

"QUALITY OUTLASTS BARGAINS."

Money talks, and the price of a Vehicle proclaims to any observing person the status of that Vehicle from the standpoint of quality. A dollar buys just one dollar's value, and the farmer who pays a few dollars less for a Buggy that slightly resembles one of our High Point Buggies does not save the difference. Instead he sacrifices just that much in quality, service and durability. The sad part of the sacrifice is that it is seen and felt every day the Vehicle is used as long as he owns it.

The difference in price is usually slight; the difference in value is always great. The farmer who buys a cheap Buggy does not particularly need the few dollars saving. But he believes that the Buggy that is priced high is bringing an exorbitant profit.

Be Wise—Invest for the future. If you bought one of those ten farms we advertised last week you would want the one most highly improved for lasting results. Also, the man who invests in a Buggy is not buying for a single season. Ordinarily he would expect to use it for several years. The price he pays is the initial investment. If he invests in a well-known, time-tried and fair-priced article he will reap the quality dividends that have been built into that article. The recollection of quality remains long after the price is forgotten.

Four years ago (Aug. 18) we sold Mr. W. M. Broom, West Union, S. C., one of Oconee's most progressive farmers, a High Point Buggy for $95. The other day he came in and we offered him $60 for this buggy. He refused saying, "I think I can sell it for more to another man." It amused and pleased us very much. This is not an isolated case. Scores of men all over our county prefer High Point Buggies, because they last longer, ride easier and look better.

Only yesterday another one of our customers told the writer that, after using his High Point Buggy for six years, he would not take less than for $25 for it.

Now, these men are not Buggy Salesmen. They are farmers buying their goods where they can get the most quality out of their money, and not the most goods for least money. Yes, there is a wonderful difference.

Let us have a personal talk with you before you buy.

—Louis H. Riehl left last week for Greenville, where he recently enlisted with the coast artillery. He will be in training at Greenville for two weeks, then will go to Charleston and will be stationed at Fort Moultrie. Louis is just one more of our Walhalla boys to join Uncle Sam in the cause of world-wide democracy and is the youngest son of the late William Riehl. We will watch his future movements with interest. He comes from a family of that good and liberty-loving German stock that had such a great part in the early settling of this section of Oconee.

—We are requested to make the following announcement: "The committee soliciting members for the Red Cross Chapter earnestly desire and request that those whose signatures appear on membership lists pay the membership fee of $1 as soon as possible. These dues may be paid to Will J. Schroder, treasurer, at the Bank of Walhalla." It is hoped that all, notwithstanding the fact that they may have already contributed to the Red Cross fund in the recent campaign, will pay in addition the $1 membership fee. It was agreed at the organization of the chapter in Walhalla last week that this request would be made of all those who have placed their names on the membership rolls.

—Large crowds are attending the camp meeting being held at the Abbott grove on the road between Walhalla and Westminster. There are a number of campers who spend the whole time enjoying the services and the social side of the meeting as well, while others come in at service time only. The preaching is of a high order, spiritual and non-sensational, and not a little permanent good is being accomplished. It is felt. Ministers from several points are engaged in the work, and great interest is being manifested in the services. The meeting will continue through next Sunday, though we are not authorized to make this as a definite announcement concerning the closing.

—Harry R. Hughs, Esq., of the Walhalla bar, went to Columbia last Friday in answer to a summons to appear before the Federal examiners. Mr. Hughs some time ago filed his application for a place in the Second Officers' Training Corps. Mr. Hughs is a young man of marked ability and is the second from his immediate family to volunteer service, his younger brother, Edwin Hughs, having recently stood the examination for service in the navy. He is now at home, having been accepted, but is awaiting call by the government. It is expected that those chosen for the Second Officers' Training Corps will receive notice of acceptance or rejection within the next ten days. Mr. Hughs passed the examinations, but there are more applicants than there are men needed, and it is of course not known which ones of those standing the examinations will be chosen to go to the training camp.

—In the thunder storm of last Wednesday afternoon the wife of Anderson Teague, who was taking from a line a washing, was severely shocked by lightning. Mrs. Teague was in the act of taking down some articles of clothing from a wire clothes line when the electricity in the air concentrated on the line, knocking her unconscious and giving her quite a painful burn on the arm. The lightning ran the full length of her arm, burning her and scorching her clothing. The line was attached to a corner of the house occupied by the Teagues, the bolt striking with such force as to severely shock several children on the inside. Fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

—Claude D. Wilson died at his home in West Union last Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, after a long illness. About five years ago Mr. Wilson, with his family, moved to West Union, where he was employed as agent for the Blue Ridge railway, a position which, owing to his poor health, was filled most capably for a greater part of the time by Mrs. Wilson, who undertook the duties of the position and filled them acceptably both to the public and to the railway company. Mr. Wilson was a native of Greenville county, and on Thursday afternoon the remains were taken to the old home of the deceased at Simpsonville, where funeral services and interment took place. The funeral services were held in the Simpsonville Baptist church, of which he had been a member for a number of years. The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. M. Fallaw, well known to many in Oconee. Mr. Wilson was 38 years of age and had been in the railway service at different places for about 16 years. For the past two years he had been an invalid, suffering from tuberculosis. He was born in May, 1879. He is survived by his wife (who was a Miss Craig) and three children, besides his parents, who reside at Simpsonville, Greenville county. There are many friends of the family who will learn of his death with deep regret, and with whom The Courier joins in extending sympathy to the bereaved ones. Mrs. Wilson is now holding the position of agent for the Blue Ridge at West Union, and we understand will continue to act in that capacity permanently, making her home there with her children and her mother, Mrs. Mamie Craig.

—A homicide occurred in Oconee last Saturday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock at the Bennett construction camp, near the Horseshoe Bridge over Chauga creek, about 4 miles from Madison. Both parties to the tragedy were colored, and each about 18 years of age. They were Will White and Charles Keels, and were employed by the Bennett Construction Company on Southern Railway construction work. Both were Oconee negroes, White being a son of a colored preacher. From facts brought out at the Coroner's inquest it was learned that the two young negroes had had a quarrel earlier in the day, but this had been settled, it was thought, satisfactorily. In this fight Keels had struck White with a shovel, the blows striking White on the arm and shoulder. Some time later "de war broke out again," and White threw a rock at Keels, striking him on the head and knocking him down a 50-foot embankment. This blow cracked Keels's skull, a blood clot formed on the brain, and a few hours after the blow was given he died. The Coroner's jury Sunday returned a verdict to the effect that Keels came to his death from a wound in the head inflicted at the hands of Will White. White's father Saturday night took the youth to Westminster and turned him over to the authorities. After the inquest he was brought to Walhalla and is now held in the county jail.
