DIRECT DESCENDANT OF DAVID.
Boston Rector Finds Genealogical Tree Extending Back to Adam.

Rev. William Hyde, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, Weymouth, Mass., believes not only that the British are direct descendants of the Israelites, but that King George V is a lineal descendant of a cousin of the House of David.

"The royal house of Britain," says Mr. Hyde, "traces his ancestry back to the line of David and of Judah. To be specific: Tea Teph, daughter of Zedekiah, the last king of David's line, married Eochaid, the young king of the Danites, in the north of Ireland, in 583 B. C. They were married by the prophet Jeremiah and crowned on the Bethel stone.

"Eochaid himself was of the royal line of Judah, since he was descendant of one of the twin sons of Judah, David being a descendant of the other twin son.

"This marriage was the beginning of the royal house of the Scotts, and this line in time, through the Bruces and Stuarts, became the royal line of the British Empire.

"George V, therefore, is a descendant of David, and belongs to a dynasty which can never cease to exist, for it has the promise of God that it will never cease to have a descendant to reign over the people of Israel. The English-American people are this race; hence they are the people of God.

"Further, we can trace the lineage of the British ruler back even as far as Adam. Anna, a cousin of Mary, the mother of Christ, married a prince of the royal house of Britain, and hence became an ancestor of that house.

"God said that he would establish the throne of David forever, and that David would never cease to have a descendant. George V is a fulfillment of these words, for he is a descendant of David, and he sits upon the throne of Israel."

THE WHOLE THING IS A FRAUD.

So Says Game Warden J. B. Stroman and He Gives Up His Job.

(Orangeburg Times and Democrat.)
Game Warden John B. Stroman, of Springfield, who was recently appointed by Governor Blease, has resigned. In his letter of resignation to the Governor Mr. Stroman says: "At the time of my appointment as game warden for this county I was of the opinion that the people would in a measure support me in the enforcement of the laws relating to game and fish. Almost daily I receive letters telling of the violation of the laws—shooting dynamite, using traps, etc.—but in no instance have I found them willing to go into the courts and testify as to the guilt of the parties named.

"Having no funds at my command by which the law can be enforced, I am, in justice to my feelings in the matter, forced to offer you my resignation. I will not countenance a half-hearted stand in this matter, and will either prosecute the parties violating the laws or will lay down the bars and allow everybody to shoot the bottom out of the river, and thereby entirely destroy every vestige of fish.

"Our near neighbors in an adjoining county come down here by groves armed with dynamite and Winchester rifles, fully filled with their own family brands of corn whiskey, and after breaking loose as many boats as may be needed, proceed to blow up every living or creeping thing in or near the banks of the South Edisto river, well knowing that the 'devil takes care of his own,' and that they have little to fear, except the inevitable headache, caused by the freedom of the bottle of liquid hell that they always carry with them.

"This whole thing is a fraud as it stands. The fish in the rivers between Barnwell and Orangeburg counties are being slaughtered by men who do not live in either county, and the officers sworn to enforce the laws appear to be paralyzed with fear of the Winchester rifles always carried by the law-breakers."

CELEBRATE DOUBLE BIRTHDAY.

Mrs. Bearden 103 Years Old; Mrs. S. F. Taylor 34.

Oakway, July 3.—Special: A fine dinner was served at the old home-stand of the late Buckley Bearden on the 28th of June. It was given by Mrs. S. F. Taylor, the occasion being her 34th birthday anniversary and the 103d anniversary of her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Bearden.

On the 28th ultimo we drove over to S. Fred Taylor's to help him and his wife celebrate Mrs. Taylor's birthday, it being on the 28th, and her grandmother's on the same day, the dinner being at the old home place of "Granny Bearden."

The following children were present: Joseph Bearden, W. T. Bearden, Andrew Bearden, J. W. Bearden, Mrs. J. W. Tannery; grand and great-grandchildren, S. M. Tannery, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Tannery and six children, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Driver and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Driver and four children, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Lemmons and two children, Homer Tannery, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Graham and five children, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Jaynes and two children, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Childs and child, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Grant, Mr. and Mrs. Jode Honea and two children, Miss Anna Ables, Mrs. R. L. Hall and two daughters and son, Sam Taylor and son Harley, Mrs. J. W. Spearman and six children, Hearon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cole and five children.

Dinner was announced at 12.30 p. m. in the grove, under a large walnut tree, where these old men cracked walnuts in their boyhood days. Quite a number drove over to J. W. Bearden's to see "Grandma" Bearden and to talk to her. She can give from recollection a good account of 1845, the dry year, and the fiery Friday. She is very fond of plain stick candy and cuts it up in half-inch blocks every day so as to have it ready for night when she wakes up.

We all enjoyed ourselves very much. The children played games of different kinds, the young men and ladies sang and had a nice time, the older men talked crops and weather conditions until about 4 or 5 o'clock, when a nice rain came, which was received with thankful hearts.

May Mrs. Bearden and her granddaughter, Mrs. Taylor, live to witness many more such birthday dinners, and then may we all meet together around the great white throne, where there will be no more separation.

BLEASE ON THE REFORMATORY.

Governor Converted to the Idea by Visit to the Institution.

(Columbia Record.)
Governor Blease said Thursday that his visit this week to the State reformatory at Florence, the establishment of which he as State Senator opposed, had quite converted him to the reformatory idea as there exemplified, and it would be his pleasure to recommend liberal support of that institution by the General Assembly. "The place is clean, sanitary and pleasant," said the Governor; "there is no flubdub about its administration, and I was struck with the homelike atmosphere prevailing. I believe Superintendent Emmons and his family are devoted to their young charges, with whom he appears to have just the relation he ought to have."

Governor Blease said he opposed the measure proposing to create the reformatory because it originally provided for the care of white and colored boys in the same institution. For that reason he held up the project for two sessions, until the measure was amended so as to provide for white boys only.

Teach Boys Trades.
"At present facilities are at hand for the teaching of no trade other than farming," said the Governor. "I shall favor the making of proper provision for the instruction of the boys in one or two good plain trades, such as carpentry, painting, shoemaking and the like. I hope to see the reformatory built up. It is a valuable asset."

How to Get Out.
There is one thing about the reformatory that is puzzling the Governor somewhat. He is constantly in receipt of petitions that he release boys regularly committed to the institution. The law appears to make no provision for the release of an inmate except upon the order of the board of directors or on a writ of habeas corpus from the chief justice or one of the circuit judges. The Governor is of the opinion that this law is defective, but his advice to petitioners is that they employ counsel to present their cases. Where boys have been voluntarily committed by parents or guardians, appeal should be made to the directors of the reformatory. The Governor cannot well consider petitions for the release of any inmates except such as have been committed by a court upon conviction of crime.

Who Are Directors?
Another matter in reference to the reformatory which Governor Blease has under consideration is the composition of the board of directors. He does not intimate that he has any desire or intention to make any changes, but he wishes to ascertain just who are the directors. The records at the State House are not at all clear on this point. Governor Blease has asked W. R. Barringer, of Florence, whom he understands to be secretary-treasurer of the board, to furnish him with a list of the directors.

White Farmer Stabbed.

Newberry, July 4.—Andrew Davenport, a white farmer, living on H. H. Rikard's place, four miles west of Newberry, was badly stabbed in the chest by T. Grief Williams in a difficulty at a barbecue at Old Town to-day. Davenport was brought to Newberry and had his wound dressed. While the wound is serious, a safe recovery is hoped for.

Williams is a resident of Newberry and a former liquor constable, having lost his position when it was decided last week to discontinue the constabulary in Saluda county, where he was working.

Carried Skyward by Feet.

Treynor, Iowa, June 30.—Ransom Jones, an 18-year-old boy of Treynor, while watching a balloon ascension yesterday, was caught in the guide ropes and carried aloft. He managed to hold on to the rope, and descended with the balloon three miles from Treynor. He was uninjured.

Jones started up feet foremost, but soon managed to grasp the rope with his hands, turn himself about, and twist his legs around the rope. In this manner he held on, even when the aeronaut cut loose in a parachute and the balloon took a great leap upward. When the air in the balloon cooled off, it came to earth, and Jones helped to roll it up for cartage back to Treynor.

MEAT PRODUCTS EXPORTATION.

General Exportations Make Decidedly Favorable Showing for Year.

Washington, July 7.—Special: Lower prices of meat and dairy products are accompanied by increased exportations. The latest figures of the bureau of statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor show large increases in exports of meats in the month of May, 1911, when compared with the same month a year ago.

The total exports of meats for the 11 months of the fiscal year is still in some cases below those of a year ago, but for the single month of May, in which the export prices are materially below those of a year ago, the increase is strongly marked.

In the case of lard, for example, of which the export price in May, 1911, was, according to figures of the bureau of statistics, 9.2 cents per pound, against 12.7 cents in May last year, the quantity exported in May, 1911, is more than double that of the corresponding month last year, the total being 54,000,000 pounds in May, 1911, against 26,500,000 in the corresponding month of 1910.

Bacon, of which the average export price in May, 1911, was 12.8 cents per pound, against 15.2 cents per pound in May of last year, shows also a large increase in the quantity exported, the total for May being 17,000,000 pounds, against 5,500,000 in the corresponding month last year, though for the 11 months ending with May, 1911, the total is less than in the same months of the prior year, being 137,334,000 pounds, against 144,000,000 in the corresponding months of 1910.

Hams and shoulders, of which the average export price in May, 1911, is 11.8 cents per pound, against 14.6 cents per pound in May, 1910, show a total exportation in May of the current year of 17,000,000 pounds against 7,500,000 in the corresponding month of 1910, the total for the 11 months ending with May being slightly below that of the same months in 1910.

Fresh beef, which shows but a slight reduction in the export price, (10 cents a pound in May, 1911, against 10.8 cents per pound in May, 1910,) shows but a slight increase in quantity exported, being for May, 1911, 4,500,000 pounds against a little over 4,000,000 pounds in May, 1910.

Beef, salted or pickled, of which the export price in May, 1911, is 7.3 cents per pound, against 8.7 cents per pound in May, 1910, shows total exports for May of the current year amounting to 3,500,000 pounds, against 1,500,000 in May of the preceding year.

Butter also shows a marked decline in export price and an equally marked advance in the quantity exported, the export price in May, 1911, being 20.7 cents per pound, against 25.5 cents in May, 1910, the quantity exported in May, 1911, being 487,000 pounds, against 331,000 pounds in May, 1910.

Cheese, of which the export price in May, 1911, was 11.5 cents per pound, against 15.5 in May, 1910, shows exports of nearly 3,000,000 pounds, against about 250,000 in May, 1910.

Cattle, which are exported chiefly for meat purposes, show 20,000 head exported in May, 1911, against a little less than 2,000 in May of last year.

Indications are that the total value of meat and dairy products for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1911, will be about $150,000,000, against $130,500,000 in 1910, and $166,500,000 in 1909. This high figure of $150,000,000 worth of meat products exported in the fiscal year 1911 will not, however, equal that of earlier years, especially in 1906 and 1907, when the total exports of meat products passed the $200,000,000 line.

What are the countries to which these exports are sent? The bureau of statistics' figures show for the 11 months ending with May, 150,000,000 pounds of lard sent to the United Kingdom, 138,000,000 to Germany and 31,000,000 to Cuba.

Butter, which is going out of the country just now in much larger quantities than usual, goes chiefly to the Central and South American countries and the West Indies. Of the 4,500,000 pounds of butter exported in the 11 months ending with May, 1,333,000 went to the West Indies and Bermuda, against a little over 1,000,000 in the corresponding months of the prior year. Cheese exports are widely distributed, England being the largest market, with the West Indian Islands, Mexico and Panama next, the smaller quantities going to China, Japan and the Philippine Islands. Condensed milk exports average about 1,000,000 pounds a month, and the value for the full year will amount to about $1,000,000, going, of course, chiefly to the tropics, the largest single customer being Cuba, and next in order the Philippine Islands, Panama, Mexico, Asiatic Russia, China and Canada, this statement, as to countries of distribution, being based upon the export figures of the fiscal year 1910.
