WALHALLA, S. C.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 22, 1910.

JUDGE C. G. DANZLER DEAD.

Was Able Jurist and Will Be Greatly Missed.

Orangeburg, S. C., June 20.—Judge Charles G. Danzler died at his home here this morning. He had been in declining health for some time, and returned to Orangeburg Sunday afternoon from Atlanta, Ga., where he had been in a sanitarium.

He was 56 years and 3 months old. He died surrounded by his devoted wife and daughters and friends.

Since last December Judge Danzler had been too ill to discharge his official duties. During all that time, while bearing his affliction with the fortitude of a Christian and true man, he chafed under the restraint laid upon his actions, which deprived him of rendering due service to his State.

But all efforts of skilled specialists and devoted friends and family proved unavailing and were finally conquered by the dread malady, Bright's disease.

Judge Danzler was born in St. Matthews parish, Orangeburg District, March 19, 1854, and was the oldest son of Col. and Mrs. Olin M. Danzler. He began his school career at Mt. Zion Institute, at Winnsboro, S. C. From this institute he went to King's Mountain Military School, and entered Wofford College in 1874, and was graduated therefrom with the degree of A. B. in 1875, with honors. He had since been a trustee of his alma mater, resigning when elected judge in 1902.

In 1876 he married Miss Laura M. Moss, daughter of the late Capt. W. C. Moss, who, with two daughters, survives him.

Appointment, Then Election.

On account of the death of Judge Danzler an appointment will have to be made by Governor Ansel to fill the interim between now and the next session of the General Assembly, when an election will take place to fill the vacancy in the First Circuit.

The Code provides that the Governor shall make appointments in cases of vacancies in office, when the unexpired term is less than one year. In cases where the unexpired term is more than a year the vacancy must be filled by election in the General Assembly.

Judge Danzler was reelected at the last session of the General Assembly, so his commission was dated February, 1910. Therefore his term of office would expire February, 1911.

KEEP BUSY ON THE FARM.

Demonstrator Holland Gives Advice for Completion of Crops.

Brother Farmer, now is the time for you to do the essential work. The staff is at hand and if it gets the proper attention and we get seasons favorable we will be able to demonstrate the fact in many instances that of a truth we have made no mistake in this matter. Cultivate shallow; use your side application to cotton as soon as you can get to it, and corn as I have advised heretofore. If three applications, the first at about the time your corn is a foot high or a little taller; the second when it is from three to four feet high, and your nitrate of soda when tasseling.

Now, gentlemen, it is of great importance that you thin your crops suit your preparation of soil.

Can you afford to let the pea crop pass? Plant peas to make them to sow next year. Try to be in shape to show the professional man that we are men of might and that by the Lord's help we will be in the light. Yes, plant all stubble lands in peas, peanuts, sorghum cane, turnips or cabbage.

Sow your Georgia collard seed now.

What about wheat? Could you relish a good home-made biscuit, seasoned with home-made lard? If so, sow peas in your corn and sow the land in wheat in October.

Uncle Jake, the corn king, cannot raise biscuits for all of us, and I am under the impression that we can help him.

I would be very glad if every farmer would sow rye in cotton or late corn when laying by say one-half bushel or less to the acre.

Cotton should be carefully thinned from 12 inches to three feet in drill, according to the preparation. Do not lay-by too early. We must stay with it if the crop matures. Hustle the plow is the main thing, early and late.

Gambrell Holland.

Firemen Injured in Chicago Fire.

Chicago, June 21.—Two firemen were injured and eight employees escaped death only by jumping from windows into the river below when fire attacked the plant of the Greiss-Pfeifer Tanning Company, at North Halsted street and the river, to-day. Four hundred employees escaped in such haste that many of them were unable to secure their street clothes. The plant was destroyed with a loss of $250,000, fully insured.

PORTER CHARLTON GUILTY?

Fail to Find Trace of Missing American—Will Try Fugitive.

Como, Italy, June 18.—Porter Charlton's body is not at the bottom of Lake Como.

This was the report made to-day by the king's divers, sent to the treacherous floor of the lake in the hunt for the husband of Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton, the trunk mystery victim.

In spite of their adverse reports and the terrific cold of the lake's waters, the divers were ordered to resume the search, going, if necessary, to the base of the submerged precipice not far from the spot where the trunk was discovered.

A strong current in the narrow strip of the lake near Moltrasio adds to the dangers and difficulties of the divers' task.

The work is prosecuted only because of the attitude of Ambassador Leishmann and Consul Charles M. Cough, who, insisting that Charlton was slain when his wife died, urge on the search for his remains.

The medical report was completed to-day. While the details are closely guarded, they are said to show beyond doubt that Mrs. Charlton was alive when thrown into the lake.

The plans for the trial of Porter Charlton are being completed rapidly. The peculiar system by which a fugitive is tried and sentenced in the Italian courts is invoked against him to prevent the statute of limitations from rendering him immune from arrest after five years. If convicted, the defendant, should he be arrested, would have to pay the penalty immediately.

While the massing of evidence is already under way, it was stated to-day that the trial will probably not be called for some months, giving adequate time for the world-wide hunt.

Fives Guilt on Charlton.

Rome, June 18.—Judge Fracassi, the examining magistrate before whom the inquiry into the murder of Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton has been held at Lake Como, to-day delivered his official report to the foreign office. In it he places the guilt upon the missing husband, Porter Charlton.

Nearly every bit of testimony adduced at the hearing, he reports, tends to show that the crime was committed by Charlton. Beyond that, the judge is convinced that the young American was not himself murdered and that his remains are not at the bottom of Lake Como.

Card of Thanks.

Editor Keewee Courier: We desire through your columns to express our heartfelt thanks to our Walhalla friends for the kindness shown us and expressions and evidences of sympathy given in our recent bereavement. When grief is deepest such evidences of sympathy and kindly interest can but bind closer the friendships that are so highly prized. Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Look.

Kills Self in Front of Church.

Memphis, Tenn., June 19.—As the worshippers were entering St. Peter's church in this city this morning Mrs. Addie Searcy, 59 years of age, mother of five children, at her home opposite the church, placed a revolver to her head and fired three shots, producing instant death. Her health and the fact that her daughter had just sent for a doctor for her, induced the act of self-destruction.

Card of Thanks.

Editor Courier: Please allow us space in your valuable paper to return thanks to the good people of Millville and surrounding community for their aid and tender care and kindness during the sickness and death of our beloved daughter, Carrie. Also to the people of the 8 loc community for their aid and kindness during the funeral. May God's richest blessings ever dwell with them.

What He Did Not See.

Clarence Poe, representing a well known Southern farm paper, who recently made a tour of the Middle West, is writing a series of articles in which he tells of what he saw on his trip. His journey carried him through the rich farming States of Illinois and Wisconsin, and his story of why the farmers of these States have become so prosperous is learned from what he did NOT see, rather than what he actually saw.

For example, take this list:
No mules.
No cabins.
No gullies.
No old fields.
No forest fires.
No big plantations.
No one-horse plows.
No loafers at depots.
No sheep-killing dogs.
No small work horses.
No stumps in the fields.
No commercial fertilizers.
No factory-slave children.
No farm homes unpainted.
No one-room school houses.
No farms without live stock.
No anaemic-looking children.
No land without cover crops.
No burning of vegetable matter.
No cows or mules with ribs showing.
No parasite store at every cross-roads.
No farms cut up into trifling patches.
No surface-scratching, miscald plowing.
No farm home without sanitary conveniences.
No farmer "bossing" help without working himself.

And it might be said in conclusion, that there were no negroes and consequently no white men and women either waiting for negroes to do work they might do themselves, or abating from what their hands found to do from any absurd idea that it was "beneath them."

CLEMSON EXTENSION WORK

Article XII.

Feeding Beef Cattle.

Can we, with economy, feed beef cattle in this State? Can we feed cattle for market and at least get the manure for our trouble? Can we feed beefs at a profit?

We are often asked these questions and a brief summary of results of feeding a lot of about thirty may be of interest as by this means we can present facts and not guess work.

This lot we began to feed on November 13 and it consisted of a mixed bunch of steers and heifers, nearly half of each.

By February 26 they had gained 5,896 pounds, or a gain of 218 pounds each, averaging a little more than 14 1/2 pounds per head per week.

This, as any feeder knows, is a very good gain and was particularly good in this instance, as they were a mixed lot of mountain cattle, obtained locally, and of a rather low average in quality.

In this time they consumed 105,600 pounds silage and 21,162 1/2 pounds cotton seed meal, or an average of 37 pounds silage and 7 1/2 pounds meal per head per day.

If silage is valued at $3 per ton and meal at $50 per ton, then these steers cost to feed at rate of 17 1/4 cents per day. To offset the cost of the feed we obtained the gain of 11.8-15 pounds per week, the manure, and the increase of value to the whole animal that comes from the added flesh.

In some sections it is expected to sell the animal for at least one cent per pound more when fattened than they cost when thin. Using these figures, let us see how our account would stand.

—cows consumed in fifteen weeks, at $3 per ton	$158 00
Meal for same time at $30 per ton	315 00
Total cost of feed	$473 00
Weight at start was 22,850 pounds. At 3 1/2 cents per pound the amount would be $799.75.
The gain was 5,896 pounds, making the selling weight 28,746 pounds. If sold at a gain of 1 cent per pound then—
28,746 pounds at 1 1/2c.	$1,293 17
Deduct cost	799 75
Balance	$ 493 42
Cost of food as above	473 00

Selling price above cost, $ 20 42
Selling price is only an estimate, as the above cattle were for our own use, hence not sold, but the lesson remains just the same.

Under favorable circumstances this indicates that cattle may be fed for beef and the manure obtained for the labor.

If the cattle were fed at seasons when meal is lower in price the showing would be better. The silage, too, may usually be grown for less than $3 per ton and in that case it would be so much to the advantage of the feeder.

The foregoing shows that this industry may be profitable as an aid in building up the farm, but we must present the following cautions, and would suggest the desirability of fattening only a few, say a car lot, the first time and let the business grow as one becomes accustomed to all the conditions to be met.

If cattle are bought from a distance, study the freight rates and see if that may prohibit the enterprise.

In buying be careful they are not weighed just after receiving food and water.

Learn if the market in which you wish to sell will take heifers, or if it pays better for steers, and act accordingly.

If heifers are bought, get grayed ones if possible, or if not then such as are not bred, or at least that are not far advanced in pregnancy.

Buy local cattle if possible and save not only freight, but the shrink, loss caused by shipping, these often being very serious drawbacks to the enterprise.

Do not feed too long, but yet enough to satisfy the market. When cattle are nearly finished, the cost of gain is much increased.

Buy as late in season as possible and yet get them at low prices and sell on the markets before early lambs and grass fed animals are offered.

Jawbone Made of Pure Gold.

New York, June 21.—A remarkable operation has just been performed at the post-graduate hospital by which a man has been provided with an artificial jaw of pure gold to replace a jawbone destroyed by disease. The operation is said to be the first of the kind ever performed in a New York hospital.

Michael Wood, 54 years old, of Greenwich, Conn., is the patient. His disease had progressed so far that Wood's family believed his death was only a question of months.

W. E. Garrison Dead.

(Anderson Mail.)
W. E. Garrison, of Belton, but formerly of this city, died in the Columbia Hospital last night of pellagra. He had been in ill health for several months, but was carried to the hospital in Columbia about ten days ago. Mr. Garrison was 42 years old, and leaves a widow and several children. He was a brother of C. C. Garrison, of this city.

Mr. Hughs Withdraws from Race.

Unexpected business matters which will call me to another county during the course of the summer will render it impossible for me to continue in the race for the House of Representatives. I must, therefore, withdraw, but in doing so I wish to thank my friends for the support which they promised me.

Respectfully, Harry R. Hughs.
