

They're in to Win

Fair targets, every one of these men, for the German riflemen and machine gunners hidden behind the parapet.

But they are not thinking of the bullets whizzing past them; of the shells bursting over their heads.

They are intent on one thing—to scale that bank, take the bridge head and win the day.

And these men are made of the same stuff as all true Americans who read these words.

"Linen for France."

The Red Cross Commissioner for France has cabled that the hospitals are in urgent need of supplies. Oconee County Chapter has been asked to contribute the following:

265 bath towels,
533 hand towels,
371 handkerchiefs,
26 napkins,
125 sheets.

Let the women of Oconee county give a "Hospital Supply Shower" this week. Each family can contribute one article or set of articles from their own supply. Such articles should be new, or substantially new, and should be of strong rather than fine texture. If no one calls at your home for these articles be sure to send your share to the your local Red Cross branch.

Remember that your own son or your neighbor's son may have need of these very articles in France. Do your part.

Mrs. S. F. Reeder,
Director of Woman's Work, Oconee Red Cross Chapter.

LEMON JUICE IS FRECKLE REMOVER

Girls! Make this Cheap Beauty Lotion to Clear and Whiten Your Skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.—Adv.

ISHAM H. HARRISON DEAD.

Well Known Citizen Passed Away Sunday After Brief Illness.

No announcement that has come to the citizens of Walhalla in many a day has brought with it more of the element of surprise and shock than did the announcement last Sunday of the death of I. H. Harrison. Few of his friends knew of his illness, and even close relatives had had but a brief announcement that he was not well, and until within a few hours of his death it was not known that his condition was serious. He was ill for only about 36 hours, the ravages of uremic poisoning having so permeated his system that death came quickly once the giving way of his physical strength began.

While at dinner Friday Mr. Harrison was taken suddenly with a chill, but nothing was thought of this fact, as he had been feeling unwell for a day or two, though still engaged in his usual occupation with papers regarding land surveys and other matters. He went to bed, however, and inquiries during the day by relatives elicited the information that he was feeling better. Saturday night his brother, Frank E. Harrison, called on him and decided to spend the night at his bedside, feeling that the stricken man was really in a more serious condition than even the patient imagined. Dr. J. W. Bell was called in, and he found his condition serious. Toward midnight Mr. Harrison became delirious, then lapsed into a state of coma, from which he never rallied, and death came just before noon Sunday.

Isham Harrison Harrison was born in the city of Anderson in 1848, being at the time of his death in his 70th year. He was a son of the late Gen. J. W. and Mrs. Mary B. Harrison, who moved to Walhalla from Anderson many years ago, making Walhalla their home until their deaths. About 20 years ago Mr. Harrison married Miss Meta Darby, who preceded him to the grave several years. There were no children by this union. Mr. Harrison is survived by one brother, Frank E. Harrison, of Walhalla, and three sisters, Mrs. T. T. Broyles, of Tennessee, and Mrs. Ida Darby and Mrs. G. A. Norman, of Walhalla, besides numerous other relatives, among them Miss Anna Darby, a niece by marriage, who had made her home with her aunt during her life-time, continuing after her aunt's death to reside with and manage the home for her aged uncle.

Mr. Harrison was a member of the Walhalla Presbyterian church, and the funeral services, at the home and at the grave, were conducted by his pastor, Rev. W. H. Hamilton. A large concourse of friends of the deceased assembled to pay the last sad tribute, and the remains were lowered to their last resting place in Westview cemetery at 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Few people, if any, were better known in Oconee than was Mr. Harrison. His long period of professional service as civil engineer and surveyor had taken him into every nook and corner of the county, and he knew and was known by practically every citizen, young and old, and he was respected for his many fine traits of character and his long and honorable record as private citizen and professional man.

During the latter part of the Civil War Mr. Harrison was called to the service of the Confederacy, going into service with the Citadel cadets, and remaining in service until the surrender, being under arms only during the last year of hostilities.

Mr. Harrison was a man of retiring disposition, yet always cheerful and a ready conversationalist. His long study of the territory embraced in the Piedmont section of South Carolina gave to him an almost limitless store of information, and he held in his memory facts that were of value and deep interest concerning incidents and events of importance that had taken place in upper South Carolina. He never thrust his vast store of knowledge on any one, yet he never failed to impart his information when it was sought or when it could be of service in clearing up disputed questions. He was one of the engineers and surveyors that engaged in the great engineering feat that had for its object the tunneling of Stumphouse Mountain for the yet uncompleted Blue Ridge Railway. Quiet, unassuming, unpretentious, he never craved a place of prominence in the public eye, yet he was known and appreciated more perhaps than are most men who spend a life-time seeking place and preferment in public service.

Isham Harrison is dead, but his memory will live in the minds of many for years to come. A good man has been called to his reward, and the highest tribute that can be paid to any man comes to him in the fact that all who knew him can truthfully say that in all his long and useful life he wronged no man, spoke ill of no man, coveted nothing that was not his. He died as he had lived—peacefully, quietly, loving his fellow-man and by his fellow-man beloved.

In the death of Mr. Harrison truly it may be said that "a landmark has been removed." And there are many who will join with The Courier in extending to the bereaved ones sincere sympathy in their sorrow, and in paying tribute to the memory of a departed friend.
