THE BOYS' WORKING RESERVE.

Enrollment Week Will be January 20 to 25, Inclusive.

Governor Richard I. Manning has issued a proclamation designating the week beginning January 20 as the days in which a State-wide campaign will be made to enlist in the United States boys' working reserve all youths between 15 years and six months and 21 years of age. Following is the Proclamation.

"I, Richard I. Manning, Governor of South Carolina, do hereby proclaim January 20 to 25, in the year of our Lord 1919, to be a week during which all boys in South Carolina, who on that date have attained the age of 15 years and six months and who have not registered for selective service, shall register in the United States boys' working reserve.

"All boys within the prescribed age limits in South Carolina will, during that week, go to whatever places may be named as places of registration and there, in the manner prescribed by the national director of the United States boys' working reserve, register."

World Needs Food. The food administration has announced that 60 per cent of the burden of the world's relief from famine conditions rests upon the United States. Last year, the United States sent to Europe 11,800,000 tons of foodstuffs. This year, it is planned to send twice that amount to the stricken areas.

To produce this enormous amount of foodstuffs, a vast increase in the number of farm workers is necessary, and it is conceded that a very large percentage of the men returning from the battle fields of Europe and from the training camps will enter the industries. Only a small percentage of these returning soldiers will go to the farms even if they return in time to be of service in the approaching planting season. Once again, a large part of the burden of farm production will rest upon the boys of reserve age, 16 to 21, and if they fail to respond to the call, the United States may fall of its opportunity to assist in feeding the millions in Europe.

America, through the United States Boys' Working Reserve, calls to her boys to enroll and continue through the coming year their patriotic service and assist in saving Europe from hunger and from the worse calamity, anarchy, which trends close upon the heels of war. "The world is short of food" is the frank admission of the food administration, which is in a position to know the actual conditions existing in all countries. Famine threatens Europe. During four years more than 100,000,000 men have been out of food production, and the result is that a vacuum has been created.

GIRLS! HAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY
A Small Bottle Destroys Dandruff and Dou'les Beauty of Your Hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will try a little Danderine.—adv.

ated in the food sources of the world. There is not now enough food in the world to feed properly its people, and this shortage promises to continue over a period of years, although conditions promise to improve steadily after the next harvest. Of all the surplus food now existing in the world, more than 60 per cent of it is in the United States. This should be shared with the millions of Europe, and in order to make up the resulting shortage at home, large crops must be produced. It will be almost impossible for the farmers to attempt this increased production without the assured assistance of the youth of the country, which assistance is to be secured through the United States Boys' Working Reserve, and with the hearty co-operation of the school authorities.

In 1918 the Boys' Working Reserve was organized in every State in the Union and in the territory of Hawaii, while the State of Washington sent a large contingent of its reserve boys into the territory of Alaska, where they rendered excellent service in the fish canneries. From one end of the country to the other, and even in overseas possessions, the reserve boys played their part manfully during the war emergency. They have been given due credit for their work by the President of the United States and by their departmental chief, W. B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, to whom is due the credit for converting the reserve from a war emergency organization to a permanent branch of his department with a greatly widened scope and a vastly increased field of usefulness.

The government of the United States has designated the week beginning January 20 as enrollment week for the United States Boys' Working Reserve.

The chief official of the Boys' Working Reserve in South Carolina is S. H. Edmunds, Sumter. During the coming year it is planned to enroll 500,000 boys in the reserve throughout the United States, and South Carolina is expected to enroll her quota.

How to Enroll.

There is an enrolling officer of the Boys' Working Reserve in every high school in the United States. Before enrolling a boy must gain the consent of his parents, must pass the examination, and must take the pledge of service. He is then given an enrollment button and a certificate.

By enrolling a boy obligates himself to the faithful performance of the service for which he enrolls. To earn the badge, the boy is required to work at least six weeks, six days a week, and eight hours a day. Enrolling in the reserve does not interfere with a boy's education, as a great part of the work is done in the vacation. There is no expense connected with the enrollment unless a uniform is purchased, which purchase is not required. The boy is placed through the local enrolling officer with the consent and approval of his parents. No boy who has a place on the farm is assigned elsewhere unless circumstances require a change. Members of the reserve are paid fair wages for the work they do. Whenever possible, boys are employed in groups and not alone to work.

Members of the reserve working on farms live either with the farmer on whose farm they work or in a nearby supply camp of the Boys' Working Reserve organization. In either case they are under the adequate supervision of Boys' Working Reserve officials.

In speaking of the organization Herbert Hoover, United States Food Administrator, says: "The United States Boys' Working Reserve must be the dominant organization in the effort to mobilize the working boys of the United States."

It is believed that little difficulty will be encountered in enrolling several thousand boys in the reserve in South Carolina during the drive, which will begin January 20.

Novel Outdoor Elevator.

A curious example of elevator construction as seen at the courthouse in Los Angeles, Cal., where, owing to the architectural design of the building and its location on a hill, the elevator is placed outside the walls, is described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. One of the streets on which the building fronts is two stories lower than the courthouse, and the elevator shaft runs down to the level of the street, access from which is gained by means of a tunnel beneath the courthouse lawn.

The shaft is of steel construction, with a circular front and ornamental ironwork at each floor. The design would not be practical in any but a mild climate, and the elevator is said to be the only one of its kind. It serves four stories above the higher street.

VETERAN FOREMAN SAW FLEET CHANGED.

Bennett For Years Had Big Part in Building Battleships.

STILL IS CONSERVATIVE

Tells of Great Good Tanlac Did Him And Says, "I Only Took Two Bottles."

For twelve years William F. Bennett was foreman at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, Uncle Sam's hive of industry for the country's defense, where thousands of skilled workmen toil at the nation's vital work.

It was from the ways of this great yard that some of our greatest dreadnaughts were launched. Mr. Bennett had a part in this work, and there he saw the evolution of the American navy worked out. Today Mr. Bennett, aged 68, is retired, living at 606 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn. He is still the conservative, carefully-speaking man of the navy yard days, and so the story he recently told will have added force.

"For a long time," Mr. Bennett explained, "I kept having a pain in my chest, and a full, heavy, bloated feeling in my stomach and abdomen. It felt as if I had eaten something that disagreed with me, but I couldn't tell what. My food did not digest, but seemed to sour and lie like a lump. I got so I couldn't eat vegetables at all. I lived on eggs and milk, and lots of times I didn't have an appetite even for that diet. Besides, I had night sweats and I could rarely rest more than an hour or two at night, and then only when I was all tired out. I had to be so tired I just dropped off to sleep. I took lots of medicine and was treated many times, but I just kept on feeling bad. But now," Mr. Bennett continued, "I feel better in every way. I can sleep all night long. I have a good appetite and can eat anything with pleasure because my stomach is easy and does not distress me, but digests my food. I feel so good I make it a rule to walk twenty to thirty blocks each day."

"What did this for me? Why, Tanlac. So many people told me about Tanlac that, though I really did not believe all of it, because I didn't think any medicine could be as good as they said it was, I decided to try it. And I only took two bottles," he added.

Tanlac, the reconstructive, system purifier and tonic, is designed to go to the root of such troubles as Mr. Bennett had. It is designed to create real digestion and assimilation of food that is good and nourishing, and to build strength through blood and tissues.

"Tanlac, the master medicine, is sold exclusively by Bell's Drug Store, Walhalla; J. C. Cain, Oakway; Salem Drug Co., Salem; Seneca Pharmacy, Seneca; Stonecypher Drug Co., Westminster; Hughs & Dendy, Richland.—Adv.

FOUND HORRIBLY BURNED.

Body of Miss Augusta Davis Discovered by Brother.

Greenville, Jan. 9.—The body of Miss Augustus A. Davis, horribly burned, and with life extinct, was found Tuesday morning in her home eight miles from Greenville, just across the line in Pickens county. The ghastly discovery was made by her brother, James M. Davis, who lived nearby and went to awaken his sister for breakfast. After knocking at the door and getting no response, Mr. Davis got an axe and broke down the door. A broken lamp was beside the body on the floor, and it is presumed that Miss Davis suffered an attack of apoplexy or heart trouble and fell with the lighted lamp in her hand. She was 59 years of age, and was a member of a prominent Pickens county family.

J. S. H. Price received a letter last week from his son, Dewey, of the American Expeditionary Forces in France. Young Price says he is well and feeling fine. He is at present guarding German prisoners and it is a very easy job to keep them, he says. The Germans declare the Americans are the best people on earth and say as soon as peace is declared they want to come to America. Dewey says in the letter he knows positively of about ten that won't come.

Lieut. Stribling O. K.

Since the signing of the armistice Mrs. M. V. Stribling, of Greenville, has received a letter from her son, Lieut. J. W. Stribling, with the American Expeditionary Forces. When the letter was written he was on a furlough and was in a town called Nusse. Lieut. Stribling says he is well and happy. The people of Seneca rejoice with Mrs. Stribling that J. W. has braved the dangers of war and has every prospect of returning to his own country. J. W. is a clean, manly fellow and is the idol of Seneca people.

NO LIQUOR FOR DRY STATES.

U. S. Supreme Court Declares Webb-Kenyon Law Sound.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The Webb-Kenyon law forbidding shipment of liquor into dry States is constitutional, does not violate the constitution in the regulation of interstate commerce, the Supreme Court of the United States declared this afternoon.

The validity of the statute was attacked on the grounds that it had not been given the legal number of votes required in the Senate to pass a bill over the Presidential veto. The court held the law is valid because the required vote is not two-thirds of the total number of the members of the Senate, but two-thirds of a quorum of the Senate.

The Webb-Kenyon bill was passed under the latter conditions.

The attack was made on the law by the United States to reverse the Kansas Supreme Court in finding the railroad guilty of violating the Kansas State dry law.
