THE BABY AND HOT WEATHER.

Hundreds of Infants Pay the Penalty of Mothers' Lack of Knowledge.

(Progressive Farmer.)

Infant mortality is at its height during the summer months. During the next two months hundreds of babies will pay the death penalty for their mothers' neglect or lack of knowledge.

Severe diarrhoea, often referred to as dysentery, second summer complaint or cholera infantum, brings death to many a baby.

If your baby's bowels are troubled send for your physician. The life of your child may depend upon the prompt treatment of the trouble.

Severe diarrhoea, often referred to as dysentery, second summer complaint or cholera infantum, brings death to many a baby.

Summer complaint, which includes all ailments of the stomach and the intestinal tract, is a form of poison. It enters the baby's system as germs or bacteria, which are really minute plants that increase in unbelievable numbers.

The first step in protecting your baby from summer complaint is to supply sanitary environment and clean food.

Environment.

This means a clean bed, clean clothing, a clean perambulator (if any), clean play-pen and protection from such disease-carriers as flies, mosquitoes and household pets, such as dogs and cats.

The instinct of the baby is to thrust anything and everything into its mouth, from mother's finger to doggy's ear. Dogs may be fine play-fellows for older children, but they should not be permitted to come near a young baby.

Flies carry on their feet disease germs gathered in manure piles, out-houses, garbage pails and pools of stagnant water. The sting of a mosquito is also laden with danger for the baby. If your house is not made fly-proof and mosquito-proof by screens, protect your baby by some other means.

Many Japs Killed in Explosion.

Kobe, Japan, June 8.—Fifty Japanese seamen were missing after an explosion of gasoline on board the steamer Hiraku Maru to-day. The explosion shook the city like an earthquake and seriously damaged shipping.

The Hiraku Maru was destroyed, and the fire spread to a score of gasoline-laden junks, which drifted, blazing, out to sea, their crews in terror and shrieking for help.

THE CLOSING DAYS AT CLEMSON

Diplomas Were Awarded to 143 Men of the Class of 1920.

Clemson College, June 8.—With the address to the graduating class this morning by Dr. E. W. Sikes, the president of Coker College, Hartsville; the addresses by two senior class orators, John A. Henry, of St. George, and M. C. Jeter, of Union, and the delivery of diplomas to the 143 members of the class of 1920, the 21th commencement of Clemson College came to a delightful conclusion, thus ending the session of 1919-1920.

For three days at Clemson everybody has given first consideration to commencement, and everything has conspired to make this commencement one of the best, if not the best, ever held. A record-breaking senior class, a record-breaking throng of visiting relatives and friends, and a record-breaking attendance of the alumni, beautiful weather and everything else, have helped to make it so.

The finals began at 10.30, when the long and imposing procession of trustees, faculty and senior class marched into Memorial Hall to the stirring strains of martial music and the storm of applause from the audience of perhaps a thousand people. After invocation by Rev. A. E. Driggers, pastor of the local Methodist church, President W. M. Riggs opened the graduating exercises in a few happy words of welcome and introduced Dr. Sikes, who delivered the address to the graduating class.

Following this splendid address came the orations of the two seniors chosen upon outstanding record and ability for the honor of representing the senior class upon this occasion. These were John Archie Henry, St. George, who spoke on "Understanding and Progression," and Malcolm Crosby Jeter, of Union county, whose subject was "The Upward Climb."

Both of these young men made excellent addresses in thought and delivery and reflected credit upon themselves, their class and their college.

Some delightful numbers by the Glee Club gave variety and lightness to the program at this point, just preceding the delivery of the diplomas by President Riggs. Eighty-one graduates in agriculture, nine in civil engineering, five in textile industry, three in architecture, seven in chemistry, and thirty-seven in mechanical-electrical engineering received their "dips" and were made glad after four years of real work.

A few farewell words to the new alumni of 1920 by President Riggs and Col. Alan Johnstone, of Newberry, chairman of the board of trustees, and then the awarding of medals and honors of various kinds took place. The trustees' medal in oratory, which was contested for at the literary exercises on Monday morning, by representatives of four literary societies, was awarded to P. U. Wolfe, of Orangeburg county, for his oration on "The Idealist and the Value of His Ideals."

The Norris honor medal, awarded annually under provision of the will of Col. D. K. Norris, former trustee, to that senior who has made the best record in scholarship and service and character, was presented.

Another medal, awarded this year for the first time at Clemson, was the National Cotton Manufacturers' Association medal, presented to the best man in the graduating class in every textile school in the United States which has four or more in the graduating class and fifty or more students taking a textile course of three years. This medal was awarded to A. F. Covington, of Clio.

Several years ago the board of trustees and the faculty of Clemson College instituted the custom of presenting, at commencement, certificates of honor and merit to two South Carolinians each year who have done meritorious work in some line of scientific or practical agriculture. This year the two gentlemen so honored were B. S. Hodges, of Hodges, for his valuable work in soil-building by means of clovers and cover crops, and W. W. Wannamaker, Jr., for his plant breeding work and particularly his development of the well-known Wannamaker-Cleveland Big Boll cotton. Mr. Wannamaker, by the way, is an alumnus of Clemson College, and one of whom his alma mater is particularly proud.

A part of the commencement day program usually of great interest—the announcement of cadet officers for the next session, was omitted at this time on account of the fact that the summer camp work of the Students' Army Training Corps part of the corps of cadets is still to be done, and the cadet appointments will not, therefore, be announced until just preceding the opening of the next session.

Skeleton of Man Found.

A dispatch from Bainbridge, Ga., says: A human skeleton of a white man was discovered in an accumulation of driftwood just north of here, on the Flint river banks. The bones were discolored and disarticulated. There was no flesh and only some shreds of clothing—apparently a dark gray serge—a belt and a pair of shoes, size No. 7, with rubber heels in fairly good shape. Dr. S. J. Chestnut, the county coroner, held an inquest, and states that it is the skeleton of a white man who has been dead for about ten months. The mouth of the man shows that he had not finished cutting his wisdom teeth and was probably a fairly young man. There were no means of identification, and it is believed that the remains were washed upon the river banks during the high water of the Flint a month or so ago.

REV. KINARD'S RESIGNATION

Not Accepted by Congregation—Has Served One Church 14 Years.

(Salisbury, N. C., Post, June 7.) At a congregational meeting of St. John's Lutheran church held, yesterday morning immediately after the morning service, for the purpose of taking action on the resignation of the pastor, Rev. Dr. M. M. Kinard, which the pastor had read at the morning service two weeks previous, the members of the congregation, by ballot, voted not to accept the resignation.

Dr. Kinard had tendered the resignation to take effect early in September, and he stated yesterday the purpose of the congregational meeting and said that it was fourteen years ago that the members of St. John's church voted to call him, and he was now ready to return to them the trust committed to him at that time, and asked that his resignation be accepted, but the congregation declined to accept the same.

Oceonean Out in Far West.

H. L. Ramey, well known to the people of this section, but who now lives at Denton, Mont., writes from his Montana home as follows:

Denton, Mont., June 6, 1920. Editor Keowee Courier:

I see by the label on my last paper that my subscription to your paper expired on June 1st. You will find enclosed check for $1.00, for which please renew my subscription for another year.

My address now is Denton, Mont., as Hoosac dried up last fall. Spring wheat is up fine, and grass never was better at this time of the year. It certainly does look good after so much real winter. The winter wheat was a complete failure in places and about half crop in other sections. Quite a little flax is being seeded, and some corn.

Cattle and horses are getting fat, though hundreds starved and froze during last winter and in the early spring. Irish potatoes are 13 cents per pound. Don't see much chance for people to buy seed at that price.

We have quite a little oil excitement, with two wells producing from 35 to 300 barrels a day, and a number of others are down from 500 to 1,000 feet, and still others are just "spudded in."

With best regards to The Courier force,

Very truly,

H. L. Ramey.

A PARABLE AND A SUGGESTION

That May Tend to Solve Some of the World's Present Difficulties.

(Chicago Herald and Examiner.)

Put one hundred men on an island where fish is a staple article of sustenance. Twenty-five of the men catch fish; twenty-five others clean the fish; twenty-five cook the fish. Twenty-five hunt fruit and vegetables. The entire company eat what thus is gathered and prepared.

So long as everybody works there is plenty. All hands are happy. Ten of the allotted fish-catchers stop catching fish; ten more dry and hide part of the fish they catch. Five continue to catch fish, but work only part of a day at it.

Fewer fish go into the community kitchen. But the same number of men insist upon having the same amount of fish to eat as they had before. The fifty men who formerly cleaned and cooked the fish have less to do owing to the under-supply of fish. But they continue to demand food.

Gradually greater burdens are laid upon the fruit and vegetable hunters. These insist upon a larger share of fish in return for their efforts in gathering fruit and vegetables. It is denied them, and soon twenty of the twenty-five quit gathering fruit and vegetables.

But the entire one hundred men continue to insist upon their right to eat. The daily food supply gradually shrinks. The man with two fish demands three bananas in exchange for one of them. The man with two bananas refuses to part with one for fewer than three fish.

Finally the ten men remaining at work quit in disgust. Everybody continues to eat. The hidden fish are brought to light and consumed. Then comes a day when there is no food of any kind. Everybody on the island blames everybody else.

What would seem to be the solution? Exactly!

We thought you would guess it! For we repeat that you can't eat, buy, sell, steal, give away, hoard, wear, use, play with or gamble with WHAT ISN'T!

It is stated that milk worth $72,000,000 was shipped out of the United States in 1918.

The per capita consumption of tobacco in the United States has been steadily increasing since 1865.
