TO ATTEMPT FELDER'S ARREST.

The Sheriffs Will Watch the South Carolina Trains.

A dispatch from Columbia says: An exciting man hunt after one of Georgia's delegates-at-large to the National Democrati Convention following the departure of that delegation from Georgia to Baltimore is promised by Governor Cole L. Blease in a statement to-day.

Thomas B. Felder, the Atlanta lawyer and one of the leaders of the delegation, is the quarry which Governor Blease desires to bag and in pursuit of whom he will set the sheriffs and arresting officers of the Palmetto State.

Sheriffs on Alert.

The train which bears the delegation to Baltimore will be met at every stop it makes in South Carolina by sheriffs and deputies under instructions from Governor Blease to take Mr. Felder in custody and bring him to Richland, Lexington and Newberry counties, where there are warrants pending charging him with conspiracy and attempt to bribe the members of the old dispensary board of control.

The offer of a reward of $200 for Mr. Felder's arrest made some time ago by Governor Blease is still in effect.

"That seems to be a pretty sort of delegation Georgia is sending to Baltimore," said Governor Blease.

DEATH CALLS JAS, P. HOBSON.

From Infirmities of Age, Passes Away at Eighty-nine Years.

Pendleton, June 7. - Special: lames L. Hobson, aged 89 years, died at the home of his son. Thos. P. Hobson, near Sandy Springs at 12 o'clock on the night of Wednesday, June 5th. If he had lived until the 16th of August he would have rounded out the full days of his 89th year. For the past nine weeks he had been confined to his bed, suffering from the infirmities of age, coupled with an affection of the

Mr. Hobson was born near Old Pendleton, but most of his life after he married was spent in Oconee, he baving resided near Westminster. He was an honest, upright and honorable citizen, and his death will be keenly felt in the community which had known him so long and knew the real worth of the man.

The deceased is survived by four sons and one daughter, as follows: Thomas P. Hobson, of Sandy Springs; L. H. V. Hobson, of Westminster; W. J. Hobson, of Hale Center, Texas; Jesse S. Hobson and Mrs. J. P. Carroll, of Oakway. Two children preceded him to the grave, these being Charles H. Hobson, who died September 22, 1890, and Mrs. J. A. Chandler, who died July. 20th last at Woodbury, Ga.

On the 18th day of December, 1855, he was married to Miss Eliza Jane McClure, who departed life June 21st, 1902.

The interment took place at the Old Westminster cemetery at o'clock Thursday afternoon.

There are many friends of this good old man in Anderson, Oconee and Pickens counties who will learn of his death with deep sorrow.

Ten Things to Do this Month.

(Progressive Farmer.)

1. Keep up rapid, shallow, level cultivation of the crops. If a dry spell comes, all the moisture in the soil will be needed.

2. Cut the wheat and oats as soon as they have colored up well. Don't let them get "dead ripe." Make a special effort to get them under shelter or in the stack without injury from rain.

3. Cut grass and red clover when to get too ripe.

4. Keep on planting feed cropscorn for silage, cowpeas, peanuts, soy beans, sweet potatoes, etc.

5. Look after the farm machinery. Build a tool shed, if you have none, and keep every implement not in use under it. Sunshine and rain damage many implements more than the wear they get.

6. Look to the pastures... down weeds, briers, etc.; dig up bushes: see that the live stock has Communication Regarding Poultry Diseases and Remedies Should Be Addressed to the Editors.

Why the South Should be a Poultry Center.

(J. H. Sledd in Poultry Success.) Success is the prime object in any enterprise, and success is usually measured by dollars and cents. The profits of the business make the success, and the profits are the difference between the cost of production and the selling price. To properly and correctly estimate the cost of production a certain amount must be charged to cost of equipment and a reasonable sum be charged to the wear and tear or to the deterioration of that equipment. Accepting this as true, let us see what the South has to say as to the cost of equipment in the poultry business as compared with other sections of our country.

The Land.

Under the old regime the farms, or plantations as we preferred to call them, were immense in their area, as upon each there lived often hundreds of people and the soil was worked so as to support the teeming mass. In the half century, nearly, that has lapsed since the Civil War the population has not grown in our rural districts so as to keep man, thousands of these acres cultivated. The result is that they have been abandoned to the broom sedge and the pine, and are now lying idle simply waiting for the hand of man to turn them to production once again. These acres are abondoned not because they will not produce. nor because they are too distant from markets, but because of the lack of a dense population and of some one to use them. Many of these acres are as fertile and would be, properly cultivated, as productive as the far-famed Valley of the Nile Land can be had in easy access to desirable markets at almost any price ranging from a few dollars per acre up. More, there are thousands of acres of government land yet open for homesteaders in many of our Southern States. Land that can be lad for the filing fee of $15 for 160 acres and a residence upon it for five years, or a residence of only fourteen months and then a payment of $1.25 per acre into Uncle Sam's treasury and you have a warranty deed from the government.

The trend of the movement of the people for the past several years has been to the West and Northwest. There you find a frozen zone, a scar-freight rates with long hauls and a lack of many transportation facilities. That country has grown and prospered under the hands of man have grown rich. The same energy, business ability and spirit of progress brought here to this sunny Southland would have brought success and a fortune with far less equipment is easily settled in favor this fair land, and then of the South, as the land on which to build can be bought, and on easy terms, more reasonably by at least one-half than in any other section not so favored.

Buildings. First let me say that the construction of a poultry building for the South is a much simpler proposition than to build in a less favored clime We need no double walled or closed there are many who are making a success of the business without any house. They simply enclose a park and place nests and roosting places in suitable places. I know one man in Virginia who did this and he got eggs all winter and never had a frozen comb in his flock, and he was a breeder of Black Minorcas. The usual style of house, however, is the open shed. It is built facing the South, both ends and the back are securely boarded up and wire netting is used for the front. Rough lumber, suitable for such buildings, $8 to $12 per thousand. Many of the farms are so situated that they can haul their own logs to the mil and have their lumber cut. Sometimes the mills cut one-half for the other half, or they make a cash charge of $6 or $8 for sawing, and they saw to dimensions. The housing is then settled in favor of this goodly land.

The Climate.

Italian skies are no fairer, and the breezes from "Ceylon's spicy isle" no more entrancing. No vigorous winds to chill, but a climate most equable. But few days in winter when one cannot work out of doors without a coat, and but few in summer when the temperature goes beyond 90 degrees, and this is always Certainly not, but feed stuffs can be in the South's favor, as it grows out of doors all winter and the chicks at one and the same time.

The South-how we love prising poultryman will find peace case shipped the hotel. and plenty. She is just awakening to her great possibilities as a poultry producing country and she bids you "come over and help us" as we develop an industry in a land that is singularly blessed for the production of fowls. You will find that in this brief resume the half of the advantages that are here have not been told, and that those engaged in the business are as earnest and your product and the prices, of enthusiastic a body of men and women as is to be found anywhere. Again I say come and cajoy life ing population makes the demand where the roses bloom and the an average of 55 cents each when for poultry and poultry products an sweet magnolia blooms-a "land of 40 cents was a good local price.

"Warranted Strictly Fresh." (Poultry Success.)

On February 3, W. N. Byington, of Norwalk, Conn., bought a dozen average wholesale price of eggs per of the warranted article for fifty cents. The first egg he took from the box bore this inscription: "The purchaser of this egg is requested to write to J. L. Thomason, Readyville, Tenn." He did so, and received this answer: "I sold the eggs wills to do so there is never any December 10, 1911; got seventeen cents a dozen." I use the foregoing to show how the producer loses by his product having to pass through so many hands, and how the great well fattened poultry. Then there mass of the dwellers in our cities and towns are imposed upon as to the grade of eggs sold them. In both poultry and eggs, and these this instance the producer got sevening to the report, got forty-seven cents and the retailer fifty cents, and

Marketing Eggs and Poultry.

The foregoing article reminded us that we have for some time intended to say something on the subject of marketing eggs, as the present method has always struck us as being most unfair to the producer.

The present local market price is 15 cents and has been for some three months. We have always thought that if the producer could get in touch with the consumer and eliminate the middleman's profit (in some cases two or three of them) a better price could be realized, and tempered by breezes either from her with this object in view we took the seagirt shores or else from her matter up with several large hotels wooded mountains. But you say in some of our neighboring cities your fowls cannot live on climate. with the result that one of them offered to pay us 25 cents per dozen had as cheap, or cheaper, than in for all the strictly fresh eggs we many other sections. All the ce- could ship them. We have been reals can be grown profitably and shipping them all our surplus eggs the matter of green food is entirely | now for two months and they have netted us from 22 1/2 to 23 1/4 cents per dozen, which is a good premium can do their grazing and exercising over the local market. Just to show the difference, a commission man in "its; the same city got hold of our name rocks and rills, its brooks and shad-somehow and wrote us offering 14 ed hills"-has a welcome for all, cents per dozen for eggs on the same and in this goodly land the enter- | date we had secured 23 cents for a

Of course, in order to secure these prices, the producer must have enough to offer to make it worth while, by either keeping a large enough flock himself or co-operating with neighbors, as they require a high standard of freshness-eggs not over three to four days old.

Any one wishing to know more about this write us and we will be glad to give further details.

The same applies to marketing hens and fries. We shipped a coop of hens last week which netted us

A Woman Is Wonderfully Constructed

The delicate structure of a woman's body is a source of wonder to medical men. So complicated are its parts that only the most learned are capable of understanding it. Women do not know th means when any of these delicate parts get weak or disordered. They alone know the suffering, the misery, the prostrating effect when the generative system becomes irregular. The disturbance not only robs them of strength and the enjoyment of health, but they have work to do and it must be done in spite of a body that is weak and suffering and a mind that is harassed by the dread of an invalid's fate. Happily, most of these ailments of women are curable and one of the most dependable meatines for the relief of such troubles is Dr. Simmons Squaw Vine Wine. It is prepared expressly for the diseases of women. It is a successful medicine. One that builds up the Nervous System and strengthens and regulates the generative organs. It stops the painful symptoms promptly, tones up the nerves, makes the body strong, the digestion good, and restores a feeling of wellness, of power to perform the household work without fatigue. Ailing women should try this remedy. It will give them back the health, strength and vigor of girlhood days.

The congregation is so split on a number of questions, including that of waether or not the pastor, Dr. McArtaur, should wear a robe or not when he preaches, that they have practically given up hope of coming to a peaceful conclusion by mere human methods. Consequently they decided to appeal directly to the Lord, and in order that there may be no uncertainty about His getting a full insight into their plight, they propose to pray long and all together.

TWENTY YEARS-

Makes a great difference in most women. They are troubled with "nerves"—they suffer from backache, headache, sleeplessness, a sensation of irritability or twitching, hot flashes, dizzy spells, or many other symptoms of female weakness. The local disorder and inflammation should be treated with Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets and the irregularity and weakness of the female system corrected and strengthened with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The strain upon the young woman or the woman of middle age—upon the nerve and blood forming structures—may be too great for her strength. This is the time to take this restorative tonic and strength-giving nervine and regulator. For over forty years sold by druggists for woman's peculiar weaknesses and distressing ailments. The one remedy so perfect in composition and so good in curative effects as to warrant its makers in printing its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. The one remedy which absolutely contains neither alcohol nor injurious or habit-forming drugs.

of similar ones and cited merely to illustrate these remarks:

"In the winter of 1908, I became greatly run down and Irregular," writes Mrs. HENRY SCOTT, of Swan Creek, Mich., Route I, Box 49. "I slowly but surely grew worse, and, at last, resolved to apply to the doctors for help. The doctor said I had inflammation, enlargement and laceration. I was in bed eleven weeks and got no better. The doctor said I would have to have an operation, but to that I would not listen. My husband purchased two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I started to take this remedy I could not walk across the floor, but after I had taken three bottles I could feel myself gaining, so I dropped the doctor and took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Only for it I think I would have been dead—I really believe it saved my life. I feel better now than in twenty years."
