GOOD STOCK MARKET.

South Carolina Has Great Possibilities Within Its Grasp.

Washington, May 8 .- Special: With the wonderful development of agriculture throughout the South which is now in progress, the question of getting the animals needed B. S. for working the farms and hauling the produce either to market or to the shipping points, is of almost as much importance as the labor problem. In fact they run hand in hand, and one without the other is of no use. The South now has all the animals needed, but from the following extract from a report of the Department of Agriculture it will be seen that we are paying high prices for animals and also for feed for them, both of which we could raise in the South and get a higher grade of

"It certainly seems anomalous to contemplate a vast section of our country spending millions annually for horses and mules, for beef and pork, and for commercial fertilizers, and selling hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of fertility as cotton seed meal and cake, when we realize that the condition of soil and climate generally throughout the South are excellent for animal production. This condition is still more surprising when we know that, properly fed. cotton seed meal is probably the most valuable protein-bearing feed the country produces, and that its fertilizing value after having gone through an animal's body is almost as great as its feed value. It is also more than passing strange that a Southern farmer will buy hay shipped from the West at from $15 to $23 per ton when his own land will often yield more hay per acre than the land where the Western hay was produced and of as good a quality.'

According to figures of the bureau of stat' tics of the Department of Agriculture, there were 83,026 horses in South Carolina on January 1, 1907. These horses had a total farm valuation of $10,437,182, an average of $126 a head. On the same date there were 134,690 mules In the State with a total farm value of $20,598,121, an average of $153

George M. Rommel, of the bureau of animal industry, has studied the son was one of the most highly essituation in South Carolina, and by teemed citizens of Pickens county, his calculations, the average life of a and a most excellent farmer. The stock of horses and woules must be replaced once in eight car ten years, respectively; or, to express it differently, 10,000 horses and 13,000 mules must be raised or brought into the State annually.

"There are three reasons why South Carolina farmers should raise their own horses and mules," says Mr. Rommel. "The first is to keep within the State the great sum which filled. as paid annually for stock shipped in Arom the North and West. It is estimated that probably about two Thousand of the horses and one Thousand of the mules used annu-: ally are raised in the State. Sumter was decided on as the next place of meeting.

Mrs. M. F. Ansel, as the first chair man of the Industrial School, was called to the platform and was warmly welcomed. She told of the progress of the work on the Industrial School and of the probability of its being ready for occupancy in September.

Miss Mary T. Nance, president of he Rural School Improvement Association, made a most interesting talk, and paid a beautiful tribute to the work of the retiring president.

A very notable social feautre of the federation was the afternoon reception given yesterday by the club women of Greenville at Sans Souci Country Club, to honor the distinguished women who this week have been the guests of Greenville, and this affair was among the most enjoyable and possibly the largest of the affairs of the week.

The officers of the federation and the newly elected officers received in the west parlor, and in the hall and back parlor, refreshments were served the The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Chart Hetchire The Champion Absentminded Man.

(Philadelphia Record.) A very absentminded professional man, with offices in a Chestnut street building, came downtown the other day and discovered that he had left his keys at home. The superintendent of the building let the absentminded man into his office, but he was still as bad off as ever. He could not get into his desk or at his safe. He pondered a little while over his dilemma; then he decided to return home for the keys. "Why not send a messenger boy after the keys?" was the thought that struck him, but that was immediately put out of the question by another thought to the effect that the boy would not be able to get in the house case the absentminded man's wife had left home. "That's right; I must go myself," decided the troubled man, and home he went, arriving at the very door of his house before it dawned upon him that he without his keys was as bad off as a messenger boy, and the poor man's wife had gone out all right. "Oh, hang it anyway, said the absentminded man, "I ought to have telephoned her to wait for me: Why didn't I do that? Well, I will go right back to the office and phone." And he did. He phoned and phoned for some time before he could understand why his wife did not answer; then he gave up work for the

Mixing of the Races.

(Yorkville Enquirer.)

A lot of New York cranks, white men and white women, have organized to promote the breaking down of color lines with a view to encouraging intermarriage between the races. They gave a big dinner one night last week and the features of it were a number of respectable women-respectable in New Yorkseated by the side of negro men, and speeches by white men in advocacy of intermarriage of the races. Possibly these foolish people, both white and black, think they have entered upon a meritorious crusad. Possibly they think they are working for peace on earth and good will toward men. But we think they are a lot of degenerate idiots. We do not believe that God ever intended such a consummation as these people have in view, and we do not believe He will permit such a thing. These New York men and women are instigated by the devil rather, and if their efforts have any result at all, those results will go hard with the poor negroes who allow themselves to be influenced by such idiotic example In passing, however, we would remark that there is absolutely no objection on our part to those New York women marrying the negroes with whom they sat at table, if they want to do so.

RARE COLORS IN MOLES.

Particular Varieties Confined to Certain Fields-Piebald and White.

(London Globe.)

Mole-catching first became a regular occupation about a century ago, when English mole-catchers were introduced on the lands of the ther: Duke of Buccleuch.

The handsomest varieties belong to the "silver gray" class. If these could be obtained in any quantity their skins would bring a high price in the fur market.

Mr. Service, of Dumfries, lately lectured before the Edinburgh Field Naturalists' Association, stated that he had never seen a really white mole, and he believed it to be a great rarity. Nor had he ever seeu a plebald variety. He had little doubt that variation of color in moles ran in certain families.

The regularity with which a partlcular variety occurred repeatedly in the same field or on the same farm was well known to every molecatcher, while no abnormal coloration would, perhaps, occur in any other part of the parish.

TO ABOLISH SNOW STORMS.

Future Generations in New York May Never See One.

(New York Cor. Nashville American) It is possible that future generations in Greater New York may never see a snow-storm, for a proposition contemplating their abolishment has at last been put forward. Every fall New York prepares to clean the streets of snow in a miraculously short time, and every winter finds the Street Cleaning Department unable to do so. The city is not quite in the class of Chicago, where it was recently discovered that men were still being carried on the pay rolls for the purpose of removing the bloom the purpose of removing the big snow of 1906, but it is never able to do much in the way of actually get-ting rid of the fall. After every storm all squares and parks are filled with miniature mountains of snow, shoveled together theoretically, to be hauled away and dumped in the river, but in reality to await river, but in reality to await the destroying influence of a good thaw or rain rainstorm. A heavy snowfall, too, has come to mean the piling up in each gutter of an impas-sable bunker. Naturally, in the light of such conditions, suggestions for handling the snow have been many. The latest and by far the most ingenious does not contemplate the handling of the snow, but its complete abolishment. A chemist in this city claims to have discovered a chemisal which, if sprayed into the air during a storm, would immediately change the snow to rain at a height of 100 feet above the pavement, and at a much lower cost than is now necessary for snow removed. Those perwho fatten on street-cleaning contracts are naturally contemptuous and call it visionary and impossible. But stranger things than the abolishment of snow have happened, and should it come to pass only those per-sons whose offices are above the tenth story could ever expect to see
