United States Court House.

A correspondent of the News and Courier, from Spartanburg, is trying to get up a boom for that place for the United States Court House. Our Greenville neighbor very naturally kicks against this move, and we ourselves believe that Greenville offers more advantages and better facilities for Court House, and people having business in the Court, than Spartanburg can possibly offer.

United States Marshal.

A. Blythe, Esq, late United States Marshal for this State, has turned over his office to Mr. Livingston, his successor. The commissions of all Deputy Marshals expired when Mr. Blythe left the office, and before making any arrests or transacting other business they must be commissioned by the present Marshal. It is said that Mr. Livingston intends to reduce the force of deputies far below the number heretofore acting.

The Railroad Meeting.

As a delegate appointed by the citizens of this place, we attended the meeting of the Board of Directors of the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago Railroad at Aiken on the 1st instant. Messrs. J. R Gossett and Isaac Williams were delegates from Easley. There were also delegates from Greenville, Belton, Honea Path and Troy—all in the interest of their respective places.

Capt. Kirk submitted his report of the survey of the proposed route by Greenville. He estimates that the cost of building the road by Greenville will amount to $138,000 more than the cost of building it on the present located line. The delegation from Greenville submitted a proposition to the effect that the city of Greenville would subscribe $100,000 to the road, on condition that it should be deflected from its present line and run by way of that place. After hearing argument for and against the proposition, the board adopted a resolution to procure the necessary authority from the Legislature and submit the question to the voters of the city, before it can be made. But we suppose all this could be done should the Board at any time conclude to accept the proposition. We do not see why the company should think of accepting money from any source, for it now has the entire line under contract for construction, and until the contractors fail to comply with their contract, the Company has nothing to do with the raising of money to build the road.

The contractors now have their agent in Europe endeavoring to secure a loan to build the road. He writes encouragingly and if successful no money will be wanted from any town or county along the line. But if he fails and the Company is forced to fall back upon its own resources, then, we suppose, an opportunity will be afforded all the towns, townships and counties along the line to make subscriptions and compete for the road,—the longest poll, we suppose, knocking down the persimmon. If it comes to this, and in our opinion it will (we had just as well be frank about it.) Pickens will start off $138,000 ahead of Greenville with the chances of allies as strong as Greenville and great advantage in Geographical position.

"If we are not in error, our esteemed cotemporary the Pickens SENTINEL calculated that the deflection of the Carolina, Cumberland Gap and Chicago Railroad to Greenville would cost $400,000. Chief Engineer Kirk, after a survey and a process of scientific mathematics, figures out that the cost will be $138,000.

400,000.
138,000.
262,000.

We will be compelled to refrain from betting on the figures of our esteemed cotemporary in the future if it does not do better than that."—Greenville News.

We suppose Captain Kirk is about as accurate in his figures as Engineers usually are in making experimental surveys, but we all know that work frequently doubles and trebles the estimate of Engineers, for they can not tell how much stone work they are to encounter under the surface of the ground. But accepting Captain Kirk's figure as true, we still contend that our estimate is not an exaggeration. The $138,000 represent only the primary cost of the proposed deflection, and that is a very small sum compared to the annual cost of keeping up the additional nine and a half miles of road with its trestle over George's Creek and the two bridges over Saluda river. This in the course of years would cost a great deal more than $400,000 Really our figures do not represent in the long run, one half the cost of the proposed deflection over the old route. This is doubtless well understood by Captain Kirk, the Greenville News and all others who have thought about it. We care not whether the News "bets on" our "figures" or not. We know our position is correct, and that all who are unprejudiced and are not seeking an advantage by a misrepresentation of facts, will agree with us.

Trip to Aiken.

We have given elsewhere in this issue a short account of the meeting of the Directors of the C. C. G. & C. R R and the results. We here propose to give a short account of our trip to the meeting, the country through which we passed, the impressions made upon our mind &c We took passage on the Augusta and Knoxville Railroad at Greenwood and passed through an old settled but comparatively undeveloped country, The portions of Abbeville and Edgefield counties through which the Railroad runs was, before the building of the road, one of the most isolated sections in the State, though before the war it possessed considerable wealth. The lands are susceptable of great improvement, and by proper tillage and application of manures can be made as productive and remunerative as any in the State. Flourishing and neat little towns have sprung up all along the line, and the merchants are doing a good business. At Bradley's, Troy, McCormicks, and other towns we noticed some good substantial business houses and neat residences, which are a good index to the prosperity of the places About Clarks Hill, the residence of the Hon. Geo D. Tillman, the land is more broken and less productive, but it beats any place for water melons we have seen this side of Florida. At Troy we were joined by a delegation of the business men of that place, whom we found to be cultured and agreeable companions. The road, after crossing the Savannah river to the Georgia side, runs directly down the river and along the banks of the Augusta Canal. Several large cotton factories have been erected on the banks of the canal and are now in full operation, giving employment to hundreds of poor people, paying the stock holders good dividends and adding thousands to the wealth and population of Augusta. We remained in Augusta only two hours and consequently did not have time to see much of the city, but from our limited opportunity we judge it to be a beautiful flourishing and progressive little city with a bright future before it

We arrived in Aiken, the great winter resort for Northerners, at 10 o'clock P. M. and remained until 5 o'clock the next evening. Our engagement with the board of directors prevented us seeing much of the town but what we did see of it impressed us very favorably. It is beautifully laid off, with wide, shaded streets, and has some elegant residences and good business houses. The hotel accommodations are quite extensive and first class, but the increased popularity of the town, as a winter and health resort, has given them more than they can do and nearly all the private residences have been converted into boarding houses. The town is situated amidst the sand hills and the country surrounding it is extremely poor, and unproductive. Here we met several valued acquaintances in whose company the time passed off pleasantly. In company with Col Sawyer, one of the Directors of the Penitentiary, we drove across the county to Granateville, a distance of five miles, for the purpose of taking the train on the C. C. & A. R. R. for Columbia that evening. But on arriving at the [illegible] ry and the country between that place and Columbia. There are 24 000 spindles in operation in the Granateville factory, and at Vaucluse, a short distance above Granateville, which was built from the earnings of the Granateville Factory and is under the same management, 10,000 more spindles are in operation. These Factories are in a most satisfactory condition and are paying splendid dividends to the stock holders annually. Leaving Granateville, we passed through what is known as the "Ridge" section of Edgefield County. We had heard a good deal about the "Ridge" in Edgefield but were not prepared to see such a magnificent country—almost an Eldorado. At Trenton, Lieut. Governor Sheppard came aboard the train and to him are we indebted for many interesting facts concerning the country, its development &c

The Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta Railroad was built in 1868, and at that time there was not the vestige of a town along the entire line in Edgefield county. Now there are a half dozen or more, flourishing towns, with good business houses, splendid residences and a thrifty progressive, intelligent population. Trenton, Johnson's and Spring Hill, we believe are the largest and most prosperous. The lands on the "Ridge" are level, or so gradually undulating that there is little, if any, danger from washing rains. It has been brought up to a high state of cultivation, already, and is being gradually improved from year to year. We were told that with good seasons, the land produced a bale of cotton to the acre. They have suffered there the present year, like almost every other section of the State, from the drouth, but recently good rains have fallen all along that section from Augusta to Columbia, and the crops on the "Ridge" are decidedly the best we saw anywhere else during our trip. We noticed that the farmers generally had about as much corn planted as cotton and had learned the importance of making their own hog and hominy. They also raise fine wheat and oats, and as to fruit, it grows to perfection. Many have fine orchards of peaches and are realizing from them a fine income. The farm houses are generally large, nicely painted with all necessary conveniences attached. Improved agricultural implements and labor saving machinery are being extensively introduced, and Sambo is gradually retiring from that to the less progressive sections of this and other States. We have seen no section in South Carolina that is apparently more progressive, more prosperous or more desirable to live in than the "Ridge" in Edgefield County.

Attention Company D, Hampton Legion.

There will be a meeting of the survivors of Company D, held at Williamston, S. C. Wednesday, August 14th. 1883.

Special object of the meeting, is to prepare a correct roll of members and list of killed, died and wounded

A full attendance is requested and all having any records or papers calculated to assist in this work, will please bring them.

Earthquake.

Casamicciola, a town in Italy, was almost totally destroyed by an earthquake on Saturday night, the 29th ult. A theatrical troup was playing a burlesque at the time which opened with a scene representing an earthquake, when the real earthquake came, in all its terrible reality and power. About 3,000 persons perished in the disaster.

The earthquake on the Island of Ischia was more serious than was thought. 4,000 people have perished by the falling of buildings; one great crowd being crushed in a theatre. The scenes are described as horrible in the extreme, crowds of people being engaged in seeking bodies, while the odor of the decaying corpses held fast under timbers and walls, fills the air.

Mr. James W. Martin, son of Capt. Thos W. Martin, of Anderson county lost his life one day last week by a singular accident. Being in the act of starting to the house of his father-in-law he concluded to discharge his gun which he had determined to take with him, before getting in his buggy, lest some accident should happen on the way. Stepping in the back yard he raised his gun for the purpose of cocking the hammer holding the but end not very far from his abdomen, when both barrels accidentally discharged and the gun rebounded with great force against his abdomen. Mr. Martin lived until the morning following the accident, suffering the most excruciating pain, when death relieved him of his suffering. Mr. Martin was but twenty two years old and had been but recently married.

Bought By A Syndicate.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 27.—The most important railroad transaction that has ever taken place in the South is reported to have been consummated to-day. It is the purchase of the Richmond and Danville system, or rather a controlling interest in the same, from Gen T. M. Logan and his associates, by whom it has heretofore been held. The purchasing syndicate consists of George I. Seney, George F. Baker, E. D. Fahnestock, Calvin S. Brice, Willian P. Clyde and Gen. E. T. Thomas.

This is the same syndicate that is behind the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railroad, and is the most powerful organization that has ever taken hold of Southern roads. Seney, Brice and Thomas represent the old Seney Combination and the Metropolitan National Bank. Scott is of the firm of George S. Scott & Co Baker and Fahnestock represent the first National Bank of New York, while Clyde is of the great shipping house of William P Clyde & Co.

FOUR THOUSAND MILES OF ROAD.

This party will control about 2,500 miles of the Richmond and Danville and 1,500 miles of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia, making in all about 4,000 miles of road, whose gross earnings are from ten to twelve million dollars per annum.

The property acquired perfects a system that gives direct outlet for all Mississippi River and Southwestern points to the Atlantic seaboard at Washington, Baltimore and other points. It extends from Washington, via the Virginia Midland, to Danville, Va., and from West Point, on the Chesapeak to Richmond. It then continues via the Piedmont Road, Carolina Central and Charlotte, Columbia and Augusta to Atlanta, Ga., and also via the Western and North Carolina Road through the most picturesque country in the South. The connection at the various Southern cities are represen[illegible] and Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, by a fellow passenger named O'Donnell who took passage here by the mail steamship Kinfauns Castle, which left Dartmouth on the 6th instant for Cape Town, where she transferred her passengers, who were destined to Port Elizabeth, Natal and other coast ports, to the steamship Metrose. The report of the shooting of Carey caused intense excitement in the West end of London and in the House of Commons.

Later advices about the killing of James Carey show that he was shot while landing from the steamer Velise at Port Elizabeth. O'Donnell, his slayer, is in custody. The government had taken special and expensive measures to protect Carey.

NASHVILLE, TENN., July 28.—In the case of ex-State Treasurer Marshall T. Polk, the Court to day imposed the sentence fixed by the jury who found Polk guilty. The Judge sentenced Polk to twenty years at hard labor in the Tennessee Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $366,000. A large crowd was in the court room at the time. Not a muscle in Polk's face changed when the sentence was pronounced, and he received it as calmly as he did the ball that wounded him at the battle of Shiloh. An appeal will be taken to the Supreme Court, and Polk's lawyers assert that the case will be reversed. They also said that the court may even decide that the fact of Polk's liberty having previously been placed in jeopardy by summoning and discharging the first jury acts as an acquittal.

ICE CREAM POISONING.—At the ball at Union last Thursday ice cream was among the refreshments served, and all who partook of it—some thirty or forty persons—were attacked the next day with painful illness, the symptoms strongly indicating the presence of acid poison One of the gentlemen, who recalls his paroxysms with a shudder, states that he had taken but a teaspoonful of the "frozen victuals," yet he was as painfully affected as many who had freely partaken of it. He also says that the ingredients, flavored with almond, had been prepared on Monday night and frozen on Wednesday: None of the cases of poisoning have had a fatal result, as far as heard from.

There is an epidemic of suicides throughout the country. Charleston reports a colored man who shot himself for love. Atlanta an engineer and a fallen woman who took morphine, New York the sensational Sheperd Kelly suicide and murder besides Senor Barca's and San Francisco comes forward with the self destruction of Surgeon Semig, U. S. A., who poisoned himself after making a briliant army record.

TWO HORSES STOLEN.—On Saturday night some one stole two horses from the stable of Buck Forest Hotel, N. C. One of the animals is a bay mare belonging to Joseph Carson, of this city, who is keeping the hotel. The other is a gray mare belonging to Joseph Brunson, of Pickens.—Greenville News, 2d inst.

Great excitement prevails in Silverton, Colorado, in consequence of the discovery in the National Belle Mines, in the Red Mountain district, of a cave literally overflowing with silver. Solid galena deposits project from all sides, some being as large as a wagon body, while its sides were seen to be literally a mass of solid mineral and its floor waist deep in carbonates. No estimate can now be made of the value of the ore in sight, as it is simply inexhaustible.

OBITUARY.

MISS VIRGINIA LEE BARTON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Barton, passed from the scenes of this life to the higher life beyond, on the 24th July, A. D. 1883, near Easley, S. C. Let us not say she is dead; for "the maid is not dead but sleepeth." "For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." 1 Thes. 4, 14.

As one of her first teachers it gives me great pleasure to note that she developed rare qualities of mind and heart at a very early age. She spent some months of study at the Anderson Female Seminary with Gen. F. M. Ayer, and afterwards continued her studies at the Easley High School.—Though only about nineteen years of age, she had spent about a year in teaching, and kept at her chosen work with gratifying success till Friday before her departure on Tuesday. Having congestion of the brain she suffered for a brief but happy period; for she seemed to expect and desire her taking off, and said to her fond mother "I don't see that I have much to live for," "please let me talk; I may not be able to talk to morrow." She saw the approaching world of Glory and exclaimed—

"Oh! what a beautiful Angel."

VIRGINIA was kind and gentle, fond of music, endowed with a charming voice and so became a general favorite; but being a little reserved and devoted to home and the loved ones there, she was the light of the household, and the joy of the family life. She was buried by baptism into the death of the Lord Jesus last September, by Rev. J. R. Mendenhall, who also performed the burial services at the residence of the stricken family.

"Asleep in Jesus! blessed sleep,
From which none ever wake to weep,
A calm and undisturbed repose,
Unbroken by the last of foes "

Woman.

Hope for suffering woman! Something new under the sun! By reason of her peculiar relations, and her peculiar ailments, woman has been compelled to suffer, not only her own ills, but those arising from the want of knowledge, or of consideration on the part of those with whom she stands connected in the social organization. The frequent and distressing irregularities peculiar to her sex have thus been aggravated to a degree which no language can express. In the mansions of the rich and the hovel of the poor alike, woman has been the patient victim of ills unknown to man, and which none but she could endure—and without a remedy. But now the hour of her redemption has come. She need not suffer longer, when she can find relief in DR. J. BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR, "woman's Best Friend." Prepared by DR. J. BRADFIELD, Atlanta, Ga. Price, trial size, 75c: large size, $1.50. For sale by all drug gists.

BARGAINS ARE WHAT THE PEOPLE WANT,

Not mere advertisements to attract attention to draw trade, but genuine, simon pure bargains.

The people want something more than vain pretentions for their money's worth. J. H. MORGAN & BRO'S ability and capacity is directed to that end.

The people's interest is our interest, and all the brain we possess is busily engaged studying how we can best serve the public interest.

Our Slipper trade has been immense. The prices were of course the chief inducement. We still have a small lot to close out for a mere song

We propose selling them now while it is the season in which the ladies need them. Read the list and look at the goods.

38 pair Slippers to close at $1 30 worth $1 90.

13 pair Slippers to close at $1 85 worth $2 50.

9 pair Slipper to close at $2 15 worth $2 75.

Greenville, S. C:

—o—

Never think of our names without thinking you can buy Dry Goods as cheap or cheaper from us than any House in our line of business.

The increase in our trade stands fully one-third over and above last year's sales. Our Motto is ever to "Live and let Live." What we mean by that is, we will sell at the very lowest living profit.

No Salesman in our House will be allowed to misrepresent Goods. One price only is asked for Goods, and that is the bottom price.

Because we sell you a Blue Black Cashemere at 12½ cants, do not think it is worth less—you can not match it in town for less than 16 cents.

We have sold 6,500 yards of our 12½ cents Bleached Goods at 10 cents, since first of January.

Dress Goods.

They have a very handsome line which never fails to please. They have never been more successful than this season in dress goods—three large lots having been already sold, and now they have just opened the fourth lot. They cannot account for it only in this way: When they have a customer that has "been looking around" they always tell them they have the prettiest and largest stock of dress goods to be found in town, Beautiful half-wool dress goods at 10c; they will put their 12½c cashmere dress goods against any 16c goods in town. Of this goods alone 2,000 yards have been sold, this season; it is the queen of cheap dress goods, and will last as long as goods you pay 25c for. Somebody lost some money somewhere, when they bought 40 bolts of dress goods worth 25c per yard, for they bought them so they can sell them at 16c per yard. Nun's veiling in all the new fashionable shades. W. A. B. O. G.

(They will save you money on Dress Goods.)

Black Goods.

They are their pets—the darling of their hearts. Therefore they take more pride in this department than any other, They never let a customer go out if price or quality is any consideration. Black cashmere at 12½ double width black crape goods at 20c; our 25c double width black cashmere is astonishingly nice quality for the price—only 8 yards for a dress pattern—just think of it! Black all wool bunting at 20c; black lace bunting at 16c; black cashmeres at 12½, 25 37½, 40, 50, 65, 80c and $1.00 per yard For 65c per yard they will sell you as nice goods as $1.00 would buy a few years ago Black Nun's veiling from 20 to 75c per yard black silks from 60c to $1 75 per yard; their $1.00 black silk is extra good; black alpaca 20, 25 and 33c buys their long silk finished alpaca,—as pretty as $1.00 black silk.
