AMERICA 70 YEARS AGO. There Were Very Few of the Modern Implements in Use Then.

(Everybody's Magazine.) In 1831 the American people were ree, but they held in their hands the tools of slaves. They had to labor and sweat in the fields, with the rude implements that had been produced by ages of slavery. For two generations the sickles, flails, and wooden plows, with which they had tried to build up a prosperous republic, had held back agricultural progress. Let us try to reconstruct mentally the American of those days.

Enterprise was not then a national characteristic. The few men who dared to suggest improvements were persecuted as enemies of so-ciety. The first iron plows were said to poison the soil. The first railroad was torn up. The first telegraph wires were cut. The first sewing machine was smashed. And the first man who sold coal in Philadelphia was chased from the State as a swindler.

Even the railway was a dangerous The telegraph was still a dream in the brain of Morse. John Deere had not invented his steel plow, nor Howe his sewing machine, nor Hoe his printing press. There were no stoves nor matches, nor oil lamps. Petroleum was peddled as a medicine at $1 a bottle. Iron was $75 a ton. Money was about as re-liable as mining stocks are to-day. and all the savings in all the banks would not now buy the chickens in

The total expense amounted to no more than we paid last year for diamonds and champagne. Chicago was a twelve family village. There was no West nor Middle West. Not one grain of wheat had been grown in Minnesota, the Dakotes, Nebraska. Colorado, Kansas, Washington, Nevada, Idaho, Montana, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Arizona, Wyoming, Oklahoma, or Texas

"Health Coffee" is really the closest coffee imitation ever yet produced. This, the fluest coffee suretiduced. This, the fillest roffee suissisted ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop, of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real coffee in it eitler. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nots, etc. Really it would fool an extern—who might drink it for coffee. LIFE LERM FOR MURDER.

Jury Finds Johnts Beard Guilty with Recommendation to Mercy

Gainesville, Ga., Jan. 29 .- Johnts Beard, charged with killing his father-in-law, W. O. Hammond, in Roberts district, Hall county, in the summer of 1904, was this morning at 10 o'clock found guilty of murder with recommendation to life imprisonment.

Beard was put on trial at the January, 1906, term of Hall Superior Court for murder. His attorney filed a plea of insanity at that trial, which resulted in Beard being sent to the State insane asylum.

Under the law which sent Beard to the State asylum three years ago he was to be returned to Hall county to be tried for murder should he regain his reason. After three years' treatment, Beard was declared by the authorities at Milledgeville as being of sound mind last November. Accordingly the Hall county authorities were notified, and an officer was sent to Milledgeville for him. He was brought to Gainesville and placed in jail to await his present trial at the present term of the Superior Court.

His attorneys filed a plea of insanity at the present trial, but the jury decided that he was sane and guilty of murder.

TEXAS BUZZARDS IN DEMAND.

Few Carloads Wanted for Shipment to the North,

(San Antonia Express.) Henry Fielding, of Bangor, Me. arrived in the city recently and is stopping at the Bexar Hotel. His mission in the Lone Star State is to purchase and acquire Texas buzzards various ages for shipment to Maine for scavenger purposes. He representing a number of the boards of trade, chambers of commerce, business clubs, etc., of Maine cities, which have recently awakened to the fact that the supply of buzzards in Maine is rapidly decreasing, which is injurious to the rural districts of Maine.

Mr. Fielding was instructed to se-lect the most strategic point as a headquarters in a section of the Southwest well populated with the crimson headed creatures, and to begin operations. Mr. Fielding says it is a matter of general knowledge that buzzards are thickest in a cattle country, and inquiries by mail and otherwise proved that southwest Yexas is well stocked with what he is seeking. The shipments will be in carload lots to various points of Maine. Most of them will probably move out of San Antonia, coming here in less than carload lots. However, if Mr. Fielding secures a carload at any particular point in the Southwest the shipment will be made from there.

Mr. Fielding admits that his mission is unique and seems strange in s community where buzzards are plentiful, yet one that can be perfeetly appreciated in a community where the sock of buzzards has been almost wholly destroyed. He says the last Législature in the State of Maine passed stringent laws relating to the slaughter of buzzards, and that during the next two or three years an effort will be made to undo the damage that has been done, and to remedy present conditions.

"Naturally," said Mr. Fielding, any one will admit that the buzzard is a very necessary bird to rural districts. He is not only a destroyer of carrion, but he is a great detective and calls the attention of many a farmer and ranch owner to the presence of nearby carrion, calculated to injure health if not disposed of. We believe that by a general campaign it will be possible to restock the State of Maine in the course of two or three years, and believe that the money will be well expended."

EAT LESS-LIVE LONGER.

Never Eat Quite as Much as You Think You Want."

The Romans said: "Eat, drink and be merry, for to-morrow you die." And their banquets quite equalled those of the American millionaire of this twentieth century. They ate, and the Roman empire died. But we of America choose to live, and live long, and to live well. And so the maxim of to-day is, "Eat less, and be merry anyhow."

Why eat less? Simply because, as a nation, we eat too much. Thirty years ago 50 per cent of the diet was meat. To-day it has diminished to

"Never eat quite as much as you think you want," is the continual advice of a learned physician to the young man who would gladly be a Roman if he could.

The person who leads a physically active life needs plenty of energybuilding food, because each hour he uses up energy, and nature demands that which will create more energy. He doesn't require stimulants, most especially not in excess, because the artificial excitement always has an untoward reacting. But active persons must eat heartily to keep the body's machinery well fed.

Persons whose work is dependent on mental effort, on nerve and tact, ought not to keep the engine at fire heat. When the day's work is ended, then is the demand for the food to rebuild-for the rest or recreation to relax.

An individual who returns home too tired to eat deprives the body of its need, and also overtaxes brain, for when the blood has work to do in the stomach it leaves the brain, and the brain becomes less alort, and, as a matter of course inactive. Sleeplessness at night is often overcome by a trifling night lunch.

More and more among leaders in life is the question of nutrition receiving attention. Rheumatic people learn to do away with a meat diet rosolutely. So great is the relief that sweets and other questionable, but much-liked, articles of diet soon follow. And while the prohibition and restrictions sound hard of practice, persons do it daily, and always staydethatho ways say that they don't care. Oddly, it is the women who are more likely

"Eat to rive." It is said that cownow asked to take up the work in boys and men leading a rough life Cuba. Mr. Wardlaw expects to leave have the strongest digestion, despite in the course of a few weeks. Mr. the varying quality of their fare. Wardlaw has made his home in Life, generally, is so luxurious today that even the digestive organs and has become, in the hearts and are saved unnecesseary labor, and predigested foodstuffs, minced croquettes, and so forth, lessen daily the working power of these organs, making them more liable to diseased conditions. And the hospital dispensaries say that diseased conditions increase, and slight disturbances are often the beginning of more serious troubles. "I did not think that you could afford to have appendicitis!" one person exclaimed to another.

> It may seem a long stretch to say the food question can effect international politics. Yet, because the laforing classes of other nations eat less, their living is cheaper, and they work without sacrifice for a lower wage than our republican born men.

The American laborer is fond of things fried and of pies. He eats heavily during the noon hour, not stopping to realize that he has fed his furnace with non-combustible stuff, that brings unnecessary effort upon the digestive system. 'The foreigner at his side eats more sensibly -somehow the older nations have learned and not taught—and the foreigner is more "fit," more contented. He is teachable, and his work is good. He costs less money, and, therefore, the international problem.

BOLD EXPRESS ROBBERY.

Masked Men Enter Car and Get Away with Money

Mansfield, Ohio, Jan. 31.—Shortly after midnight two masked men entered the office of the Adams Express Company, at the Union station here, knocked William Depew, agent, unconscious, and got away with $3,000 while nearly fifty passengers stood about the station waiting for trains. A bag containing $4,000 in gold, lying near the $3,000, was overlooked by the robbers.

Augusta, Jan. 29 .- A peculiar derelopment of the State prohibition law has been its effect upon the office of the Deputy United States Marshal. SHIPS THAT NEVER RETURN. "Legion of the Lost Ones" is Much Greater than Supposed. The tolling of the Lutine's bell, at Lloyd's, London, for a missing ve sel as large as the steampship Nicaraguan 's fortunately a rare event; but "the legion of the lost ones" in probably a much larger one than the public know.

Last year, for instance, 17 British and 14 foreign vessels were posted as missing, the passengers and crews totalling 1,000. The year 1882 was a record year, 147 suiling vessels and 25 steamers being posted; 2,000 passengers and crew went with that huge fleet. The Nicaraguan is not the first steamer to vanish this year, either, for it was only recently that either, for it was only recently that hope was abandoned of the fire steamer Dulverton.

Tendency Toward Mysteries Naturally, the "missings" tend to decrease in number amongst steamers, owing to improved methods of construction and increase in individual tonnage, but sailing vessels have the same tendency as ever to become mysteries.

There is every year amongst the "missings" a number of ancient Scandinavian craft, and the west country schooners which take salt to country schooners which take salt to Newfoundland and come back with fish, to swell the grim total.

A board of trade inquiry is always held, to look for more or less prokeble reasons for a mysterious disappearance. But, obviously, it is seldom that any definite verdict is arrived at. "Though," added the underwriter, "the reason for the disappearance is often obvious enough to a plain man, only some people are so a plain man, only some people are so sensitive that one has to be careful of one's words. And, you see, in such cases one can hardly get proof positive of negligence."

Though absolute proof can never be got, it is morally certain that some vessels have vanished because a light load-line is not insisted on, as is the Plimsoil mark to prevent overloading. That reason accounts for a host of missing sailing vessels. They were underballasted and turned bettom up ed bottom up.

Excessive Deck Loads.

Then there is no doubt that exces sive (but not illegal) deckloads of timber have caused many steamers to disappear in the winter in the At-

But in a large number of cases the missing vessel will always remain a myster. It is hard to account for the loss of such a me liner as the the loss of such a me liner as the White Star Naronic, in February, 1893. She was of the company's cargo fleet, a steel screw steamer of 6,500 tons, nearly new, well-equipped, and well manned. No exceptionally bad weather in the Atlantic was reported that February; no icebergs were reported on the usual routes, and there does not appear to have been any collision with another vessel; yet she vanished, all that revessel; yet she vanished, all that re-mained for evidence being two life-boats floating bottom up.

In 1802 the Allan liner Huronian, equally well found, on a voyage from Glasgow to St. John's, vanished likewise.

The cargo which hte missing liner Nicaragua was carrying was one_of phosphate. It is now thought probaole, though it is not known definitey, that she had passengers on board. Inquiries have been made by a Liv-erpool gentleman for a brother whom he believed to be on the steamer as a passenger. Her accommoda-tion was for 30 passengers.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since."

WORLD'S GREATEST WEDDING.

Over Twenty Tuousanus Persons Married by One Ceremony.

The biggest wedding ever known to history was when Alexander the Great and over 10,000 of his soldiers took part in a wedding in the court of Darlus, king of Persia, after the latter's conquest by Alexander. Twenty thousand, two hundred and two persons were made husbands and wives in one ceremony two persons were made husbands and wives in one ceremony.

The facts are these, says the Chicago Tribune: After conquering King Darius, Alexander determined to wed Statiro, daughter of the conquered king, and issued a decree that on that occasion 100 of his chief officers should marry 100 women from the noblest Persian and Medean families. He further stipulated that 10,000 of his Greek soldiers should take to wife 10,000 Asiatic women.

For this purpose a vast pavillion

For this purpose a vast pavillion was erected, the pillars being sixty feet high. One hundred gorgeous chambers adjoined this for the 100 noble bridegrooms, while for the 10,000 soldiers an outer court was enclosed. Outside of this tables were spread for the multitude.

spread for the multitude.

Each pair had seats and ranged themselves in a semi-circle round the royal throne. As it would have taken several weeks for the few prieses to have married this cast number of couples had the ceremony been performed in the ordinary way, Alexander invented a simple way out of the difficulty. He gave his hand to Statiro and kissed her, and all the remaining bridegrooms did the same to the women beside them, and thus ended the ceremony that united the greatest number of people at one time ever known.

Then occurred a five days' festival, which for grandeur and magnificence never has since been equaled.

A Fatal Austrian Flag.

(Baltimore Sun.)

Once there was an epidemic of plague at Odessa, in Russia, which lasted more than a year. It had a most remarkable origin, being due to a fatal flag. An Austrian vessel arrived at Odessa, bringing one of the crew who had died during the voyage. The sailor was duly interred in the Catholic cemetery at the port, and at the funeral the Austrian flag was carried by two seamen.

On their way back to the vessel the men entered a great number of saloons and laid down the flag while drinking. A very short time afterward the sailors who had carried the flag died, and before long it was found that people were ill in all the houses where the men had called with the fatal flag.

Soon the plague spread throughout Odessa, filling all with terror and claiming a frightful toll. There is no doubt that the flag contained the plague bacilli in the folds, and so spread the disease.
