Big Orchard Meetings This Week.

The orchard field meetings at Clemson College Friday and at D. P. Good's Saturday, as noted in the above itinerary, should be the most important dates of the year to any one interested in good orchards, of either the home or commercial kind. At each place will be seen the best there is in this section of South Carolina. Oconee should be proud of these two orchards, and the time is coming when there will be many more good orchards in this section—the banner apple-growing section of South Carolina.

Prospective orchardists should attend each of these meetings and receive instruction and inspiration for the future. At Clemson will be seen the work of pruning and spraying in progress at this time in peaches, Good's the famous Stayman Winesap trees, whose product is known all over this section, will be seen. Geo. P. Hoffmann, Extension Horticulturist of Clemson, will be present at each place to discuss all questions pertaining to orchards. These will be the biggest orchard days of the season, and many interested people should be present at each place.

Sale of Fine Hogs.

On Wednesday, Feb. 8th, the animal husbandry division of Clemson College will hold its first bred sow sale, according to Prof. L. V. Starkey.

This will be a great opportunity for the farmers of Oconee to get good pure-bred hogs for foundation stock. There will be about thirty Duroc-Jerseys offered and about twenty Poland Chinas.

At this time of impending boll weevil damage it is well that there should be plenty of hogs for the future meat supply, as the living must be made at home during boll weevil times.

Co-operative Marketing Pays.

The "County Agent and Farm Bureau" has the following to say in regard to what farmers of one county in Alabama have saved by the co-operative marketing of farm products:

"That co-operative marketing of farm products is profitable and practicable is clearly shown by results during the last twelve months in Geneva county, Alabama, which have been reported by County Agent R. L. King.

"For the last few years more or less co-operative marketing has been done by the farmers of that county, it is stated, and during their fiscal year, ending Oct. 30, their records show that the different co-operative sales associations of the county marketed 1,669,695 pounds of hogs, 385 tons of peanuts, 63 carloads of watermelons and 800 bushels of sweet potatoes.

"It is generally agreed," says the Samson, Ala., Ledger, "that this method of marketing brought the farmers one cent more per pound for their hogs, $5.00 per ton more for their peanuts, $43.00 per car more for their watermelons, and 25 cents per bushel more for their sweet potatoes, the total of which amounts to $21,419.95—the amount by which the farmers are wealthier by practicing co-operation."

And yet some people doubt that co-operative marketing can bring in more money when it is being done all over the United States with all classes of farm products.

Have YOU signed the cotton co-operative marketing contract? If not, why not?

County Agent.

A Word of Explanation

Anderson District is divided into groups composed of four or five churches each. Somewhere within each group there will be held, on each fifth Sunday, a group meeting, at which the laymen and ministers of the group are expected to attend. And in these meetings we are to use as speakers the laymen and ministers of the group, mostly. When convenient, other speakers, known to be especially good in some particular subjects, will be invited to speak. The chief aim is a meeting for mutual helpfulness of the religious workers of the group. The church where each meeting is held will furnish entertainment for visitors. During the winter it may be better to take them home to dinner, but during the spring and summer dinner on the grounds will be the rule.

The churches composing Walhalla Group are Walhalla station, Walhalla circuit, Westminster and Townville. Lay workers and ministers of the churches are expected to attend each of the meetings.

The Spongy Moss of Labrador.

There was still plenty to see at Natashquan and I took a long walk, chiefly in stunted spruces and in the bog-barrens or tundras of Labrador—which occupies so much of the country in the sub-Arctic and Arctic zones. Audubon says in his Journal: "To tread over the spongy moss of Labrador is a task beyond conception until tried; at every step the foot sinks in a deep, soft cushion which closes over it, and it requires a good deal of exertion to pull it up again. Where this moss happens to be over a marsh, then you sink a couple of feet deep every step you take; to reach bare rock is delightful, and quite a relief." In another place he says: "We crossed a savanna of many miles in extent; in many places the soil seemed to wave under us, and we expected at each step to go through the superficial moss carpet. These descriptions are very accurate. I should compare the labor to that of walking in deep wet snow."

—Charles Wendell Townsend.

Christian woman and will be missed by all who knew her. She was always ready to minister to the needs of the poor, to speak a word of cheer to the sad-hearted, and render assistance wherever and whenever it was within her power. Truly "She hath done what she could."

Twenty-five years ago she united with the Wesleyan Methodist church, of which she was a member at Walhalla at the time of her death. In the passing of Grandma Sanders the church has lost one of its most consecrated members, the town and the community one of its best women. Her life was a living example to all who knew her, and her influence as a Christian mother and sister will live on and on.

The funeral services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Grant on Wednesday, Dec. 28th, at 11 a. m., the service being conducted by her former pastor, Rev. L. H. Kelley, of Central. Her body was laid to rest beside her husband in the family burying ground. To the bereaved ones goes the sympathy of many in their hour of sorrow.
