

JUDGE THOS. J. MACKEY DEAD.

Fought in Confederate Army—Elected Judge by Carpet-baggers.

Washington, April 8.—Judge T. J. Mackey died last night at the Georgetown University Hospital, after an illness of about ten days, following an operation. At his bedside when death came was his son, Capt. Crandal Mackey, Commonwealth's Attorney for Alexandria county, Virginia. Mrs. Mackey, the Judge's widow, is in New York city. The funeral will be held at the Virginia home of his son. The interment will be at Arlington. Confederate veterans will act as pallbearers.

Sketch of His Life. (News and Courier.)

Thomas Jefferson Mackey was born in Charleston on the 23d day April, 1830, and was in some respects one of the most interesting characters who ever lived in this State. In every county of South Carolina good stories are told over and over again of his sayings or doings in the days when he was one of the Circuit Judges, some twenty-five years ago.

Judge Mackey first attended the Citadel Academy, and was afterwards graduated from Harvard University Law School. He took part in the war with Mexico, and at the battle of Chapultepec received a wound, from which he never fully recovered. For gallantry during this conflict he was awarded medals by the Legislature of South Carolina and by the city of Charleston. He joined the command of William Walker, the American adventurer, who in 1855 and 1856 seized the Government of Nicaragua, but whose plans failed because the United States government refused to recognize him, and he was one of Walker's captains in that undertaking.

In the War Between the States Judge Mackey served throughout the conflict under Gen. Sterling Price, of the Confederate army, and was chief of engineers of the district of Arkansas. Whatever other charges were brought against him, he was never accused of lacking bravery.

After the war Judge Mackey, despite the fact that he had been identified with the fortunes of the Confederacy throughout that struggle, went in with the Carpet-bag crowd. He was elected Judge of the Sixth Judicial District of South Carolina, and served three terms in that capacity. He was a man of uncommon ability, in manner retentive and ponderous, yet epigrammatic also, and many of his witty remarks still survive. He it was who said of Wright, the negro Judge on the Supreme Bench at that time, that "Wright is like necessity, because he knows no law." His ingenious mind could always devise some means for acquitting the prisoners whom he wished to acquit and of convicting those whom he wished to convict, or for settling civil causes as he might desire. One of the solicitors of that time has told this writer of the manner in which Judge Mackey turned loose one after another of a batch of negroes who were clearly guilty, but whom Mackey did not want to convict. He instructed the jury to acquit the first because the solicitor had failed to prove that the gun was loaded. The solicitor in the next case proved that the gun was loaded, but Judge Mackey got around that by telling the jury that they must acquit since it had not been shown that the powder was put into the gun before the bullet.

In the next case he charged that as it had not been proved that the gun—muzzle-loaders were then used—had been properly primed, an acquittal must follow, and so on. When the revolution of 1876 took place in South Carolina, Judge Mackey was quick to see the way things were going, and again went in with the Democrats—who were glad at that time to welcome any assistance. He did good service for Hampton, and was the Commissioner from South Carolina, who conducted the negotiations with President Hayes, which resulted in the recognition of Wade Hampton as Governor of the State, and in the giving over to Hayes of the Presidential vote of South Carolina. Not much has been seen of Judge Mackey in South Carolina in recent years. Reports brought back here indicated that his career for a time was a checkered one, but little has been heard of him in the last several years.

PRISONERS HAD ACID.

Frank Turner and Mart Hopkins Intended to Break Jail.

(Anderson Mall, April 7.)

Sheriff W. B. King and Deputy M. M. Stewart nipped in the bud about noon to-day one of the most cleverly planned jail deliveries ever attempted in Anderson county, and are this afternoon working on clues that may lead to the arrest of those outside, who are bound to have aided the two white prisoners in the jail, Frank Turner, a white man, arrested at Pelzer about two months ago on an unmentioned charge, and Mart Hopkins, who has about completed a sentence for blockading, having been sent here from Oconee county, in the plan.

The officers learned that one of these prisoners had a knife in his possession that had been left with him some time yesterday, and fearing he might injure some of the other prisoners, decided on a search of the jail. They went to the cell to-day, and after finding the knife in the possession of Turner, decided to press the search further. In the corner of the cell, beneath a box, were found three small vials, containing about an ounce each of liquid.

The bottles were shown to a leading druggist of the city and he declared them to contain sulphuric, nitric and hydro-chloric acid, three of the most powerful acids known, and in sufficient quantities to eat away the bars of the cells when placed so that there would be a constant dripping, within about twenty-four hours. It is believed by some that the knife was to have been used as a saw, and applied to the bars after they had been almost rusted away by the acids.

The officers who thwarted the plan, believe firmly that the escape was planned by Turner, whose identity has never been fully established since he was arrested at Pelzer. On his legs and arms at that time were shackle marks, indicating that he had recently done time somewhere, and it has been thought since that he is wanted in another section. No one about Pelzer was able to give any light as to his identity. He has the appearance of a shrewd, daring fellow.

One of the three bottles found in the cell to-day bore the name of a leading local druggist stamped in the glass, but all of the labels had been carefully removed. The bottle bearing the druggist's name contained sulphuric acid, but he says this acid is usually handled by plumbers. Several days ago a woman of about 40 years, rather shabbily dressed, says the druggist, called at the store several times and asked for the acid, the name of which she had rather mixed, but none was sold to her, and she went away, supposedly to a plumber's.

An odor of burning rags was detected in the jail yesterday by those in charge there, and this has in a manner led to the discoveries to-day. When the search was made, many fragments of burned rags and a number of matches were found concealed with the acids. This is explained by the officers, who say that the fumes from the burning rags were intended to overcome those which came from the acids working on the iron bars of the cells.

A partial investigation was made at the jail to-day to see if any of the effects of the acids on the bars could be found, but nothing has so far come of this. The drugs may not yet have been applied, those who planned and were to execute the jail delivery preferring rather to work in the night time, or it may be that a sufficient amount of the acids had not been used to produce an impression. It was said this afternoon that a detective will come here at once, and an effort be made to establish the identity of Turner, who is believed to have laid the plans and directed the purchase of the acids from the cell. He is about 35 years old.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Now I am so I can walk around the house and have no doubt it will perform a permanent cure. W. H. FLOOD.

GREENVILLE JAIL WAS EASY.

Barton Declares that He Had No Trouble in Getting Out.

Greenville, April 9.—Stubbornly refusing to give any account of how he made his escape from the jail here, upon the grounds that he might want to use the same methods in leaving his present place of confinement in the Asheville jail, where he was lodged after his sensational capture Monday afternoon, George Barton, the notorious safe blow, is taking his capture coolly and expressing the utmost confidence in his ability to again reach the outside world. The Asheville Citizen of Wednesday has this story in reference to him.

"The Greenville jail was easy and I'll get out of here, too," said Geo. Barton, one of the champion cracksmen and jail breakers of the country, who was captured at Craggy Monday night, in the jail here to-day.

Closely guarded in an iron cell, with everything that might be used as a weapon taken from him, his case seems a hopeless one, but there seems to be little question in his mind that a way of escape will present itself. He has broken out of some of the strongest jails in the country, and the officers here are taking apparently needless precautions to keep him safe.

Garber Moore, alias "Tennessee Dutch," his companion, who was captured with him, but who made good his escape, is still at large, but the search for him is kept up and the officers believe they will land him yet.

The post office inspector arrived from Greenville yesterday and identified his erstwhile prisoner, after which Barton acknowledged his identity. He and his pal were headed toward Knoxville when arrested, he said. He talks freely at the jail, but is careful not to tell how he got out of jail at Greenville. "I ain't going to tell how I got out because I might want to get out in the same way here," he said to a reporter to-day.

It is believed here that some material other than explosives was used, for when the escape from Greenville was made even the guards heard no noise. The theory has been advanced that cotton was packed into a hole drilled with pieces of an umbrella and water poured on this. When showed a newspaper account of the theory he only said: "I'll give the man who wrote that credit for having a lot of sense. It's not for me to say whether it's right or whether it's not."

A telegram was received here in the afternoon from Post Office Inspector Gregory, who is now in Morristown, Tenn., stating that he hoped to soon land "Tennessee Dutch," alias Garber Moore, alias Rutherford. "Dutch" is a native of Tennessee and knows the mountains thoroughly. He will, it is thought, give the officers considerable trouble before he is again behind the bars.

The government, it is understood, has sent other detectives to work on the case, and these, together with the great army of policemen and city and county detectives who are searching for the yeggman, ought to make his continued liberty a hard matter. But the "Garber," as he is sometimes called, is one of the most desperate men in the business of safe-blowing and jail-escaping. Repeatedly he has defeated shrewd officers, and has often gotten away when escape seemed impossible.

As to Barton's escape from the jail at Asheville, this is thought to be simply idle boasting. There is no question but that the man is now being watched day and night, and the sheriff of Asheville is determined that the man will be there when the officer comes to take him to trial.

"Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years."—Mrs. L. Whiteacre, Buffalo, New York.

To Pay Engineers $2,500 Each.

Washington, April 8.—After a conference with the President to-day Secretary of War Dickinson announced that six consulting engineers who accompanied Mr. Taft to the Isthmus of Panama shortly before his inauguration would receive as compensation for their services a fee of $2,500 each and expenses.

POLICEMEN SHOOT LAWYER.

Prominent Richmond Attorney Found at Broken Saloon Window.

Richmond, Va., April 8.—Ordway Puller, a former member of the Legislature, and a prominent young attorney of this city, was shot at an early hour this morning, by policemen just after having broken the window of a saloon, and although he is now in a hospital, he is under the surveillance of the police on a felony charge. The officers heard the crash of glass, and presuming that some one was breaking into the place, ran to the scene and discovered Puller, who made an attempt to escape. Both officers fired, one of the shots taking effect in his leg. Puller dropped and was captured. His wound is not considered dangerous.

To save buying so much cow feed the next winter, try some cowpeas this time. They are hay and grain both. The cowpea hay makes the very best cow feed to feed while giving milk in winter.

FOREST FIRES BURNING.

Untold Damage Done on the Vanderbilt Estate.

Asheville, N. C., April 8.—Advises from Transylvania to-day state that forest fires, which have been raging on the Vanderbilt possessions in that section for the last two days, have done enormous damage to virgin timber, and that two rangers' cabins have been destroyed. The valuable timber tracts in the Toxaway country are also said to have been damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars. Residents in the latter section, whose property was endangered by the flying sparks, turned out and fought the fires day and night.

We often wonder how any person can be persuaded into taking anything but Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs, colds and lung trouble. Do not be fooled in to accepting "own make" or other substitutes. The genuine contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. J. W. Bell, Walhalla; Stoneypher Pharmacy, Westminster.

P. P. P. Cures Rheumatism

Read what Nicholas Lang, the largest retail grocer in Savannah says about P. P. P.

F. V. LIPPMAN, Savannah, Ga.,

Dear Sir:

For many years I consumed much medicine, and in fact tried every means in my power to get cured of that terrible disease, rheumatism, which had undermined my health. I visited Hot Springs, Ark., without gaining relief, and at last in sheer desperation I took P. P. P. (Lippman's great remedy), and was in a short time entirely cured. In the eight years since that time I have not had a symptom of rheumatism.

P. P. P. did the work to my entire satisfaction and made a quick and permanent cure.

Yours truly,

Nicholas Lang.
