LAST OF THIRTIETH IS BACK.

Transport Zealandia Arrives with the Remainder of "Old Hickory."

Charleston, April 18.—With the arrival of the transport Zealandia at the Charleston port terminal to-day, the final units of the Thirtieth ("Old Hickory") Division, which first pierced the Hindenburg line at its strongest point, were landed on American soil. These men of the Thirtieth Division were principally of the 105th Engineer Regiment. Other units of various divisions, including more than 500 negro soldiers of the "service of supplies," were included in the 2,544 officers and men who were debarked in just 34 minutes. The soldiers were carried direct in four military trains to Camp Jackson, Columbia, for disinfection.

Among the interesting scenes at the pier was the meeting of Capt. Gordon L. Groover, Jr., of Savannah, with his wife and two children, it being the first time that Capt. Groover had set eyes on his ten-months-old son, Gordon L. Groover, 3d. Capt. Groover said to a correspondent for the Associated Press, "I am the happiest man in this outfit, and all of us are happy enough on getting back to the good old U. S. A."

Capt. Groover's greeting of the cooling infant was cheered heartily.

Various officers and men were profuse in their personal expressions of appreciation to women Red Cross workers at the port terminal for their radiation of cheer and comfort among them. The soldiers were particularly delighted to-day with the generous portions of fresh fruit and ice cream, distributed through the Red Cross.

Although the Zealandia was the eighth of the transports bringing soldiers here from overseas, thousands of Charlestonians took advantage of the Good Friday holiday to throng along the water front by way of greeting to the soldiers who so crowded the port rail that the steamship took a decided list to the left. The usual screeching of steam whistles and jangling of marine bells were heard. Mayor Hyde and an official party and a naval seaplane escorted the Zealandia into the harbor.

There were ninety-six South Carolinians among the soldiers landed at Charleston by the Zealandia, and in the list of names published we note that two were from Oconee, these being—

A CLASH AT MARION SQUARE.

Bluejackets and Citadel Cadets Came Together in Charleston.

(News and Courier, April 19.)

A near riot occurred last night as a result of an altercation between a Citadel cadet and a bluejacket. Two or three fist fights ensued, but shortly after midnight the trouble had subsided, no arrest being made.

It was said that the affair was the result of heated language between a bluejacket and a Citadel cadet at the Red Circle Hall. A dance was in progress, and the bluejackets resented the presence of the cadets with the result as stated.

The cadets backed up their comrade and the bluejackets did likewise, and the affair was continued in the streets. At King and Calhoun streets it culminated in several fights in which it is said that one cadet was badly bruised. Whether or not any of the enlisted men were injured is not of record.

The police department was called upon to render aid, and a squad of men was sent to the scene at once and others called from adjoining beats to help them. Col. O. J. Bond, superintendent of the Citadel, ordered the cadets to their barracks, and after some time it was reported that all were in. A naval officer assisted in quieting the disturbance by going among the bluejackets and issuing orders to them. It was not necessary to call either a riot squad or provost guards to the scene.

Furman's Speaker Wins.

Greenwood, April 18.—Speaking on the subject, "The Challenge of Human Need," E. B. Kolb, representing Furman University, to-night was awarded the first honor in the South Carolina Inter-collegiate Oratorical contest, held in the auditorium of Lander College. R. W. Wilson, of the Presbyterian College, was given second place, while A. Stokes King, of Wofford, was accorded third honors. The second place winner had for his subject, "Our Greater Task," while Mr. King spoke on "The Eternality of Law."

Found a Still in Home.

Gaffney, April 18.—C. Y. Allison, State constable, and J. H. Allison, chief of police of Blacksburg, while searching for stolen property at the home of John Dickson, in the town of Blacksburg, yesterday, found in the kitchen of Dickson's home a distillery which had been in operation. The still was made from a water tank of the kind used on ordinary cooking stoves, and was an ingenious contrivance. Dickson was arrested and taken before Magistrate Gaston, of Blacksburg, who required him to enter into bond for his appearance at the next term of the Court of General Sessions for Cherokee County.

made for emphasizing during this week the religious training of all children under twelve years of age. South Carolina is joining with all the other State and provincial associations in the observance of Children's Week on the above dates.

That there is great need of arousing the continent to the spiritual needs of the children is evidenced by the fact that at least thirteen millions of the twenty-five millions of children under twelve years of age are receiving no religious education whatever. It is to help change this alarming condition and make it possible for all children to receive their religious rights that the leaders of the International association suggested this continent-wide observance of Children's Week in the spring of 1919. It is conservatively estimated that there are in South Carolina 250,000 children not enrolled in the Sunday schools.

In a number of communities in South Carolina last year Children's Week was observed with great success—new pupils being enrolled, cradle rolls organized, graded lessons introduced, better equipment secured and emphasis laid on trained workers for the children. Because of the success of Children's Week in 1918 in leading whole communities to think of the spiritual needs of their children, it is believed that the results of the observance this year will be more marked, as the week will be more generally observed.

The program as suggested for the week included an educational meeting of pastors, teachers, parents and all others interested in the religious education of the children, to consider the needs of the children, and how these needs are being met in their community. A pageant emphasizing these needs has been prepared and will be given in a number of towns, as well as in some of the rural communities. Canvasses will be made to get the names of children out of the Sunday schools, and follow-up work will be done by the Sunday schools immediately. Institutes, community or school, will be held to study more closely the work in the Sunday school, and how the Sunday school may more efficiently meet the demands. In many places some kind of a social meeting is being planned for the children one afternoon during the week. Any community wishing to join in the movement where no leader has been appointed is asked to get in touch with the county or State association.
