—A few drawings made by a youth of this section have been called to our attention during the past week. The young artist is Andrew McAllister and lives below West Union, near the Poplar settlement. He draws entirely from memory, adding here and there some feature of background that gives life to his work. Among the drawings we have is an automobile, which is a surprisingly accurate reproduction of C. R. Houchins' touring car, which McAllister sees pass frequently on the road from Walhalla to Seneca. A Blue Ridge engine is another reproduction that is almost perfect. The young artist is now sixteen years of age. We are not familiar with his circumstances, but if they are such that he can have his talent cultivated and perfected he has the foundation for a reputation. If his circumstances will not permit this, there is a good opportunity for some well-disposed person of means to lend valuable assistance.

—On the 19th of this month the Piedmont Land and Improvement Company will conduct one of the most elaborate land sales ever held in Oconee. The whole town of Westminster will be thrown open to receive visitors, and the new residence section of the town, "Eastminster," will be formally opened. The Piedmont Land and Improvement Company will sell this entire section in convenient building lots, and the 19th of November will be the time that many people will take advantage of opportunity and secure lots on which to build homes in the best county in South Carolina. The eyes of the whole State are turning toward the Piedmont section, and Oconee is one of the best favored of the Piedmont counties of South Carolina. Read the advertisement of the Piedmont Land and Improvement Company in this issue and attend the sale of lots. There will be much to interest and attract, aside from the great opportunities offered to secure a home at low prices. Remember the 19th.

A Smart Englishman.

(London Answers.)

A tall, practical Englishman went over to "the States" the other day from London. He took lodgings at an inn in a small village, which shall be nameless. He had dinner, and among those who sat at the table with him was the waiting maid, whom he designated as "servant," but he received an indignant correction from the landlord.

"We call our servants, sir, 'helps.' They are not oppressed; they are not Russian serfs."

"All right," said the Britisher; "I shall remember."

And he did, for in the morning he awoke the whole house by calling out at the top of his voice, which was like the tearing of a strong rag: "Help, help! Water, water!"

In an instant every person equal to the task rushed into his room with a pail of water.

"I am much obliged to you, I am sure," he said, "but I don't want so much water, you know. I only want enough to shave with."

"Shave with!" said the landlord. "What did you mean by calling: 'Help! Water!' We thought the house was a fire."

"You told me to call the servant 'help,' and I did. Did you think I would cry 'water!' when I meant fire?"

The explanation, it would seem, was satisfactory, and he can call the servants "servants" as much as he likes at that place now.

LIKE MAN, LIKE TYPEWRITER.

The Machines Affected by the Temperaments of their Owners.

"It is odd to note," said the man who repairs typewriters, "how the machine seems, in many cases, to reflect the personality of the owner and user."

"I have seen it a good many times when I am going around in the course of my work. Take for instance a new and highly stiff typewriter, owned by a man of nervous temperament and quick action."

"A man like that will have the machine working in a short time so that it will fit in with his characteristic action. The sort of a man of whom one speaks inevitably as dashing off a letter is the kind I mean."

"He'll get the typewriter going for him so that it cannot print slowly. It will carry less vitatable writers along with it when they use the machine by chance."

"Then, again, if a man has the habit of writing very slowly, perhaps with a heavy touch, it won't take long before the machine will begin to adapt itself to his customs. Some of those machines cannot be made to do their work save according to the scheme by which they have been trained."

"It's all very well to speak of machine-like accuracy, and so on, but machines apparently have their human side, because they are ready imitators and do their best to fit in with the peculiarities of those with whom they work."

Last year New York spent $33,000,000 on public schools; Chicago $23,000,000; Boston more than $10,000,000; Philadelphia a little more than $6,000,000. Though Philadelphia is the third city in population in the United States, it stood thirty-fourth in per capita expenditure on schools.

WARRANTS FOR NIGHT RIDERS.

Three Hundred Issued for Slayers of Capt. Rankin.

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 2.—Upon the affidavits of James S. Deason, relative of Capt. Quintin Rankin, Hillman Taylor, son of Col. R. Z. Taylor, and J. C. Burdick, owner of the fish docks at Samburg, which were once destroyed by night riders, three hundred State warrants for the arrest of one hundred alleged night riders will be issued to-morrow by Justice R. Polk. One set of warrants charges murder in the first degree, being based upon the killing of Capt. Rankin. The second warrant charges assault with intent to murder while masked, based upon the attempt made to end Col. Taylor's life. The third set charge the parties named with going masked on the premises of another in the night time.

ONE WIFE TO BE DEPORTED.

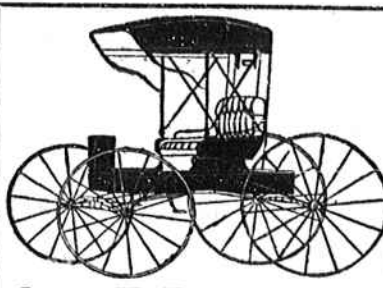

Immigration Authorities Refuse to Let Chinaman Bring in Two.

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—The immigration authorities at Washington have ordered a temporary division in the family of Robert Tau Tung Bosman, the Hong Kong millionaire, who was refused admission because of his belief in polygamy and because he was accompanied by two wives. The government has ruled that Bosman may stay in this country with one of his wives, but the other must be deported.

The embarrassing predicament has been solved, it is said, and Mrs. Clara Bosman, who is accompanied by four children, will remain in attendance upon her husband, who is under treatment in the German hospital for nervous disorders.

Boy Killed at Jonesville.

Jonesville, Nov. 2.—Charley Adams, a 12-year-old white boy, living in the mill town, was swinging on to a loaded wagon that was passing through the streets when he lost his hold and fell between the wheels. One wheel of the wagon passed over his body, crushing it badly, from which he died the next day. A colored man was driving the wagon and was in no way to blame for the accident.

Colds and Croup in Children.

"My little girl is subject to colds," says Mrs. Wm. H. Serig, No. 41 5th street, Wheeling, W. Va. Last winter she had a severe spell and terrible cough, but I cured her with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without the aid of a doctor, and my little boy has been prevented many times from having the croup by the timely use of this syrup." This remedy is for sale by J. W. Bell, Walhalla; W. J. Lunney, Seneca.

Dispensary Voted Out of Laurens.

Laurens, Nov. 3.—Indication are that prohibition wins by an overwhelming majority. Eleven precincts out of twenty-five heard from at this hour give the dispensary 334 votes and 1,089 against.
