Particulars of the Terrible Fate of Alexander Reid.-Shocking Story of the Murder and Assault Upon Miss Carrie Boyer and the Fate of the Murderer. On Friday week, at Gainesville, Clark county, Ala., a young lady named Carrie Boyer, seventeen years old, was waylaid while on her way home from Austin says: "Two terrible crimes from a neighbor's. She wass found dying with a bullet hole in the back of her neck and with her sku'l crushed in, A broken gunstock, with blood upon it, was found lying in the road. The gunstock was recognized as belonging to Alexander Reid, a negro living near at hand. The barrel of the broken gun was found in his house. It had blood and hair upon it. Reid fled when the avengers came to look for him. The people of Clarke and adjoining counties, both whites and blacks, organized a hunt for the murderer. The river banks had been scoured and every avenue of escape cut off. The blacks were as eager as the whites to catch the murderer. Two negroes captured him at the county line. When captured a guard was placed over Reid, who was placed in chains and marched to Gainestown. People along the road demanded that Reid sh u d be ynched, but the guard replied that he must be taken to the scene of his crime. The guard, then numbering two hundred men, reached Gainestown with the prisoner at 8 o'clock Sunday morning. The prisoner maintained sullen silence till Sunday, when he confessed his guilt.

Then he said that he had not intended to kill the young lady, but that his gun went off accidentally and wounded her. Seeing that he was in for it anyhow, he beat out her brains with the stock of the gun. The crime, it will be remembered was one of great atrocity. Reid assaulted the young lady while she was walking home after having visited a friend near Gaines-He concealed himself with his gun by the roadside and sprang on the young lady as she passed through a strip of woods. She resisted and was oo strong for him to carry out his purpose. He then struck her with his fist and gun. The brave girl fought him until he shot her and murdered her by striking her repeatedly after she

After the arrival of Reid and the guard at Gainestown it was evident that but short shrift would be allowed him. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon a crowd of five hundred persons, white and black, took the prisoner out on the road near the spot where the murder had been committed and chained him to a tree. Blacks and whites piled lightwood about the miserable criminal, and when the pile was breast high one among them applied the torch.

As the flames shot upward the negro gave shricks of agony. The crowd seeing the smoke and flames cuveloping him, did not wish him to die so easily. They scattered the brands and the man was seeu writhing in agony. Once more a pile off lightwood was constructed and the flames sprang up briskly scorching the negro terribly. Before they became fatal, however, they were ugain subdued, and again the doomed wretch was seen convulsed with terror and pain. The third time the and a search of his premises resulted pile was lighted it was allowed to do, in the discovery of bloody garments its work, and the body of Reid was

The Crop Statistics of 1885.

Estimates of the Statiscian of National Department of Agriculture the mystery of the outrage and murfor the principal crops of 1885, are computed, and the aggregate bushels discovered connects the prisoner with are as follows, in round figures: Corn the recent murders of Mrs. Hancock 1,936,000,000 bushels, wheat 357,000,- and Mrs. Phillips and the assault on 000 bushels, oats 629,000,000 bushels. the latter's husband. The wounds in-The area of corn is 73,000,000 acres; of wheat 34,000,000; of oats 23,000,000. The value of the corn averages nearly 33 cents per bushel and makes an aggregate of $635,000,000-five millions less than the value of the last crop. The decrease in the product of wheat is 30 per cent. and only 17 per cent. in the valuation, which is $275,000,000. The valuation of the oat crop is $180,-000,000. The reduction in the wheat crop is mostly in the valleys of the Ohio and in California. The States of Ohio, Indianana, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas last year produced 170,-000,000 bushels; this year 80,000,000, a reduction of 90,900,000 bushels. The production of all cereals is 53 bushels to each inhabitant, and the aggregate value is larger than any former year.

A Brave New England Town. The authorities of a New England town recently applied through their Congressman to the war department for transcripts of the military records of soldiers furnished to the army by the town during the Confederate war. To furnish these was against the ordinary rules of the department, but as value of live stock $9,018,380, agriculthey were "for historical purposes," to be used at some approaching anniversary, a concession was made. The files were examined and disclosed the fact that the names of about sixty citizens of the township had been drawn in a wheel and twenty-four of these persons were upon examination accepted. Further search disclosed the fact that twenty-three of them furnish. ufacturing establishments in the State, ed substitutes and the other fled to as compared with 2,708 in 1880. The Canada.

Business Failures in 1885.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Mercantile Agency reports that the total number of business in the United States during 1785 was 10,687, with liabilities of little more than 124,000,000, as compared with 10,968 failures in 1884, with iabilities of $226,000,000. While the failures for 1885 are only 3 per cent less in number than in 1684, the liabli-ities have decreased nearly 50 per cent. Number of traders reported in business in 1885 was 919,990; of these one in every 86 failed. In 1868, with 699, 000 traders, one in 64 came to grief. The average amount of liabilities of each failure in 1885 was $11,678, against $20,632 in 1884 and $22,399 in 1878. It is seen from these figures that while business casualties have decreased but slightly in number, they are far less significant in amount and importance.

Brace of Mysterious Murders on Christmins Eve.-A Committee of Safety (frgan ized by the Citizens. special to the Galveston News were committed in this city last night, after midnight, which will undoubtedly result in three deaths, and there is no telling how many lynchings. During the past year Austin has been horrifled every few weeks by some dastandly attack on servant women, both white and colored. Fully a dozen servants have been outraged and eight murdered within this period. The crimes all bore evidence of being perpetrated by the same person. Every effort has been made to apprehend the criminals, skilled detectives being employed. Many negroes were arrested and put through a rigid examination, but nothing came of these efforts, Many citizens and some officials held to the theory that the crimes were perpetrated by some insane person, who cunningly devised how he could shed woman's blood without appreheusion. About midnight W. H. Hancock, a well-to-do carpenter residing at 203 Water street, was awakened by groans. Entering his wife's chamber he found a vacant bed covered with blood spots. He followed the trail out of the front door around the house and into the backyard, where he found his wife weltering in a pool of blood. She had been struck twice across the head and face with a blunt axe and her skull was fractured. Although still alive, the physicians say she will surely die from her wounds. Mrs. Hancock is 40 years of age and a handsome wo-She bears an unblemished character. In the midst of the great excitement produced by this outrage the citizens were appalled at learning of a still greater crime that had been committed about the same hour several squares distant. At 1 o'clock Mrs. Phillips, residing at 308 Hickory street, was awakened by the cries of her grandson. Entering the room of her son, James Phillips, she found the infant on the bed covered with blood, and Phillips lying senseless from a terrible blow on the head. Ella Phillips, the wife, was missing. The affrighted neighbors followed a bloody trail and found her body lying in the back yard of the adjoining premises. Death had resulted from a blow on the forchead with an axe. Across the body lay heavy rails. Her person had been outraged. There is no clue in either case. The excitement on the streets during the day was very great. Christmas was forgotten. The Mayor called a meeting of the citizens at the State House and nearly a thousand responded to the call, and a committee of public safety was organized. The feeling over these last outrages is intense. A house-to-house search for the bloody handed murderers will probably be made." A special to the Galveston News from Austin says: "Eustacio Martinez, a Mexican, about forty years old was arrested Thursday night on suspicion of being implicated in the mysterious murders which have recently startled the citizens of Austin. He lived in a secluded spot near the river The family. Among the articles found momes, was an ice hook, such as experts testi-This is the second incident of the fied might have been used in the murder of Mrs. Ramey and daughter several months ago. A prayer-book with the name "Ella R. Ramey" written on the title page was also manner tied to the stake and roasted found, together with two handkerchtefs, one of which bore the initials "J. R." worked in silk. The other was marked "A." The detectives think the arrest of Martinez will clear der of the Ramey woman. Evidence flicted on Mrs. Phillips head are very similar to the wound on the Ramey girl and were probably inflicted with the same instrument. Martinez shows signs of being a "crank." He admits he was imprisoned for two years in Brownsville for assaulting a woman, Old blood stains on his clothing are being examined by scientists."

SOUTH CAROLINA'S PROSPERITY.

How the State Begins the New Year--In-[dustrial Growth the Past Five Years.

The News and Courier prints a review of the industrial growth and resources of South Carolina covering period of five years since the United States census of 1880. The review shows an increase of $25,142,865 in the value of real and personal property, of nearly 20 per cent. decrease (more than $500,000) in the public debt of the State during the same period. In 1880 the value of the products of the State and of agricultural machinery was $74,189,879; in 1885 the value is $114,908,647—an increase of $40,718. tural productions $8,629,221, agricultural machinery $1,405,978, manufactured products $21,665,249.

Individual deposits in State and National banks during the past year show an increase of $911,086. The commercial capital is estimated at $46,982,000, as compared with $40,-156,000 in 1880. There are 3,256 mancapital employed has increased from $11,205,894 to $23,367,510, while the products have increased from $16,738,-008 to $38,403,259. During the five years 240 miles of railroad have been built, at a cost of $2,600,000. In fine, the review shows that the people have added in five years $66,300,000 to the total wealth of South Carolina.

A Terrible Tragedy.

At Mount Pleasant village, near Charleston on Wednesday a terrible tragedy was enacted. E. Geretti, an Italian, was beating his wife when his brother, S. Geritti, and James P. Colburn, a well-known insurance agent of Charleston, interfered in the woman's behalf. The wife with her four children escaped from her infuriated husband who, incensed at the interference crept up behind Colonra and fired three shots at him, one of the balls lodging near the spine and inflicting what was though' to be a fatal wound. After shooting Colburn, Geretti fled to his farm about a quarter of a mile distant, pursued by the town marshal and a posse. He locked himself up in his house, and the posse being unarmed, he defied them to arrest him. While his pursuers were deliberating Geretti placed the muzzle of his pistol to his month and blew out his brains. Later accounts are that Colburn's wound is not serious, and that he will recover.

following letter from the President: EXECUTIVE MANSION, Dec. 28. The Hon. D. W. Voorhees-My Dear Sir: I understand that a movement is on foot to erect a monument to the memory of the late Vice-President, and that it is to be a tribute to his worth and services on the part of his friends and associates. This project is so fitting and appropriate that it seems to me it must meet general approval. My relations with Mr. Hendricks, both personal and official, were such that it would be a source of much satisfaction to me to see this good work promptly begun, and at the proper time I hope I may be allowed to aid the undertaking.

Yours, sincerely, GROVER CLEVELAND. In reply to the President's communication Senator Voorhees wrote as

UNITED STATES SENATE, Dec. 29. Mr. President: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your highly esteemed favor of yesterday. On behalf of the immediate personal friends of the late Vice-President and of the great body of the people of Indiana, I feel authorized to tender you their very grateful and sincere thanks for your kindly and timely interest in a movement so honorable to his memory and so well carned by his public ser vices and his private virtues. Permit me to assure you that no act on your part, in the midst of your incessant labors for the public good, will be longer cherished or more highly prized by the people of his State than your sympathy in their efforts to erect a monument to his fame. With the highest respect and warmest personal ngnest respect an faithfully, yours, regard, I am, very faithfully, yours, D. W. Voorнees.

The Money to be Raised Privately.

Indiana Democrats and their friends will hold a meeting in Washington on the 8th inst., for the purpose of forwarding the scheme for a monument to the late Thomas A. Hendricks. Several prominent Indiana people have taken the thing in charge and the prospeet is that a committee will be organized for the purpose of assisting the State Committee in carrying out their work. The friends of Mr. Hendricks deprecate the introduction of the bill by Frank Lawler, of Chicago, appropriating $10,000 out of the Public Treasury for the purpose of the mon-ument. These friends say that no government contribution is needed. nor will it be accepted even if granted. It is considered a bad precedent on the part of other members of Congress to introduce a bill for monumental purposes. A number of very prominent men have died recently and the success of the movement in favor of the monu ment to Mr. Hendricks would result in a general onslaught on the 'a reasury in which the friends of the late President Grant, General Shields, General George B. McClellan and other distinguished ex-soldiers would be the beneficiaries. It is understood that bills will be introduced voting funds for monuments for General Shields, General McClellan and General Grant. If any of these bills should pass it would furnish a precedent for the passage of the others, so it is thought in-advisable that any one of them should go through.
