

SENATOR DANIEL PASSES AWAY.Gallant Confederate and Virginia's Favorite Son.

Lynchburg, Va., June 29.—John W. Daniel, senior Senator from Virginia, and for more than thirty years Virginia's "favorite son," died at the Lynchburg Sanitarium at 10.30 o'clock to-night, his death being due to a recurrence of paralysis. The immediate cause of his death was a cerebral hemorrhage, sustained at noon to-day, in the right portion of his brain, involving the right side. This was in addition to the paralysis of the left side, which was sustained last winter while in Florida for his health.

The statesman's illness began with a slight attack of apoplexy in Philadelphia last October, which kept him from being in his seat at the opening of Congress last December. Only once since that had he appeared before an audience, and that was for an informal talk in January.

The end was almost without a struggle. Dissolution was very rapid, for when the final and complete failure of heart action began it progressed with great rapidity and in five minutes the patient was dead.

Sketch of Senator Daniel's Life.

The death of Senator John Warwick Daniel removes the oldest of the Democratic Senators in point of service. Of the entire list he was the only one who could be said to belong to the old regime; and as he was the oldest in service, he was one of the most conspicuous in popular favor.

For the past few years he had remained much in the background. His health had not been good, and his growing years seemed to tell on him. He was not heard often in the Senate, and his recent efforts were not his best. But previous to this period he spoke frequently and held high reputation as an orator. In those earlier days his speeches were the signal for the gathering of large audiences and by many, as an orator, he was ranked with Voorhees, Ingalls, Wolcott and Vest. A man of extensive reading, liberal education and retentive memory, he commanded a voluminous vocabulary. He spoke fluently and with ease, and seemed never at a loss for something pertinent to say. He was a strong advocate of free silver coinage and took a prominent part in the debates connected with the silver legislation of the nineties.

His War Record.

Entering the Confederate army as second lieutenant of the "Stonewall Brigade" in May, 1861, he was wounded in the first battle of Manassas. Soon thereafter he became second lieutenant of Company A, 11th Virginia Infantry, and afterwards was first lieutenant and then adjutant of his regiment.

After being wounded he was promoted to major and chief of staff of Gen. Jubal A. Early, serving until crippled in the Wilderness May 6, 1864. It was said by eye-witnesses that Major Daniel was wounded almost immediately after he had rescued Gen. R. E. Lee from a very perilous position.

He served in the Virginia House of Delegates from 1869-1872, and the State Senate from 1875 to 1881, being a State Senator when he was named for Governor in 1881 on the Democratic ticket, to be defeated by Wm. E. Cameron.

In 1884 he was elected to the House of Representatives in the 49th Congress, and before that term expired was elected United States Senator for the term beginning March 4, 1887, succeeding Wm. Mahone. He was re-elected three times, twice without opposition. In January last he was re-elected for the term expiring 1917, but was physically unable to go to Richmond, as was his custom, to express publicly his appreciation.

Wrote Suffrage Report.

He was Democratic elector at large in 1876 and represented the State as delegate at large to six national Democratic conventions. He was a leader in the recent Virginia Constitutional Convention, and wrote the suffrage report, which practically settled the suffrage question in Virginia.

Virginia never had a more popular statesman. He was ever faithful to the ideas of Democracy and never once was the confidence of his people shaken in him. An interesting indication of his character was shown when he assumed personal debts of his father amounting to $100,000, for which there was no moral claim upon the son. He felt it his duty, however, to discharge these, and on his 65th birthday had the distinct pleasure of making the last of the payments.

Major Daniel was a loyal Confederate veteran, having been for a number of years commander of Dearing Camp, at Rustburg. His last public utterance was before Garland-Rodes Camp, of Lynchburg, when that organization commemorated the recent anniversary of the birth of Gen. Robt. E. Lee.

A Word to the Public.

We have done our best in getting speakers, to discuss these topics, seeing nearly all of them personally and getting their consent before using their names. Now let's get to business and make this the most interesting union meeting we've been to in years. It is our aim to do this, and it is in our power if we go at it in the right way, trusting God to direct us in thought and words.

"What can I give?" I hear you say;
Ah, this and this,
From mine array.

I am not like to miss;

And here are crumbs to some hungry one;

They do but grow a crumbran on my shelf;

And yet, one reads, our Father gave His Son—

Our Master gave Himself.

"Is Life Worth Saving?"

Mrs. Mollie McFaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes that she had a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, and that four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured her sound and well. She closes her letter by saying: "I heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to any sufferer of kidney disease. It saved my life." J. W. Bell.

Long Creek Locals.

Long Creek, June 27.—Special: The farmers of this community are making good use of these dry days working their crops.

Mrs. Emily Grahl, of Walhalla, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Phillips.

Dover Phillips and Charley Moore made a business trip to Clayton, Ga., last week.

We are having a good Sunday school at Long Creek now.

There were three raiding officers in this settlement the past week, supposed to be "grubroot digging."

Must Be Above Suspicion.

Kidney and bladder ailments are so serious in their consequences, and if unchecked so often fatal that any remedy offered for their cure must be above suspicion. Foley's Kidney Pills contain no harmful drugs, and have successfully stood a long and thorough test. J. W. Bell.

HIDDEN DANGERS.Nature Gives Timely Warnings that No Walhalla Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Walhalla proof: W. D. Moss, Main street, Walhalla, S. C., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and am pleased to say that I received great benefit. I was feeling badly for some time and had symptoms of kidney disease. Occasionally my back ached and the kidney secretions were irregular in passage. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Dr. J. W. Bell's drug store and I have felt a great deal better since using them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

A Hard Heart.

(Detroit Free Press.)

Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the famous Denver juvenile court said in the course of a recent address on charity: "Too many of us are inclined to think that, one misstep made, the boy is gone for good. Too many of us are like the cowboy."

"An itinerant preacher preached to a cowboy audience on the 'Prodigal son.' He described the foolish prodigal's extravagance and dissipation; he described his penury and his husking with the swine in the sty; he described his return, his father's loving welcome, the rejoicing, and the preparation of the fattened calf."

"The preacher in his discourse noticed a cowboy staring at him very hard. He thought he had made a convert, and addressing the cowboy personally, he said from the pulpit: 'My dear friend, what would you have done if you had had a prodigal son returning home like that?'"

"'Me?' said the cowboy, promptly and fiercely, 'I'd have shot the boy and raised the calf.'"

"I beg to announce my candidacy for the office of Governor, subject to the decision of the Democratic voters of the State. Campaign promises are easily made. My purpose is, if elected, to give the people a plain, honest and business-like administration. Of course I shall advocate good roads, good schools and good government, my attitude as to the same being well known to the public for many years. I consistently advocated prohibition and was among the first to give money and lend influence to push that movement more than twenty years ago. As a business man my chief aim, if elected, will be to conduct a State government along business lines. F. H. Hyatt."

TAKES OWN LIFE AND BABE'S.Southern Woman Was Haunted by Intolerable Fear of Insanity.

New York, June 30.—Haunted by the intolerable fear that she was going insane, Mrs. Jeanne Hodgson Catlett gave cyanide of potassium to her two-months-old daughter Jeanne this afternoon and swallowed a draught of the same herself. Both lay dead on the same bed when the husband, a supervising chemist, employed by the Western Electric Company, came home to-night.

Beside the young mother lay a long letter to her husband. "Don't think me cruel to the little life I've made," she wrote, "but rather that I am saving her so much pain, for bodily illness is nothing to this that is either insanity or nervousness—only God knows. She would surely inherit it."

Woman a Virginian.

Pinned to the outside closed bedroom door was a note to her husband reading, "George, don't come in. Let some one else—one of the boys."

Mrs. Catlett, who was born in Virginia 24 years ago, and her husband, who is from South Carolina, met three years ago at Falls Church, Va. They fell in love at first sight and were married in April, 1909. Since the birth of her daughter, Mrs. Catlett had been very nervous and her morbidness was heightened by the fact that her little girl, named for her, cried much of the time.

A Few Short Weeks.

J. S. Bartell, Edwardsville, Ill., writes: "A few months ago my kidneys became congested. I had severe backache and pain across the kidneys and hips. Foley's Kidney Pills promptly cured my backache and corrected the action of my kidneys. This was brought about after my using them for only a few short weeks and I can cheerfully recommend them." J. W. Bell.

F. H. HYATT FOR GOVERNOR.Well Known Business Man to Run on a Business Platform.

I beg to announce my candidacy for the office of Governor, subject to the decision of the Democratic voters of the State.

Campaign promises are easily made. My purpose is, if elected, to give the people a plain, honest and business-like administration. Of course I shall advocate good roads, good schools and good government, my attitude as to the same being well known to the public for many years. I consistently advocated prohibition and was among the first to give money and lend influence to push that movement more than twenty years ago.

As a business man my chief aim, if elected, will be to conduct a State government along business lines.

Life Insurance in South Carolina.
In South Carolina during the year 1909 there was paid out by life insurance companies to beneficiaries under policies the sum of $3,100,000, according to a statement in the current number of the Insurance Press. Of this amount Charleston policyholders got $449,739; Columbia, $210,377, and Anderson, $130,794; Belton, nearly all in one policy, $181,060.

Compared with some of the other States, Rhode Island policyholders were paid, on account of death, $3,500,000; Texas, $6,800,000; South Dakota, $900,000; Virginia, $5,000,000.

In the United States and Canada the total paid to beneficiaries was $266,500,000 on claims. The insurance paper points out that the life insurance business returned to normal last year and much increase was noted in payment of death claims and endowments.

Expert Knowledge In Wagon BuildingCan be gained only by experience and experiment.

What may seem excellent in theory may prove worthless in fact.

The Studebaker have been building wagons so long—nearly 60 years—that they are able to eliminate guesswork.

They know what is the best material and which method of construction is best.

Their long experience makes guesswork unnecessary in a

Pat's Boy.
(Wisconsin Agriculturist.)

When pa was just a little boy,
Gee, how he used to work,
He sawed the wood and built the fires
An' never tried to shirk.

He always filled the reservoir
An' swept the porches, too;
N' I guess there wasn't many things
Pa didn't ust to do.

Now ma gets up and builds the fires;
She says I am too small—
An' sweeps the porches an' the walks
An' doesn't mind at all.

She says she's glad to let my pa
His morning nap enjoy,
Because he's tired with all the work
He done when he's a boy.

When I get big I'll get a wife
Edactly like my ma;
To do the chores an' let me sleep
Just like she does my pa.

An' when I've had my mornin' nap
You bet that I'll enjoy
To tell 'em how I ust to work
When I's a little boy.
