SCIENTIFIC TEST IS GIVEN.

"Garabed," the New Free Energy Power, Being Tried Out.

Soston, June 29,--"Garabed," the engine that its inventor, Garabed Giragossian, asserts is a free-energy generator, was tested at a private laboratory in this city to-day by a board of five scientists in the presence of Judge E. C. Finney. The result of the test was not announced. but a report was sent by mail to Secretary Lane, of the interior department

Complete secrecy surrounded the entire proceedings, even the names of the scientists being withheld. It was explained that any announcement would have to come from Washington, Mr. Giragossian, however, was said to be completely sat isfied with the demonstration of his machine. The test was completed in three hours.

The invention is described by Mr Giragossian as an engine that draws upon an universal source of energy concentrates it and transforms it into mechanical work. As the conversion of energy into niotive force is direct, the cost of operation is said to be dependent only upon the depreciation of the machinery. There is no fuel problem associated with it and the amount of horse-power it can develop is merely a question of ma-chine design, according to the inven-

The Ruff building and the two others were reduced to embers by the fire which followed the collapse. Esti-mates to-night placed the number of dead at from 20 to 30.

YEAR'S WAR $12,000,000,000.

Washington, June 30 .--- The government has closed its books for the fiscal year just ending---the first full fiscal year in the war.

In government financial history, the year will go down as a period of expense hardly dreamed of a decade ago. More than $12,600,000,000 is the actual outlay since July 1, 1917, to meet the multitude of big bills run up for the army, the navy, the shipbuilding program, airplane construction, coast defense arequire-meats, other government activities, and the needs of the allies for American loans to finance purchases of war materials in this country. In peace times the government spent less than $1,000,000,000 annually.

Trade Balance of $3,000,000,000.

The United States closes its first fiscal year as a participant in the great war with a trade balance of approximately $3,000,000,000.

Exports for the fiscal year will total $6,000,000,000, as compared with 290,048,394 in the twelve months ended June 30, 1917. Imports in-creased from $2,659,355,185 last year to about $3,000,000,000 this year.

Such a showing is regarded as very gratifying by government experts, and no uneasiness is felt because the trade balance declined $630,693,209 is compared with 1917. Steps are being taken, however, to retrieve the loss as far as possible in the coming year, by a fuller utilization of available tonnage in foreign trade, espe-cially small boats not needed for trans-Atlantic service, which can be used to carry surplus manufactures to Latin American countries and reduce the shipments of gold made necessary by the United States becoming a debtor nation of the other pan-American republics. The increasing flow of gold to

South America was one of the most striking features of world trade in the last twelve months. Products of the Latin American countries--grain. meat, rubber, hardwood, nitrates in, platinum-have been bought in large quantities by the allies, which have had less and less goods to ship in return as the war progressed. The result has been that the Latin American countries have been paid in gold, which they hardly have been able to spend.

Imports of South American goods by the United States alone in the last twelve months have totaled nearly $600,000,000, while exports to the same continent have been only about half as much. Europe and North America, including Canada. through which is shipped much of the exports going to Great Britain, continue to look to this country as their great source of supply.

European Neutrals Rationed.

The European neutrals were strict-ly rationed by the United States durg the fiscal year, exports to Denmark, Norway, Sweden, The Nether-lands and Spain being cut in some instancs as much as 90 per cent. Denmark received only about $5,000,-000 worth of goods from this country, as compared with approximately $50,000,000 in 1917.
