(Columbia Record.)

If there is one thing that humanity longs for, next to a cure for the fever of war in nations, it is a cure for cancer in suffering man. There seems to be no cure, except by the knife, and then only when taken in time to get all of the roots of the tumor taken from the body.

For four years we have watched with interest experiments made with radium. This wonderful discovery of Madam Curee did have the power to destroy the main pulp of the cancer where the rays reached into the poison, but the projecting roots carried their germs as before. The radium treatment was a fearful infliction upon a sufferer.

Just within a few days has come an announcement that a serum for the cure of cancer had been discovered at the General Memorial Hospital in New York. We believe the announcement is premature and that resulting hopes of some may not be justified. A dispatch states:

"It is claimed that the cancerous growths break down, disintegrate and disappear. A typical case is described as that of a patient suffering from an extensive cancer of the tongue. The tumor mass, it is said, has disintegrated and the patient seems to be cured. It is stated that all or nearly all of the cases in which the new serum has been used were of the kind called inoperable and that the knife, the X-ray, radium it might be deserved; but if it were limestone to furnish the lime for and other serums had failed to effect more than temporary relief or improvement. It is said that some of the patients treated with the new serum have exhibited no signs of malignacy for many months. It is stated that the physicians at the General Memorial Hospital believe that the results already attained with the new serum are such as to warrant the confident belief that it will be of the utmost permanent value."

What a godsend to humanity this would be, but we fear that it is not to be credited. The rejoicings have been premature, for Dean Polk. of the Cornell University Medical College, has declared that the published statements were unauthorized. This is not yet a denial, but we fear it is the precursor of one

No Rents from Saloons.

Jackson, Tenn., March 25 .- The Court of Civil Appeals, in a case decided to-day, held that a landlord cannot collect rent for a house rented for saloon purposes. The complainant, a Memphis bank, sued the tenants for rent under a lease contract. The tenants asked that the unexpired lease be declared void and that the complainant be enjoined from collecting outstanding notes. The court held for the defendants on the ground that it is unlawful to self intoxicants in Tennessee and a contract renting property for such purposes cannot be enforced.

Having served nearly ten years in the South Carolina penitentiary for arson, according to his own statement, Raymond S. Bowman, of 155 West 49th street, New York city, is now seeking a pardon from Governor Manning.

The following unusual letter was received yesterday from Bowman in New York:

"I am writing you this letter upon the suggestion of Arthur V. Williams, of Charleston, S. C., and humbly beg you to give this your kind consideration.

"A little over ten years ago, when a boy of not 15 years of age, it was my misfortune to be convicted of arson in the city of Charleston, and as a result I have served nearly ten years in the penitentiary of your State. Just what caused the deplorable state of mind I was in at the time, I am unable to say, but will state truthfully that I have never committed a wilful criminal act in my life and now having suffered, and served my sentence it is Following is the honor roll of my desire to live my life as God Almighty intended and it is to this end I humbly beseech your assistance. As I said before, I want to live the life of a man, but can hardly do so without the privilege of citizenship, and it is this favor that I ask of you. BOY IS KILLED BY A COW.

Dragged About 300 Yards by Frightened Animal-Neck Broken.

(Anderson Mail, 25th.)

Thomas Loftis was killed yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock in a most unusual manner. His death resulted from his neck being broken, and he was dragged some 300 yards by a cow, thus inflicting other injuries besides the one which proved fatal.

The lad was only nine years of age and had been sent to the pasture adjoining the home of his father, in the Varennes section, to bring the cow to the house. The boy was driving the cow and had hold of the end of a rope with which the cow was fastened. Playing, he wrapped the rope around his body and fastened it with a catch. The cow became frightened and started to run. The first sudden lunge of the beast threw the boy to the ground, and his fall served to frighten the cow more than ever. He was dragged some 300 yards before the cow stop-

Charles Loftis, father of the lad, was the first to reach him, and he found that the boy was dead when he arrived. His neck was broken in the fall or in being dragged and his death was instantaneous.

The accident is a most peculair one and is deplorable. The lad was a bright young fellow and was just at the age when life seems brightest.

The starving little creature was cleaned, clothed and fed, and then taken to the staff quarters. the Greek church of the village of Bardus the foundling was christened according to the rites of the Orthodox church, the commander of the regiment acting as godfather and Princes Gelovanna, a Red Cross nurse and wife of a member of the Duma, as god mother.
