

SENATOR TILLMAN NOW AT HOME.

WILL REST A FEW DAYS BEFORE RESUMING WORK IN WASHINGTON.

United States Senator Tillman arrived in Columbia last Friday from Washington. He left that city Thursday night, and immediately upon his arrival in Columbia went to the dental rooms of Dr. Moore, where he had some work done, and then he went to the home of Dr. Babcock, where he spent several hours before going to Trenton.

Senator Tillman expects to spend ten days at his home and will leave here next Monday week for Washington, when he will resume his work. He says he has had his head to the grindstone and worked as he has never done before and is entitled to some little rest.

Senator Tillman in talking about the rate bill, as it has been adopted, said that he did not think it was what ought to have been passed, but he was convinced that it was better than nothing. He thought it was at least a beginning. The bill is not in such shape as he would have liked to have had it, but some good can be gotten out of it if the railroad commission is made up of the right sort of material.

Senator Tillman said that it has not yet been determined how many members are to be on the board of commissioners; personally he favored a large board, say of nine members, but the house favors a board of five, and he did not know what would be done in this connection.

Senator Tillman said that he expected to have a thing or two to say about the Barnes appointment. He expected the appointment to be confirmed, but that would not prevent his saying what he thought about the matter.

Senator Tillman was not very talkative about State politics. He did say that his first duty was to his people and to his work, and that he did not expect to sacrifice his work in Congress to making a campaign for reelection, as he regarded this as a personal matter. It appears that there is little, if any, prospect of Congress adjourning before the 4th of July, and from the tone of Senator Tillman's talk he does not expect to take part in the campaign.

He said in a joking way that it looked like they were trying to assassinate the dispensary and last January they had it down by the jugular vein.

Senator Tillman said he was deeply appreciative of the good-will and vote of confidence passed by the Democratic convention, and wanted to thank the Democratic party for its kind expressions towards him.

Senator Tillman had a good deal to say about the contention going on between himself and the President, and incidentally Senator Bailey and Mr. Chandler. He was fulsome in his tribute to Mr. Chandler and said that Mr. Chandler was standing up like a man, and showed the highest type of moral courage in the position he had taken. Just at this time it may not have been the popular thing for Mr. Chandler to antagonize the President, but Mr. Chandler had done the right and the honest thing all the way through the dispute.

Senator Tillman suggested that every Senator knew who had told the fairy tale, and that was the reason no one had come to the defence of the President on the floor of the Senate.

Senator Tillman looks well and does not seem to have suffered at all in loss of flesh or sprightliness because of his hard work on the rate bill.

He expects to take a thorough rest while at Trenton.—Columbia Cor. News and Courier.

Was Wasting Away.

"I had been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years," writes Robt. R. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctored with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure.

The Southern Cotton Association has issued a statement of the cotton planted for this year, and puts the acreage at 2.76 over 1905. South Carolina's acreage is put at 1.76 per cent less than last year.

In Memory of My Dear Uncle, B. F. Dilworth.

On this beautiful Sabbath day, this beautiful day of rest, and while pleasant memories of my happy childhood days come to my mind, I remember many happy hours while being borne in strong arms that now lie cold and still, and whose form sleeps the calm, sweet sleep of the just. Fighting the battle of death and gaining the victor's crown, our dear one is now at sweet rest. How sad the hearts that loved him, when knowing we must be separated from him on earth forever, but how sweet the thought to know he was ready to meet his God and be carried away on his bosom to a place of peace, and where sorrow is never known.

Oh, dear sorrowing ones, could we only realize his happiness and his joy when being reunited with those loved ones gone before, surely we would forget our sorrows, and look forward to brighter days, when, if we walk carefully and trust in one in whom he trusted, we will meet again in the happy beyond, where there will be no more parting, no more pain, but joy, peace and happiness forever more.

Dear cousins, we only have one more jewel in heaven to draw our hearts nearer to God. On that glad and happy resurrection day, when the sleeping ashes of the sepulchre, starting at the tones of the Archangel's trumpet, the dishonored dust rising a glorified body like its risen Lord's.

At death the soul's bliss is perfect in kind, but that bliss is not complete in degree until reunited to the tabernacle it has left behind to mingle with the sods of the valley. But tread lightly on that grave. It contains precious, ransom dust. All the joys of that resurrection morn we cannot tell, but its chief glory we do know. When we shall appear we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is.

Blessed Jesus, how thy presence sanctifies trial, takes loneliness from the chamber of sickness, and gloom from the chamber of death.

Bright and Morning Star, precious at all times, thou art never so precious as in "the dark and cloudy day." The bitterness of sorrow is well worth enduring to have thy promised consolation. How well qualified, thou Man of Sorrows, to be my Comforter. How well fitted to dry my tears, thou who didst shed so many thyself. What are my tears, my sorrows, my crosses, my losses, compared with thine, who didst shed first thy tears and then thy blood for me? Mine are all deserved.

How sweet the comforts, dear sorrowing ones, thou hast promised to the comfortless.

When I think of them as flowing from an almighty fellow-sufferer, a brother born for adversity, the friend that sticketh closer than a brother, one who can say with all the refined sympathies of a holy, exalted human nature, "I know all your sorrows."

Loved ones, calm thy grief. There is not a sorrow thou canst experience, but Jesus, in the treasury grace, has an exact, corresponding solace. And in the multitude of thy sorrows have in thy hearts, "thy comfort's delight—my soul."

His affectionate niece,

Rosa Dilworth.

Widow Loses Her Insurance.

Columbus, Ohio, May 26.—Sarah D. Finnegan, a Cincinnati widow, has lost, by a decision of the Supreme Court, a $10,000 life insurance judgment against the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association. John Finnegan, whose life was insured, found the agent's office closed when he went to pay a premium the day it was due. He paid it the next day. It was accepted by the agent, but the home office refused to take it and it was returned. While the matter was in dispute Finnegan died and the company refused to pay the policy. Mrs. Finnegan sued and was awarded judgment by a lower court, but the Supreme Court reversed that opinion.

WHEN THE EVENING SHADOWS FALL.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT DURING SESSION OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

At the conclusion of the devotional exercises of the Presbyterian General Assembly, in Greenville, on the morning of May 18th, a most touching incident took place.

Dr. E. M. Monroe, of Milford, Texas, arose to a question of personal privilege. He stated that the Presbytery of Dallas had elected four commissioners and that all of them were in attendance on the General Assembly, but that the Dallas Presbytery had sent as visitors to the assembly Rev. Dr. August Johnson and his aged wife. Dr. Johnson is 97 years of age, has been preaching 71 years and is still in active service. He is a native of North Carolina, but was licensed to preach in South Carolina. Dr. Monroe stated that the old couple were highly respected in their community, and that it was their custom to sing occasionally before the congregation. Immediately there arose a clamor for a song.

Sitting on the low pulpit, surrounded by the softened light of delicately tinted windows, with the great silent organ in their rear, and faced by a multitude of upturned faces, the old people began to sing. At first the voices were so low as to be scarcely audible. But soon the singers lost their timidity in the spirit of the song, and the tremulous notes of the old, old voices filled the church. They were singing, "We Shall Know Each Other There." The high, quavering notes of the soprano, tempered by the broken bass, swept out over the vast silent audience. At the chorus, the voices broke for a moment, and there was a suspicious moisture in many eyes.

Gravely they started on the second verse. A stillness, as of death, was on the assembly, and in the intervals of silence between the lines one could hear the faint brushing of the leaves of the trees against the stained windows. The opening words of the hymn are, "When the Evening Shadows Fall." Frequently the voices broke; occasionally they were not in perfect accord, but the single, abiding faith in heavenly recognition breathed forth in the words of the hymn, and in the countenances of the aged couple, produced a most profound effect.

These old people are on the borderland. One is 97 and the other 81 years of age. It is more than probable that neither of them will ever again attend a meeting of the Presbyterian Assembly, and their only prayer is that the summons will come to both at the same time. The friends of their youth, their childhood, have long since passed away, and they are almost strangers in a strange land. They could not have selected a more appropriate hymn had the hymn book been searched from cover to cover.

Dr. Thornwell, of Fort Mill, moved that a prayer of thanksgiving be offered by the moderator, which was done.

Negro Lynched for Slaying Marshal.

Valdosta, Ga., May 19.—Deputy Marshal Mack Dees, of Lenox, Ga., while trying to arrest a burly negro on the street this afternoon, was shot and almost instantly killed.

As soon as the tragedy became known wild excitement prevailed and a posse of the most prominent citizens of the place was quickly formed and a hot pursuit begun. The fugitive negro had the start of his pursuers and for a time it looked as though he would make good his escape. After an exciting race for his life the negro was overtaken and his body riddled by the posse, as it appeared certain that the negro would kill perhaps several men unless he was first killed himself.

The negro was known as a most desperate character and his killing is regarded as justified. Only a short time ago he killed two other negroes, a man and a woman, at Tifton. It was for this crime that Marshal Dees attempted to make the arrest in Lenox this afternoon. There was no excitement to-night. The town is quiet and all agree that the posse acted right in killing the negro.

Mrs. E. B. Wilson, wife of a well-known farmer near Beech Island, Aiken county, was shot in bed, through a window, on the morning of the 22d instant and mortally wounded. She was sleeping in the bed with her small baby, her husband and other children being in an adjoining room. Two negroes are under arrest, charged with the crime.

Rate Bill Finally Passes.

Washington, May 18.—The rate bill has at last passed the Senate. Senator Tillman, who had charge of the bill, left to-night for his home at Trenton, where he will spend a week of rest and recreation. Mr. Aldrich, who is known as the chief of the railroad friends in the Senate, left yesterday to prepare for a trip to Europe.

After seventy days of most continuous deliberation the Senate finally, this afternoon, passed the railroad rate bill by a practically unanimous vote, 71 to 3. The three negative votes were cast by Foraker, Republican, Ohio, and Morgan and Pettus, Democrats, Alabama. Almost a general sigh of relief among the Senators was heard when the vote was announced. The bill received more attention from the country at large than any measure before Congress since the repeal of the purchasing clause in the Sherman act in 1893. The bill was reported to the Senate February 26 and made unfinished business March 12. From that date to May 4 the bill was under general discussion without limitation on duration of speeches, fifty-eight of which were made. For twelve days the bill had been under consideration under the rule limiting speeches to fifteen minutes. The debate at all times was earnest and animated, but for the most part devoid of personalities, but the past few days called out caustic criticism of the President and some newspaper correspondents by Senator Bailey.

The tar that is contained in Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is harmless. It is not coal tar, but is obtained from the pine trees of our own native forests. Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar is the best remedy for colds because it acts on the bowels—thus expelling all colds from the system. Bee's is the original Laxative Honey and Tar, and is best for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, lung and bronchial affections. Sold by Dr. J. W. Bell, Walhalla; W. J. Lunney, Seneca.

The residence of John E. Bradley, of Abbeville county, with several outbuildings, was burned down about daylight on Monday of last week. No cause is assigned. The loss is $3,000, with no insurance.

Miss Marie Montgomery, daughter of Victor Montgomery, died at her home in Spartanburg on the 23d instant from an overdose of laudanum, which she had been taking under prescription.

The effect of this rule as amended is to require candidates making protests to file their papers within two and three days so that the State executive committee will not be in too great a hurry in having tickets printed and distributed. Heretofore the time was five days for county candidates and ten days for candidates for State offices.

Laurens, Wednesday, August 15.

It will be observed that there is a ten day hiatus at the beginning of the month of July. The committee also decided to change the rule with reference to protests and the following is the rule as amended:

"Rule 7. The protests and contests for county officers shall be filed within two days after the election with the chairman of the county executive committee, and said executive committee shall hear and determine the same at the first meeting thereafter. The State executive committee shall hear and decide protests and contests as to United States Senator, State Officers, Congressmen and Solicitors, and three days shall be allowed for filing same after the decision of the county executive committee."

The effect of this rule as amended is to require candidates making protests to file their papers within two and three days so that the State executive committee will not be in too great a hurry in having tickets printed and distributed. Heretofore the time was five days for county candidates and ten days for candidates for State offices.

For bloating, belching, indigestion, etc., eat a King's Dyspepsia Tablet after meals. Sold by Dr. J. W. Bell, Walhalla; W. J. Lunney, Seneca.

State Bank Examiner Hard at Work.

State Bank Examiner Holleman has opened his office in Columbia and is getting down to work with the duties of his position. He is kept very busy checking up the reports from the various banks throughout the State and answering questions and getting the reports into acceptable shape. He has found that it takes a great deal of correspondence to get the banks to make the kind of report that is wanted. He has gone over the situation carefully and has gotten copies of reports from various other States and has arranged a series of intelligent questions, which he thinks it necessary to have answered. Mr. Holleman expects to get all of these reports in shape and he will then start out over the State to make personal examinations, but he finds the correspondence in his office so heavy just now that he has not yet been able to get out into the field.

Blake Bishop, colored, and the mule he was plowing were killed by lightning in Barnwell county one day last week.
