to L. J. Smith, of Easley, the marriage occurring at the home of the bride's parents. The marriage took place at high noon amid a concourse of friends and relatives, after which an elaborate breakfast was served. The parlor, hall and dining room were placed at the pleasure of the guests, all being softly lighted and decorated with a profusion of ferns and spring flowers, which grow so luxuriantly and beautifully in this section of our country. The bride was attractive in full bridal attire and the beautiful, yet simple, marriage service of the Presbyterian church was used by Rev. Mr. Mathewson, of Toccoa, Ga. Congratulations and best wishes are heartily extended the young couple as they begin the journey of wedded life under such auspicious circumstances.

Miss Maud Hopkins will leave on Friday for a visit to Anderson, where she will attend the marriage of her friend, Miss Mittle Tribble.

Prof. David Henry, of Clemson College, spent last Sunday here.

Miss Margie Holland, who is teaching at the model school house at Bear Swamp, spent last Sabbath with her home folks here.

Dr. and Mrs. McCutchen and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hopkins are entertaining interesting little strangers at their homes here.

Miss Helen Hopkins is visiting Miss Lois Gignilliat this week.

Mrs. C. Gignilliat, of Marietta, Ga., is paying her usual spring visit to her relatives here. We cordially welcome this saintly mother and friend to our town, congratulating her heartily upon making this another nice stone along the road of life, possessing still the mental and spiritual vigor that have always been her peculiar characteristics.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes Stabbing are off to Florida, where they will spend a week or longer.

S. D. Cherry, Frank Cherry and Mrs. Eloise Brown are in Seneca, whence they come from Birmingham to be in attendance upon the Cherry-Gray nuptials, which will occur at high noon here on Thursday next.

Our show-going folks will bear in mind the run of plays at the Opera House this week by the Hollingsworth Twins. These young girls are not more than ten or twelve years perhaps, yet are wonderfully endowed with musical and dramatic ability, making in the opening performance last night a decided hit in the parts of street waifs. Mrs. Alice Gleason, as aunt Sallie, the typical old Southern mamma, was great. The repertoire seems to be extensive, giving among other well-known productions, East Lynne.

Der Captain has a new cow. We overheard him trying to drive a trade with a small boy this morning to sit on the line to keep the wind from blowing her away! M. V. S.

Work of Six Churches.

Editors Courier: As pastor, I have no disposition to brag or blow, but I am encouraged in the work of these churches and interested in the work of the other churches in the county. And I do hope that the day is not far distant when all the churches in the county will be thoroughly alive to the work of saving the lost at home and abroad, and trust that what I say of the following churches may inspire and beget greater interest in them as well as others. Those referred to have all done well, but could have done more, save one—Madison. Let onward and upward be the watchword.

On the first Sunday in April the new church at Madison was dedicated, clear of debt, at a cost of $1,200. This church is numerically weak, and financially so, too, with the exception of one man, who gave about $400 of the $1,200. The other thirty-six members gave $300 with the help of friends who live in the community, the old church being valued at $200, making a total of $1,200. During last month this church gave $10 for missions and paid $15 on pastor's salary. If any church, composed of thirty-seven members, and as financially weak, can show a better record, let it speak out. Mrs. Stribling also organized a woman's missionary society here recently, of which great things are expected. A year ago it could hardly have seemed possible that the above could have been done. No one thinks that they did too much. Not what we can do, but what is it that we cannot do if we only try?

Having failed to call on the treasurer, I don't know what Bethel gave to missions last month, but will venture to say that she did her part. The others gave the following amounts last month for missions: South Union, $25; Madison, $10; Return, $9.31; Rock Hill, $7; Old Westminster, $2.

All of the above churches, except Old Westminster, have a woman's missionary society, and she will have one soon. The woman's missionary society at South Union has been at work just one year, and has raised, during that time, $100. You may expect to hear still greater things from this society, for it is composed of great women. South Union is contemplating beautifying their house of worship at a cost of $125.

Bethel is the second in the woman's missionary society list, although they may yet lead, as the church gave, during one month, about $20 for missions. Large and attentive congregations attend here.

Rock Hill is my baby church, both numerically and financially, yet the woman's missionary society gave $5 of the $7 above named, and it has been at work but one month.

I have been thinking of organizing the men into a society, as the women are leading in gifts to missions. If the men were organized as the women are they would double their present gifts. Organized work is the work.

Old Westminster's membership is badly scattered—almost from New York to New Orleans. There are but few within reach of the church—faithful few.

Return has increased the pastor's salary. This church has the largest attendance on Saturday. Bethel the largest on Sunday. These churches have expressed their kind appreciation by sending their pastor to the Southern Baptist Convention at Chattanooga. Such kindness on the part of any people binds a pastor all the closer to his people. Happy is the man whose lot it is to serve these good people. P.
