-Last Sunday afternoon the alarm of fire was given, and it was found that the stables and outbuildings at that the stables and outbuildings at the home of J. W. shelor, Esq., were in flames. The first one to see the flames was a colored woman who lives, nearby, who gave the alarm when she noticed a flame and smoke emerging from the roof of the barn.

It was realized from the first that it would be impossible to save the barn corn crib and two other small buildings close by, and every effort was directed to prevent the flames spreading to the residence, and this was accomplished. Mr. Shelor was not home when the fire occurred, but his automobile was run from the garage by his son, T. B. Shelor, and saved. The garage, which was close to the barn, was soon wrapped in flames and destroyed. Everything of any importance was gotten out of the garage, but the entire contents of the barn and other buildings were destroyed. Mr. Shelor states that his loss is about $600. No explanation of the fire can be made unless, as is possible, some one had accidentally dropped a match while in the loft of the barn.

The Walhalla-Westmin-ster road, he says, is far above any that he has traveled in any section. Did Elkins Fail to Pay Taxes?

A dispatch from Elkins, W. Va. says:

A motior 'or judgment against the Davis Trust Company, former Senator Davis Elkins and S. B. Elkins, Jr., as executors of the last will and testament of the late United States Senator S. B. Elkins, has been filed by Prosecuting Attorney H. G. Kump. The motion alleges that Senator Elkins was a defaulting taxpayer and that he has forfeited to the State of West Virginia the sum of $375,043.40 in the year 1909; $297,773 in the year 1910, and, by his executors, $341,910.90 in the year 1911, making in all, with interest, the sum of $1,087,697.90, which the prosecutor claims must be paid over to the State of West Virginia by the executors for the Senator's failure to properly list his property for taxation. In the motion, the State alleges that the late Senator Elkins failed to give to the assessing officials a true list of all his property which should be assessed. The prosecuting attorney gives notice that on October 10 he will move the court for judgment against the executors of the estate.
