Students' Pranks End Seriously

Madison, Wis., May 29.—Students of the University of Wisconsin, who were roused to a high pitch of anger, to-day demanded an investigation of the death of Carl Jandorf, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a sophomore, who was shot and killed Friday by Policeman Matt Lynaugh, while a crowd of students, Jandorf among them, were badgering him as he was arresting Julian Luney, one of a number of freshmen who had made off with a barber pole.

Following the slaying the policeman was locked in jail. After 500 students had marched there with the intention of getting him and taking the law in their own hands, extra guards were thrown about the building and the students warned that any attempt to rush the jail would be met by force. The students then dispersed.

Beans of various kinds were known in the days of the Egyptians, and later in the time of the Jews received a fair amount of cultivation, seeming to differ but little from those in use at the present time.

DEBS NOTIFIED OF NOMINATION

Federal Prisoner No. 2653 Accepts the Nomination—Poses for Movies

(Atlanta Georgian, May 30.)

Clad in the prison uniform of blue denim, which has superseded the traditional stripes, Eugene V. Debs, for many years the standard bearer of the Socialist party, now Federal Prisoner No. 2653, Saturday received formal notification that he had again been nominated for the Presidency of the United States, and in a carefully prepared and slowly delivered address he accepted the honor paid him by his comrades.

It was a scene unique in the history of American politics—the tendering of a nomination for the presidency of a nation to a man then serving in prison for violating the laws of that nation—a man whose prison term would outlast two terms as President if he were elected, who can make no campaign addresses, who will not be permitted even to issue campaign literature or statements or to write political letters.

Posed for the Movies.

The official notification took place in the office of Warden Zerbst, at the front of the big prison, after Convict Debs and the party of comrades who had called upon him had gone into the May sunshine outside the main entrance and posed for innumerable photographs and many feet of movie film. Debs' blue eyes blinked in the bright sunshine, made glaring by the white marble steps and the tall walls. His bald head glistened as he bent forward to greet the comrades as they passed in review and shook hands with the idol of their party. After this ceremony he turned and went back into the prison—with nine more years to stay there unless a pardon comes to him or a general amnesty is granted to all prisoners convicted of sedition, espionage and similar offenses classed as "political."

Where Debs Stands To-day.

Speaking to those present who had come to tender him the nomination of the Socialist party for President, Debs said:

"Before accepting this nomination it is proper that I should explain the reason that prompted me to consent to the use of my name. When I was last nominated, in 1912, I concluded that I had already been honored far beyond my deserts and could never again, in justice to the party and to myself, allow my name to be used in connection with the nomination for any office.

"But I have often had to change my mind as to what I should or should not do. I declined the first nomination I was ever offered by the Socialist party, in 1900, because I decided to avoid every appearance of self-seeking, but I found it necessary to change my mind because my duty to the party was paramount.

"So, when it came to pass that my comrades began to write to urge me to become again the standard bearer of the Socialist party, in the belief that this might bring together the various elements which have arisen in the party, I felt that if my acceptance of the nomination would have a tendency to reunite these elements it was my duty to grant the request of my comrades. I considered the matter carefully, and I yield to their judgment.

"I feel that, in justice to this expression of confidence, I must be perfectly frank with these delegates, and through them with the comrades at large. I have seen the platform you have adopted, and I regret that I cannot give it my unqualified approval. I admit that it is a masterly piece of writing, and that it sets forth the essential principles of the Socialist party. But it could have been made to have a more effective appeal to the working class of the country. More stress should have been given to the necessity for industrial organization.

"However, a platform is not so very important, after all. We can breathe the breath of revolution into any kind of platform, and the most perfectly written platform is useless without that. A party platform is like a musical instrument—you can play any tune you wish to get out of it.

"I have always been a radical, and never more than now. I was never afraid of being too radical, but I have been afraid of becoming conservative. If we are right, we cannot be too radical.

"I warn the Socialist party against any policy or attitude that would indicate we are afraid to state our position clearly and definitely, without fear of the consequences. The Socialist platform is not intended to catch votes, but to show frankly and exactly where we stand."

Debs closed his address by thanking personally the members of the delegation and expressing through them his thanks to his comrades throughout the country.

St. John's, N. P., May 31.—Only the Roman Catholic church and the home of its pastor are standing today in the village of St. Quentin, which was swept by forest fires of the past few days. The more than a thousand inhabitants are camping out of doors or housed in nearby lumber settlements. The property loss is estimated at half a million dollars.

THE AMERICAN LEGION.

At the last meeting of the American Legion it was determined that the banquet should be given on the night of Thursday, June 10th, at the Palmetto Hotel, in Seneca. The hotel management will furnish this banquet at $2.00 a plate. All members of the Legion and all ex-service men and women who are eligible to membership in the Legion are invited and urged to be present. Every man may purchase a ticket for himself and as many lady friends as he may choose to bring. At the banquet Capt. S. D. Willis and Major W. D. Workman of Greenville, will be present and give addresses. Immediately after the banquet a dance will be given for the benefit of those who care to attend. A small admission to the dance hall will be charged gentlemen to defray the expense of music. Tickets may be bought in Seneca at the Palmetto Hotel and at Lunney's drug store; in Richland from Edgar R. Shanklin; in Westminster from O. W. Pitts, and in Walhalla from Joe Moody. We are going to have one of the biggest times of our lives. Don't fail to come and bring your wife if you have one, and sweetheart whether you have one or not.

Not in Politics.

It has been persistently rumored that the Oconee Post of the American Legion would this summer put in the field a ticket in the coming campaign. We wish, once and for all, hence evermore and without end, to make it plain that this is a wilful, malicious and unmitigated false representation of the facts. The American Legion will put out no man for office, will run no man for any office, and any statement by anybody to the contrary is false. We are not in politics in the sense that we will run anybody. We are in politics in the sense that we will acquaint ourselves at all times with the issues of the day, take our stand upon them, and as individuals support the best men to carry into effect our ideas. In this way we feel that we can best serve our country.

Be it understood that no member of the Legion is barred from entering politics as an individual. Far from being unfit for office, we feel that the members of the Legion, or ex-service men, would make good officers, because "He who serves his country best in time of war will in all likelihood serve it best in time of peace." However, if any member of the Legion offers for office, he will do so as an individual, and not as the candidate of the Legion.

Harry R. Hughes, Commander.

Call Meeting of American Legion.

The State Executive Committee has passed a resolution calling the State Convention at Spartanburg on June 15, to take under advisement the withdrawal of the South Carolina branch of the Legion from the national organization.

A meeting is called for Friday night of this week, June 4th, at 8 o'clock, at the club room at Walhalla to take under advisement and determine the stand that our Post shall take upon the "secession movement" set on foot by our State Executive Committee. At this time delegates will be elected to the State Convention to be held in Spartanburg on June 15. Every member please come. Harry R. Hughes, Commander.

Member Picnic Party Drowned.

Columbia, May 29.—Adger Allsbrook, a young man employed in the Atlantic Coast Line freight offices in this city, was drowned Friday afternoon in Mathias pond, just across the Congaree river from Columbia, in Lexington county. Mr. Allsbrook was on a picnic with a party of young men and women from Columbia, and was in bathing when he was seized with a cramp. He was 20 years old. His parents live at Manning, where his remains were shipped to-day.

YOUNG LADY AT POINT OF DEATH

Near Clemson from Hydrophobia. Seneca Has Health Conference

Seneca, June 1.—Special: The mass meeting to promote public health welfare, held at the school auditorium last Thursday afternoon, was an interesting event. Dr. E. A. Hines presided and introduced as the first speaker Dr. E. C. Doyle, who had as his subject "Preventive Medicine." Dr. Doyle is a forceful speaker, and put before his hearers facts well worthy of careful and continued attention. Dr. Jones, of Westminster, was the next speaker on the program, and his paper on "The Hospitals an Education in Public Health Welfare," was entertaining as well as instructive. Mr. Willis, who was for two years overseas, spoke on "Lessons the War has Taught in Sanitation." Supt. J. P. Coates had as his subject "Those Who Can Never Learn Any More," and if any such were present they learned then. Mrs. J. H. Adams, representing the Parent-Teacher Association, spoke on "Local Health Conditions." Mrs. L. W. Verner, representing the Once-a-Week Club, had as her subject "What the South Carolina Federation is Doing to Promote Public Health Nursing." The general discussion was upon a public health nurse for Oconee county. The "hog question" then came forward and resolutions were adopted requesting our City Council to rescind the present ordinance allowing hogs to be kept within the town limits of Seneca.

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Dendy are attending the commencement of the Presbyterian College at Clinton, from which their son, Samuel Wilkes Dendy, is graduating.

Misses Louise Dendy, Mary Hines, Lillian Myers and Helen Boyd are at home from Winthrop for the summer vacation.

Miss Alice Adams has returned from Greenville Woman's College and will be in Seneca for the summer.

Miss Mildred Heller is at home from Chicora College.

Tom Burgess, of the senior class at Clemson, was with homefolks last Sunday.

Dr. J. H. Burgess is at home again after some weeks spent traveling in Mississippi. The many friends of Gordon Todd were glad to have him spend a few hours here last Sunday. "Sandy" is one of our most popular boys, and one of the busiest.

It is distressing news to many here that Miss Cochran, of Calhoun, a daughter of Gus Cochran, is ill with hydrophobia. Thirteen people in and around Clemson College were bitten by a "mad dog" some nine days ago. So far Miss Cochran's illness is the only serious result. (Inquiry by telephone Tuesday afternoon brought the information that Miss Cochran was still living, though her condition was very grave.)

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hopkins and little daughter Frances are visiting relatives in Asheville this week.

Card of Thanks.

Editor Keowee Courier: Will you allow us space in your valuable paper in which to, in a very small way, express our thanks and appreciation for the many acts of kindness, sympathy and help, so willingly and cheerfully rendered us during the sickness and at the death of our daughter, Grace? We can say, in the words of the blessed Master, "You did what you could," and our hearts go out to you in loving remembrance, and while it is impossible to personally express to each of you our appreciation, will you not accept these expressions as coming out of the fulness of our hearts? We wish also to express to the colored people of our town our appreciation of the sympathy and respect shown us by them, and for the closing of their public exercises at their school while we laid our dear one down to rest.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Brown and Family. (adv.)

IN POLICE COURT.

Mainly "D. & D." and "F. & G." Three cases have been heard during the past two weeks, in Mayor's Court, in which convictions were had or the defendants pleaded guilty. The record follows:

J. W. Rampey, drunk and disorderly. Pleaded guilty. Fine of $20.00 paid.

Julius Johnson, colored, fighting and gambling. Pleaded guilty. Fine of $20 paid.

Eugene Price, colored, fighting and gambling. Pleaded guilty. Fine of $20 paid.

Fred Puckett, George Tow, Clifford Hollams, loafing in town. Found not guilty and dismissed.

Will Enforce Anti-Speed Law.

I had thought that it would not be necessary to call the attention of the public to the Ordinance regulating the running of motor vehicles on the streets of the town of Walhalla, but for some reason, as the spring season comes on, I find that the desire to outrun the other fellow is becoming more noticeable every day, and I now deem it necessary that I call your attention to this fact in order that you may govern yourselves accordingly, and that from now on, in case you desire to act the part of a Barney Oldfield, that you go out on some of our GOOD country roads, where the traffic is less congested, as it is my intention to try, as far as possible, to preserve the safety of the general public. A word to the wise is sufficient, and I do not want to have any excuse of your not having notice in case you decide to make a speed-way of Main street or any others of our streets. I especially desire to call your attention to the Ordinance regulating the turning of street corners, as I consider this of very grave importance. W. M. Brown, Mayor, Town of Walhalla, S. C.

Spartanburg Gets Next Meeting.

Columbia, May 29.—Spartanburg was selected at a meeting of the executive committee of the South Carolina Department of the American Legion in Columbia Friday as the place for holding the second annual State convention. The date chosen for this convention was one month prior to the meeting of the national convention of the Legion, the date of the State meeting to be announced when the date for the national convention is fixed.

There are now eighty-odd posts in the State, and delegations from all these will be sent to the State gathering. Other cities seeking the convention were Columbia and Charleston. The first annual convention was held in Columbia last fall.

Oconee Pension Money in Hand.

The pension money has been received, and all who can do so are requested to call at my office and get the amount due them. Checks will be sent to those at a distance, but this will require time, as there are 316 pensioners on the roll, and the regular work of the office cannot be neglected. V. R. Martin, Judge of Probate and Ex-officio Clerk County Board of Pensions.

To the Voters of Oconee.

I have decided to make the race for Treasurer of Oconee county, and at the outset I wish to thank all my friends who so liberally supported me for this office eight years ago, and to express the hope that all of these and others will favor me with such undivided support as will insure for me a successful campaign.

I have no word to utter against any man who may be in the race with me, and will make my race on my merits and with but one promise to all—that if elected I will serve all the people fairly, impartially and to the best of my ability. Robt. M. Sanders. (adv.)
