WILL YOU HELP THE HELPLESS? War Orphans of France Dying from Malnutrition and Shock.

The children of France have not yet emerged from the shadow of the war. With peace assured, and a happier future opening before them, it becomes increasingly evident that the child life of France has suffered a shock from which it is difficult to rally, while the birth rate has dropped to eight to each one thousand of population.

The Fatherless Children of France is an American organization co-operating with a similar one in Paris, of which Marshal Joffre is the head, and this organization reports that of the children receiving American aid to the extent of ten cents a day under its plan of securing American godmothers for the little French war waifs, its records show an average of 700 children's deaths per month since the armistice. The help of the American godmothers came too late to save these undernourished, nerve-shocked little ones.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, of Chicago, vice chairman of the Fatherless Children of France, has been appointed chairman of a campaign to secure American aid for the 60,000 little war orphans whose names were on the lists of the organization as "unadopted" before the signing of the armistice. Ten cents will care for a child for an entire day; $3.00 for a month, while for $36.50 a year the donor may select a child from the lists at the organization's headquarters and be placed in correspondence with it. To adopt a child or make a donation, write for information to Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Room 634, 410 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago.

LITTLE STORY FROM NATURE.

The Toad and Its Camouflage—Valuable Garden Asset.

"But I am afraid of them," said Dolly. She made "am" very strong. "Why should you be afraid of them?" asked the Queen of the Dew-drop Fairies.

"They are so ugly, and they look like snakes!" answered Dolly.

"If you look carefully at their spotted skins you will see that the colors are really quite beautiful—soft shades of grey and pale yellow and sage-green—quite fashionable colors, some of them," said the Fairy.

"I don't care, they look like snakes—and I wouldn't touch one for anything in the world."

"You don't have to touch one—you can just look at him and see what a help he is in the garden. He is one of the best helpers of the United States School Garden Army."

"I don't see how anything so horrid-looking can help—unless he scares the enemies to death," said the little girl, rather stubbornly.

"If you will come with me down to the end of the garden where the cabbages grow," said the Fairy, "maybe I can show you something that will make you change your mind."

She spread her beautiful wings and floated along through the air. Dolly's fat little legs had hard work to keep up with her. At the far end of the garden was a patch of cabbages—quite fine looking, most of them were, but one or two did not look so well.

"Now," said the Fairy, "stoop down, and take a good look under the leaves."

Dolly did as she was bid, but she saw nothing at all.

"I don't see anything," she said. "Look in the dirt close under the cabbage," said the Fairy.

Dolly stooped down and peered under the cabbage leaves again. All at once something twinkled at her. She jumped. It was an eye. Then she saw a flat head that did look something like a snake. The mouth seemed to divide the head in two. It went so far around. And right under the mouth Dolly could see a funny trembling in the throat.

"I see it!" she cried; "it's a toad."

"Why couldn't you see it before?" said the Fairy.

"It's almost buried in the ground. And the part of it that is outside looks like an old leaf—or something."

"That's 'camouflage,'" said the Fairy.

"Cammy—who?" asked Dolly. She thought it was a name.

"It's a long French word," explained the Fairy. "It means to disguise things so you can't tell what they are. Did you ever listen to Fatherbob reading the papers—about the soldiers fighting over in France?"

"Oh, yes! My cousin Jack was over there a long time, and he wrote the most in-ter-est-ing letters. Why?"

"Do you remember anything he read you about the 'Tanks'?" said the Fairy.

"Of course I do—and I've seen pictures of 'em too."

"Well, the tanks—and sometimes the big guns too—were hidden by either painting them to look like earth and trees or covering them with real brush and branches. What you see on the toad's back is just that. He is colored like the dirt and the leaves so the enemies won't see him. Then he can catch them."

"But what can he catch—ow!"

The last little squeal was caused by a sudden movement that Dolly had not been expecting. A small fly had been sitting on the cabbage leaf. Without moving at all the toad shot out a long, slender tongue.

And suddenly, there was no small fly sitting on the cabbage leaf.

"Watch him just a minute," advised the Fairy. "Look on the under side of the leaf."

Dolly looked and saw a number of small green creatures sticking to the cabbage leaf. As she looked, the toad's long tongue darted out and quite a space on the leaf was swept clean of insects.

"What are those things?" she asked.

"Those are aphids," said the Fairy. "They suck the life out of cabbage. Mr. Toad, you see, makes quick work of them. His tongue is sticky and once it touches them it is all over. They are a great pest, and the toad—whom you dislike so much—is a wonderful help in keeping them—and other insects—away."

"Well—I'm glad he's useful," said Dolly, "because I really do not think he is pretty."

MOONSHINERS CONVICT OFFICER

On His Way to be Imprisoned He Was Rescued by Friends.

Huntington, W. V., July 23.—Seized by a gang of alleged moonshiners, brought before a Green Brier county justice of the peace, and found guilty on a charge of bootlegging, was the experience of H. R. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., a State prohibition officer, who returned late yesterday from an investigation tour into the hills. Ratliff was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail by the justice, but was rescued by Harry Fitzgerald, a brother officer, from an alleged moonshiner who was escorting the convicted official to the bastille.

Ratliff and Fitzgerald went into the hills of Green Brier to investigate a report that many illicit stills were in operation there. The officers located two stills, and Ratliff went to the village of Auto, W. Va., to telephone the department at Charleston for additional men to make the raid. While in Auto Ratliff was arrested by the gang, and at the point of revolvers was brought before the justice, charged with bootlegging, and was convicted.

Following the rescue of Ratliff by Fitzgerald the officers destroyed two stills and more than 6,000 gallons of mash, and swore out nineteen warrants for Green Brier county residents, who are charged with manufacturing moonshine liquor.

C., July 23.—For the purpose of driving illicit distillers and other undesirables out of the township, or at least to make it so hot for them that they would be glad to get out, the Bullock's Creek Township Law and Order League organized at a meeting of representative citizens of the township held at Blairsville school house on last Saturday afternoon. Don't Prod Your Liver to Action

NR Overcomes Bilioousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Quickly. No Griping or Pain. Guaranteed.

The organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the stomach, liver and bowels—are closely allied, and the proper action of any of these organs is largely dependent upon the correct functioning of all the others. "Whipping" your liver into action with calomel or forcing your bowels with irritating laxatives or strong cathartics is a great mistake. A better, safer plan is strengthening and eliminating the whole digestive and eliminative system with Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), which not only brings immediate relief, but genuine and lasting benefit. It acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys, improves digestion and assimilation, overcomes biliousness, corrects constipation and quickly relieves sick headache.

Get your system thoroughly cleansed and purified for once; stomach, liver and bowels working together in vigorous harmony, and you will not have to take medicine every day—just take one NR Tablet occasionally to keep your system in good condition and always feel your best. Remember it is easier and cheaper to keep well than it is to get well.

Get a 25c box and try it with the understanding that it must give you greater relief and benefit than any bowel or liver medicine you ever used or no pay. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.
