

THE SENTINEL.

D. F. BRADLEY, Editor.

PICKENS C. H., S. C.

Thursday, November 28, 1878

ERRATA.—In our editorial comments, in our last issue, on the decision of the Supreme Court on the Pickens County Bonds, on the fifteenth line the word "occurs" should read accords.

To Our Friends.

Those of our subscribers living beyond the limits of our County, who are in arrears must settle by the 1st of January, 1879, or their papers will be discontinued. We hope they appreciate our patient indulgence so far. The SENTINEL is published at the low price of $1.50 a year, and it is necessary that every subscriber, both in and outside of the County should pay up promptly to enable us to continue the paper. To those who have come forward and paid up promptly, we return thanks.

Don't Sell Your Homes.

We hear some people talk about selling their lands to avoid paying the Railroad Tax. This is a mistake. The market value of the bonds is about fifty cents in the dollar, and the assessed value of the property in the County is over a million. If the people conclude to buy up the bonds, it will only take about five per cent of their property as assessed by the Auditor. Suppose your home is worth one thousand dollars, it will only take fifty dollars to pay your share of the bonds, and the County and your homes would be forever free from Railroad tax. And to pay the interest as it falls due, it will only take annually about six dollars to the thousand dollars worth of property. It is a big thing, but not half as heavy as some think.

The Legislature is now in session under complete control of the Democratic party, and whatever of good or ill is accomplished during the present session will be accredited to the party. If any missteps are taken it will be used against the party strenuously two years to come. If no blunders are made we can enter upon the Presidential canvass with a solid front. During this last election the people have stood together like faithful soldiers, and given us a glorious victory, and since they have done their part so magnanimously, let their Representatives see to it, that they do their whole duty. Let no portion of the advantage ground be lost by any indiscretion of theirs. The people of every party want low taxes, and as far as possible they demand it of their Representatives.

They want wise and good laws if indeed they want any new laws. They want but little legislation. The Legislature should do what is absolutely necessary; and having done it, to return to their homes, for every day spent in session adds to the burdens of the people. It is true they want everything done wisely and with care, but they want it done with a view to economy. Then let our legislators work hard with economy as their watchword and the people will be satisfied.

Governor Hampton.

The anxiety of the public to know the exact condition of Gov. Hampton is quite natural, says the Register, and deserves to be gratified. Through our exchanges and from private sources, we hear that there has been great apprehension throughout the State in regard to his recovery, because of the meagre statements as to his condition in the newspapers having daily access to correct information. We beg to assure the public that naught has been concealed, and that rumors of a discouraging nature are unfounded. His wound has healed as rapidly as the severity of its nature would permit, and there has been no unfavorable symptoms other than were expected by his physicians at the outset. Any untoward change in his condition would be made known promptly, and in the absence of direct statements to that effect, the public may rest assured that his condition is satisfactory, if that term can be used to express the idea that he is not considered in danger of losing life or limb, while he is still a great sufferer.

Our Legislators are all at their posts in Columbia, ready and anxious to carry out every pledge they made their constituents in the campaign.

Letter from Washington.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22, 1878.

Many Congressmen are already here. The session begins in two weeks, and besides preparatory work of committees, there is always something for members to do before the actual day of meeting. I fancy, too, that quite a number of repudiated Congressmen prefer, since the October and November elections, to be outside rather than inside their districts. Conversation with the Democrats who have already arrived leaves no room for doubt that Mr. Randall will be the nominee for Speaker of the Forty-sixth Congress, and will be elected. The growing importance of this office—an importance which can hardly be explained to one who has not watched legislation here for many years—calls early attention to the selection of a fit man. Mr. Randall is not exactly the ideal Speaker, but his qualifications are greater than those of any other man in the House, and he has signally proven a capacity for improvement.

When the U. S. Steamer, "Huron," was wrecked, just a year ago, many bodies were not recovered or identified. One man, always supposed to have died, reported yesterday at the Navy Yard in this city. His wonderful story is that he was picked up after remaining in the water a whole day and night, and carried to a Norwegian port, and that he has since been in hospital there. The Secretary of the Navy and other officials are convinced that his story is true, and the money due him, which has already been paid to a person represented as his father, will be paid him.

The earnest attention of members of Congress from all the States is asked to the present condition of the District of Columbia financial and other affairs. Your correspondent has no special scheme for a District Government, and will not now urge that the United States assume further responsibility for existing debt, but all admit that those who are creditors of the District to the amount of twelve or fifteen millions have a right to know exactly what the responsibility of the Federal Government is in the premises. Citizens of the District, also, who find that under present laws their Governors are in continued conflict with other United States officers, to the great detriment of District business, has a right to at least an official inquiry into the causes of never ending disagreement. Denied representation in any form, the District tax payer and business man can only appeal indirectly to Congress. Every member should feel himself in some degree our representative. To Mr. Blackburn, of Ky., and Mr. Hinton, of Va., we are indebted for much intelligent labor in our behalf, but no two men, however able or diligent, can spare the time from their other Congressional duties to master all the difficulties of our exceptional position. The House and the Senate should give more attention to the District affairs, and in that way save money to the United States and to our citizens. I would like to see special committees on the District, to be composed, say, of Messrs. Wheeler, Blaine, Edmunds, Voorhees and Gordon, of the Senate, and of Messrs. Randall, Blackburn, Stephens, Frye and Conger, or of men of like standing, of the House. The whole country would heartily agree to any proposal of such committees, and the District people could never thereafter complain of unfair treatment.

SEMINOLE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Commissioner Raum has received a telegram from Collector Brayton, dated Columbia, November 21, that Captain Hoffman telegraphs that his detachment of the Bevenue force was surrounded last night in a house where they were stopping, in Abbeville County, near the Georgia line, by a band of armed men of at least forty, and ordered to leave the county. Their lives were threatened and several shots were fired. The officers with drew to Abbeville Court House to await reinforcements, which Brayton ordered. He says warrants for the arrest of the offenders will be obtained and executed.

The Commissioner replied, instructing Brayton to reinforce Hoffman sufficiently to overcome all resistance, and make all proper seizures and arrests, and concludes: "I wish it distinctly understood that I will oppose any further amnesty in your State.—Offenders must expect to be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

Col. George F. Townes for U. S. Senator.

DEAR SENTINEL—I do not know whether I may be obtrusive or not, but I wish to bring before the country a suggestion, the reasons for which may be considered hereafter, as I am like (just now) a sensible woman, no time for reason.

The election is all over now, and we have our Hampton and a Democratic Legislature. What else do we want? Well, a good deal. But most we want is the people and their representatives to settle down once more to sober second thought, and I do not care just now to write all over the world to say just one thing. Who are we going to have for United States Senator in place of Pennsylvania's "honest John?" We are going to have some one, and I know of one man in Greenville who would be an ornament and an honor to South Carolina—who would be fit in comparison to those who once represented her in her palmy days, and that man is Col. George F. Townes, known throughout the State among the head of his profession as a lawyer, and distinguished for honesty, ability and statesmanship. Col. Townes was elected twice a representative from Greenville before the war, and served with distinction, as the journals will show. Aside from all that might be said in favor of Col. Townes, I think the upper country should come in in this instance for the honors of representing the State in that once great branch of the Government, the Senate of the United States.

England is fairly at war with Afghanistan, and it is uncertain when or where it will end. The Afghans are a hardy and warlike people, but are too weak to cope with England. It is believed that Russia is at the back of the Afghans and encouraging them with promised assistance. With Russia to help, the result is made very uncertain.

Col. John W. R. Pope, who so ably filled the editorial chair of Speights' Spartauburg daily, has retired. He was with the Daily from the beginning, and we shall miss his departure.

General Gordon was re-elected on the 20th instant to the United States Senate by the Legislature of Georgia. This is a well merited and wisely bestowed compliment to one who has heretofore so faithfully represented his State.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 18.—A special dispatch from Mount Sterling, Ky., to the Courier Journal says that a riot took place there to day in which from twenty to thirty shots were fired.—Two men were instantly killed and three others wounded. Marshal Young was mortally wounded. Two of the rioters, George and William Howard, were wounded, one dangerous. John Thompson, a clerk and disinterested party, was shot and instantly killed while in the store in which he was employed, the bullet being fired through a window of the store. Three of the rioters have been arrested.—The sheriff and posse are on the trail of the others.

OBITUARY.

DIED, October 26th, 1878, at his residence, at Marietta, Greenville County, South Carolina, the Rev. STEVEN POWELL, aged ninety three years. The public service of Brother POWELL is known to all. At an early age he volunteered and served in some of the Indian wars, and soon after his discharge he joined the Baptist Church, and entered the ministry, where he labored for fifty years in the cause of his Redeemer, preaching the word with earnestness and effect. We have no means by which to ascertain the number he was instrumental in leading to Christ, nor the number he baptized, but the number must be large, for his labors were greatly blessed. He was a model of a Christian. His humility, his Godly walk, his pious conversation, together with his earnest preaching, has endeared him to all who knew him. A good neighbor, a kind and loving pastor, the Baptist have sustained by his death, a great loss. There is no other that can fill his place, for the Christian cause has lost one of its brightest lights. He was buried with Masonic honors. The procession was formed at Marietta and marched to Ebenezer Church, where his funeral services were conducted, by his especial request, by Rev. Thomas Loper. He leaves his children, his brethren and friends to mourn his loss, while he has gone to his rich reward where he will meet with many he led to Jesus and will have many stars added to his crown of rejoicing in the beautiful world.

The faithful servant of the Lord has laid his Bible down, and has gone to reap the rich reward. And wear a story crown, Far, far beyond the flight of time, On heavenly blissful shore, He will meet with those he led to Christ, To live forever more. We must not weep, we must not mourn, For hope cannot despair; We will follow in the footsteps on, And hope to meet him there.

Re Opening a Thoroughfare.

In order to guard against results utterly subversive of health, it is absolutely essential that the grand thoroughfare or avenue of the system, the bowels, should be re-opened as speedily as possible when they become obstructed. If they are not, the bile is misdirected into the blood; the liver becomes torpid; viscid bilious matter gets into the stomach, and produces indigestion; headaches ensue, and other symptoms are produced, which a prolongation of the exciting cause only tends to aggravate. The aperient properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters constitute a most useful agent in overcoming constriction of the bowels, and promoting a regular habit of body. It is infinitely superior to the drastic cathartics frequently used for the purpose, since it does not, like them, act violently, but produces a natural, painless effect, which does not impair the tone of the evaculatory organs, which it invigorates instead of weakening. The stomach and liver also, indeed the entire system, is strengthened and regulated by it.
