

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

Did You Get the Bottom Price, After All?

The man who buys a "long discount" tire usually finds himself troubled by the above question.

Did he pay less for the tire than his neighbor might have paid, or actually did he pay more?

Did he get the bottom price, when all is said and done, or could he perhaps have driven a sharper bargain?

Was the net price really more than he might have had to pay for a tire of established reputation and value?

In the belief that the average motorist prefers a frank and open transaction, we built the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord and discounted the "discount" in advance.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can.

We build it of high-grade long-staple cotton, using the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction, and sell it at a lower price than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown worth.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES.

Farmers May Get Picric Acid.

A Clemson bulletin informs us that South Carolina farmers can get more picric acid. The U. S. Department of Agriculture announces that a limited supply of this explosive is now on hand at Edgewood, Md., and that it is being offered to farmers for agricultural purposes free of cost except the charges for carttridging, packing and freight. This cost is 7 cents per pound for carttridging and packing and about two cents per pound for freight to a central point, plus freight to point of local delivery.

Picric acid is a high explosive used in the World War, and the government is now distributing its remaining supply as an agricultural explosive to stimulate land clearing activities. Picric acid has given entire satisfaction to thousands of farmers in many States who have used it for stump blasting, ditch digging, etc. One car of 1,000 pounds was used by South Carolina farmers early this year.

The material is packed in carttridges the same size and shape as used for dynamite, but the picric acid carttridges weigh six ounces, while the dynamite carttridges weigh 8 ounces. The six-ounce picric acid carttridges has the same explosive force as the 8-ounce dynamite carttridges. Since one pound of picric acid does the same work as one and one-fourth pound of 40 per cent dynamite, the cost of the picric acid, at around nine cents per pound, is approximately one-third the cost of the equivalent quantity of dynamite at usual retail prices. It is clear, therefore, that it would pay farmers who have stump blasting and other explosive work to do to secure picric acid from this government supply.

It is of interest to note that picric acid keeps indefinitely if stored in an ordinary dry place, is not affected by heat or cold, is not so sensitive as dynamite, and therefore even safer to handle, and gives no injurious effects in the way of headaches, such as come from dynamite fumes.

Order Through County Agents. Because of the greater cost of freight in less than car lots, the department of agriculture will not receive orders from individual farmers, but will deal only with co-operative agency, which will receive orders, consolidate them into car lot orders and forward them to the department. The extension service of Clemson College will undertake to handle orders for South Carolina farmers if there is sufficient demand to make up one or more car loads.

County agents are being instructed to receive and forward to the extension service orders from farmers in their territory, and those who are interested should see the county agents promptly, so that orders may be received and forwarded to the extension service not later than Oct. 10. Geo. R. Briggs, County Agent.

Let Moonshiners Beware.

(Greenville Piedmont.)

Some years ago the Richmond Times-Dispatch suggested that Jos. Berry Sloan Lyles, of the Columbia bar, was the right man for a vacancy on the Supreme Bench of South Carolina, but he declined to toss his hat into the ring. However, upon the nomination of Chief Justice Eugene B. Gary, Mr. Lyles has been appointed special judge to hold court in Oconee county in October.

Let the moonshiners of Oconee look out! Judge Lyles will not stand for any monkey business about hundred-dollar fines, but will put stripes on the whole outfit if he gets a chance. Of the younger members of the bar of South Carolina, none has a finer legal mind than Mr. Lyles, who was graduated with high distinction from the Harvard Law School, so that even in his student days his proficiency at the bar was foreshadowed.

He will preside over the court with urbanity, dignity and ability, doing nothing that the South Carolina Supreme Court will have to undo. In his statements of the law he will not charge the unchargeable, but will cause "little gladsome lights of jurisprudence" to radiate to the uttermost parts of Oconee.

HOME DEMONSTRATION NOTES.

(From the State Agent.)

Sept. 14, 1922. — The home demonstration agents of South Carolina are assembled at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, for a special meeting. For five days they are having intensive training in food preparation for market, and studying a system of making a greater profit in poultry.

The call to help the farm women market their produce is sounding louder in the ears of the home demonstration department than any other problem. Every effort is being made to train the home demonstration agents that they may be of greatest value to the women in the counties where the agents are located. They are helping the farm women pass through this present valley and approach the uplands of the future by making money from the sale of food products. Special emphasis is given to canning the products of the Home Producers' Associations. The pine bark fish stew, as made by the coast counties of this State, is being used by this association. This recipe was recently completed by the State conservation specialist.

The club markets that are being so successfully operated by the farm women of our State are still prosperous in eighteen counties. This is splendid that so many survived the long, dry summer season. New inspiration was given the agents by the excellent address given on "Woman's Part in Our Future Agricultural Program," by Assistant Director D. W. Watkins.

Many counties which are unable to have a club market are shipping produce to Charleston, which is sold there by Miss Carolina Alston, the county home demonstration agent of Charleston county. This is particularly true of poultry products. This necessitated giving to the agents special work in packing and shipping of poultry, caponizing, killing poultry for market, housing and feeding of poultry, and grading of eggs. This instruction was given by poultry specialists, Miss Juanita Neely, N. R. Mehrhof and Miss Gladys Tappan.

Cutting and curing meat was a practical and opportune lesson given the agents by D. T. Herrman, of Clemson College.

After this beneficial training the agents will return to their counties with a much greater degree of efficiency for meeting the problems in each county.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES.

By Ben E. Adams, Charleston, S. C.

American Legion members from the various posts over the State are planning to attend the national convention to be held in New Orleans Oct. 16th to 20th. South Carolina should be well represented, as the convention is not likely to be held so near home in many years. Cities in all parts of the country want the big meeting, and it is right that it should be shifted around. Members in our State who are contemplating attending the convention should get in touch with the department adjutant at Spartanburg and secure information with regard to rates and accommodations. All hotel reservations are to be made through the department adjutant.

The railroads are issuing folders and booklets giving information on the convention to be held at New Orleans. Members can find valuable information in these folders. These can be secured by applying to passenger agents or writing to division headquarters of the roads.

There are more than one hundred posts in South Carolina. About 25 of these are on the inactive list. Veterans in towns where the legion is inactive have it in their power to render a service to their comrades and to the community by reorganizing the legion post. Any one who is interested will find the department officers, members of the State executive committee and other legion leaders ready to assist in any way possible. Get busy and reorganize your post in time to celebrate Armistice Day.

The Greenwood post and the auxiliary will present a play this week. Mrs. Sam Rosenberg is in charge of the affair, and the legion members are optimistic over the outcome. Legion posts over the State will find the staging of minstrels and other amateur plays enjoyable to the members and of financial assistance to the organization.

Charleston post met Wednesday night and took up many matters of interest to the membership. A committee was named to arrange for the celebration of Armistice Day. The post offered its support to the American Red Cross in the campaign to be put on in November. The report of the service officer showed that the post was doing much good for disabled men.

A TONIC

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value. Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, Invigorating Effect. 60c.

Pitts-Boyleston.

Westminster, Sept. 14. — One of the most beautiful events of the season occurred Tuesday, Sept. 12, at 5.30 o'clock, in the Westminster Baptist church, when Miss Marion Frances Pitts became the bride of Dr. Motte James Boyleston. The ceremony was a most impressive and beautiful one, preceded by a most charming musical program, which was followed by the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal March, by which the bridal party was ushered into the church. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Foster, Miss Bernice Cannon, Miss Mildred Bearden, all of Westminster, and Miss Kathleen Boyleston, sister of the groom, of Sally. The groomsmen were Raymond Pitts, brother of the bride; William Salley, Norman Boyleston and Dr. Charles W. Morrison, all of Sally.

Mrs. Boyleston as Miss Pitts was a very popular and attractive young lady of Westminster, and her friends regret that her marriage causes her to leave Westminster.

Dr. and Mrs. Boyleston left immediately after the ceremony for a trip through Florida and Cuba, after which they will be at home to their many friends at Sally, S. C., where the groom is prominently connected.

Mrs. Boyleston attended Greenville Woman's College. There were many out-of-town guests present at the wedding, and the handsome and valuable gifts attested the popularity of the young couple.

Treasury Certificates Advance. The United States Treasury Department announces that after Sept. 30, the one-dollar treasury savings stamps will not be on sale, and the purchase price of treasury savings certificates will be advanced from $20 to $20.50 for the $25 certificates, from $30 to $32 for the $100 certificates, and from $300 to $320 for the $1,000 certificates. Postmaster W. B. Aull, who has just been advised of this change in prices of savings certificates, states that it will be possible for persons to make purchases at the present price of $20, $30 and $300, respectively, until the close of business Sept. 30, 1922. Treasury savings certificates, on sale at the postoffice, are for those seeking an investment with the assurance of absolute safety and a guarantee of the return of principal with interest at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent on present issue price, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. French army manoeuvres are to be held this month for the first time since 1913.
