

How to Make Child-birth Easier!

DO YOU wish to know how thousands and thousands of women have gone thru motherhood without knowing some of the pains and discomforts incident to childbirth? Listen to this:

Motherhood creates almost a new state of being for a woman.

As a result, new nerves, those heretofore restful and quiescent, spring into activity, they cry out, they tingle, they burn in their unrest.

The network of nerves across the abdomen, the loins, the back and other parts now become super-sensitive. All these nerves are being called on to perform unusual duties.

These nerves must be pacified and comforted; must be put in condition for the crisis that is pending.

If these nerves are not soothed and quieted, they may set up aggravated nerve tension, increasing in severity from month to month, sometimes even culminating in a nervous paralysis of the back and limbs. This leaves the mother-to-be in a condition where she is unable, fully, to meet the test when the climax of maternity arrives.

Mother's Friend is used externally as a massage; and its purpose, thru daily use, is to gradually, gently and effectively relax the muscles and nerves involved in the function of child-bearing; to make the skin soft, pliable and elastic so that it may expand easily and naturally as the abdominal parts enlarge—thereby relieving the tension and strain on these muscles and nerves of the otherwise severe distention before delivery.

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, 515 Palm St., Scranton, Pa., says:

"I am worried and anxious to tell any mother about Mother's Friend. It did me so much good that I wouldn't be without it if it cost $5.00 a bottle. With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I only had a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

Many doctors and nurses recommend Mother's Friend. It contains no narcotics, or habit-forming drugs and is perfectly harmless. All drug stores carry Mother's Friend.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

MAN UNDER SERIOUS CHARGE

Returns to Stand Trial—Claude J. Rast Gives Bond for Appearance.

Orangeburg, Oct. 26.—Claude J. Rast, formerly superintendent of Orangeburg yesterday morning, to Orangeburg yesterday morning, surrendered to Sheriff R. F. Duker and gave bond, upon order of Judge J. W. DeVore, in the sum of $5,000 for his appearance at the January term of Court of General Sessions for Orangeburg county to answer to a charge of attempted criminal assault.

It will be recalled that about July 12 of this year Claude J. Rast, then superintendent of education for Orangeburg county, was severely beaten early in the morning near his residence in Orangeburg by three men, and that thereafter a warrant was sworn out for his arrest, while he was principal of the East Middle graded school during the session then closed. This caused quite a sensation in this county, as did also his disappearance shortly after the warrant was sworn out for his arrest.

Word was received here that if a prosecution was brought in the courts against him he would return to Orangeburg and give bond at the September term of court. The grand jury presented Rast for trial upon the above stated charge. The return this morning of Mr. Rast substantiated the statement made that he would return to Orangeburg for trial if indicted. It is reported here that Mr. Rast is teaching school in North Carolina this session.

Mr. Rast is well known in Orangeburg county, having taught in the public schools here for over thirty years, and having served on the county board of education and as a township commissioner; and had begun his term of office as superintendent of education on July 1 of this year. After this charge was made he declared his innocence, but in order to keep down any unpleasantness he resigned the office.

PLOW COTTON STALKS UNDER.

Dr. A. M. Soule Says Now is the Best Time to Fight Boll Weevil.

(Atlanta Journal.)

Now is the time to fight the boll weevil with more deadly effect than at any other season of the year, declared Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture, in Atlanta Thursday afternoon.

"Fight him," said Dr. Soule, "by plowing under the cotton stalks in the field. And plow them under now. Don't wait for the frost to drive the boll weevil out of the soft bolls into winter quarters. Plow him under before he leaves the cotton stalks."

"Practically all of the cotton has been picked, so the stalks are useless. It won't pay to burn them, because that would destroy from 40 to 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre, and all of our lands are deficient in nitrogen. It would be better to plow up the stalks and let them die and rot in the field than it would to burn them, but plowing them up will not be as effective as plowing them under."

"Plow them under deep. Bury them and smother them. Hit the boll weevil while he is down. It may not be good sportsmanship, but it's mighty good economics."

"My opinion is, based upon careful survey, that 50 per cent of next year's crop of boll weevils can be destroyed by plowing under the cotton stalks. When the frost comes the weevil at once leaves the soft bolls still on the stalk and hunts for winter quarters. He gets under the bark on dead logs, under the bark on stumps in the field, under the shingles on the farmer's house and barn—gets into the hay barn, gets anywhere he can keep warm and dry."

"And when a pair of boll weevils come out in the spring and start propagating, they can and do produce in one season from seven to eleven million weevils. So that every time a pair of weevils are plowed under now, and destroyed, we have destroyed from seven to eleven million unborn weevils that will prey upon us next year."

"We have the plows, the mules, the tractors and the labor to plow under the cotton stalks. We have the time to do it before frost comes. But we have no time to lose. Plowing under the stalks will not only destroy thousands of boll weevils, but will improve the soil of every field where they are plowed under."

"The crop of weevils now in the soft bolls which will never open, and are, therefore, useless, are what they will go into winter quarters if not destroyed now, and will come out next spring and begin to multiply with their prodigious rapidity, and again devastate our cotton crop."

"The time to fight the weevil, as I said before, is when he is down. Fight him after the cotton is gone for him to feed on. Fight him by plowing him under. Fight him by destroying, wherever possible, the places in which he can take refuge from the cold weather and rains of winter."

"Plowing under the cotton stalks at this time, while the fields are still alive with weevils, will destroy infinitely more than a hard, cold winter or a dry summer."

"Riding this afternoon from Macon to Atlanta, I saw thousands of acres of cotton stalks, picked out, done with, standing in the field, harboring millions upon millions of boll weevils."

"Fifty per cent of the boll weevil seed crop, at the very lowest, can be killed by plowing under the cotton stalks."

BLANTON DROPS UNDER REBUKE

Expulsion Resolution Failed by Only Eight Votes—Gets Reprimand.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The House late Thursday failed to adopt the resolution, introduced by Representative Mondell, providing for the expulsion of Representative Blanton, Democrat, of Texas, for inserting objectionable matter in the Congressional Record.

The vote was 203 for expulsion and 113 against, with Representative Sumner, of Texas, voting present. Speaker Gillett announced that the two-thirds vote necessary for an expulsion had not been obtained.

It was alleged in the resolution that Blanton had inserted "grossly obscene and indecent" matter in the Record.

The expulsion resolution failed by Representative Garrett, minority only eight votes.

Speaker Gillett immediately introduced a resolution providing that Blanton be censured for his action. Garrett's resolution was adopted by a vote of 293 to 0—26 members answering "present," but not voting.

Blanton was led on to the floor of the House by Sergeant-at-Arms Rodgers, and was brought before the Speaker.

Speaker Gillett delivered the following reprimand:

"When you were allowed to print a speech not delivered on the floor of the House you inserted foul, vile and obscene language which could not have been delivered on the floor. This foul language was disseminated to the people throughout the country to be read to men, women and children. For this you are reprimanded."

Blanton started to leave the chamber, but fainted at the entrance to the cloakroom and fell to the floor. He was carried into the corridor soon revived.

Blanton arose from a couch in the anteroom and started downstairs to leave the Capitol, but fainted again. He was assisted to his office in the House office building, his face blanched and tears streaming down his face. After a few minutes at his office friends arrived to take him to his home. He was reported to be in a state of collapse as a result of the day's happenings.

The House adjourned immediately after adopting the Garrett reprimand resolution.
