Georgia Youth Charged with Crime.

Moultrie, Ga., Dec. 2.—Charged with having attacked the daughter of one of the most prominent women in Quitman, Ga., James Baker, one of the wealthiest young men in this section of the country, is to-day being sought on a warrant charging him with assault with intent to murder.

Baker, who is in possession of a Croix de Guerre, won in France, and who is a son of the late John Baker, former mayor of Dothan, Ala., is charged by the young woman's mother with having made a criminal attack upon the girl, who was out riding with him on last Thursday. The prominence of the parties and the nature of the charges have created a profound sensation here.

Glue came into use comparatively recently, following closely on the heels of the invention of paper machinery and the consequent need of an adhesive in binding books. The first commercial glue factory in the United States was started by Cooper in 1837. Before this it had been made by individuals as needed, and of an inferior quality. Cooper began and centralized the industry.

Ready for Deportation.

New York, Dec. 2.—After bobbing around aimlessly in the harbor on a raft for several hours in the dark, Wasie Ernst, 18-year-old stow-away from Austria, decided early to-day to abandon his novel method of eluding Ellis Island officials, and called dejectedly for help.

While thawing out by a radiator, he told a tug boat captain who found him after much searching, that he had been told that the way of stowaways entering America was hard, and when his ship entered the harbor he threw the raft overboard and jumped into it, hoping to be washed ashore. He was taken to Ellis Island for deportation.

Steel Gets Another Cut.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 1.—Effective to-day the price of steel wire products is cut approximately 50 cents per 100 pounds, making the new quotations on wire nails $3.75 a keg and on plain wire $3.25, f. o. b. Pittsburg. Barbed wire and fence staples were reduced proportionately.

This reduction is the first in several years. Announcement was made by the Pittsburg Steel Company that all unfilled orders will be invoiced at the new quotations.

INDIFFERENCE IS A MENACE

To America — Everything Organized but "Americanism."

Atlanta Georgain.)

United action to avert social revolution in this country is urged by Gen. Chas. D. Haines, of New York, former United States Congressman and president of the National Council of American Patriots—an organization enthusiastically supported by President Wilson, President-elect Harding, Gen. John J. Pershing, and Governors of nearly every State, and by Congressmen and leading statesmen.

Congressman Haines, who was in Atlanta Tuesday, is of the opinion that the spread of Bolshevism in America, largely through undesirable immegration from Europe, and with the backing of militant Russia, constitutes a greater danger to this country than the world war.

"This is a day of serious unrest," he declared. "We are at a point where Bolshevism is able to militarize itself. Europe is divided and incapable of sustained military resistance. There are in America 3,000,000 Socialists, and 36,000,000 more persons with Socialistic tendencies. All these elements are headed eventually for Bolshevism, I. W. W.ism, and a revolution by force. They are efficiently organized. Everything is organized except Americanism.

The People Lack Interest.

"The people of this country are going to the devil," Congressman Haines said. "Sixty per cent of the people in the United States are not even theoretically connected with any church, and their interest in the salvation of humanity could be measured with a foot rule.

"The only real Americans left are in the South, and there rests the chief hope of the nation. We want to organize. We must organize if we expect to counteract the spirited Socialistic campaign being conducted in this country and throughout the world. The people must unite so that within 2 hours they can be assembled to protect the ideals of our government. Americanisms are going to govern America as long as any real American blood is flowing on this side of the world.

"The time has come when America must awake, when Americans must arise to their native duty, even as Paul Revere on his immortal ride slumbers no longer to defend against an invader. Let no one feel himself on this score this. We must repent and return to American principles, or in short we shall lose that we call American snatched from us.

Red Tidal Wave Grows.

"Bolshevism is spreading in Europe and sweeping through Asia; it has spread across Siberia and is penetrating China and Japan. The wave of unrest in Afghanistan, Persia, Armenia and throughout many European States is moving with startling celerity.

"There are a thousand Socialistic societies in the city of New York. The Socialistic, I. W. W. and Bolshevik movement is spreading in this country like a prairie fire. Most of our Americans have no comprehension as to how great the inner dangers of the United States are. They have not dared to comprehend these dangers. They are living in the foolish and superficial contentment of voluntary blindness. They are repeating the course they took in the first thirty months of the war—resting in idleness and voluntary blindness while Germany knocked out the foundations of human freedom and civilization.

"The price Americans pay for retaining that habit is immeasurable. All democracy has been risked and still is jeopardized. What is our national status now, and what are our real dangers? First of them is that we are not a real nation. Not even the gigantic hammer of the greatest war man has ever known has been able to weld us into one. We are twenty peoples mingled in the same continental space, but not a knit unit.

Americanism Nearly Lost.

"There is a cause for this—a profound cause," Congressman Haines declared. "We have renegaded to our Americanism; we have not appreciated it, and have all but lost it. That is the source of our disasters and the source of the no less serious dangers which blacken our sky.

"The stability of the United States depends upon the moral confidence between men and men, and men and God.

"We have set forth to build the mightiest army this world has ever known. It is an army bound together by supreme convictions for the triumph of the militant spirit of Christianity. Against that foundation there is no power devised by man able to prevail. In the face of an organization so founded there is no evil able to stand."
